Hatch Asks a 'Cleanup' of States in Bitter Battle on Floor.

Motion Defeated By Scant 2 Votes

PWA Given 'Free Hand' to Make Competitive Power Loans.

By Robert C. Albright.

The Senate last night refused to bar relief employes and officials from political activities in conventions, primaries or general elections, during a pitched floor battle over fresh charges of "politics in relief."

The ban on political use of vast spending-lending bill funds was rejected by a 39-to-37 roll call vote after Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, the Senate's Administration leader, took the floor to oppose it.

Barkley, opposed for re-election by Gov. A. B. Chandler, of Kentucky, complained that State highway employes and "others paid out of the Treasury of the United States, would be free to roam around and play politics to their heart's content," while relief employes would be "tied with a rope to a tree."

Hatch Urges "Clean-Up."

The amendment was sponsored by an Administration Senator—Hatch (Democrat), of New Mexico—who urged that a drive be made to "clean up the States" and declared "those who say they see no politics in relief are more credulous than I am."

The debate became bitter as Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, aimed new political charges at Works Progress Administrator Hopkins, and the row became personal as Senators being opposed for re-election by "100 per cent New Deal candidates" entered the fray.

The vote came in an extended night session after the Senate earlier in the day overwhelmingly rejected all restrictions on the Public Works Administration's present power to make loans and grants to municipalities for construction of power plants in competition with going private systems.

Compromise Rejected.

An effort ot compromise the power dispute by permitting PWA grants for this purpose when private systems declined a fair purchase offer, arbitrated by a board, was made by Senator Maloney (Democrat), of Connecticut.

But the Maloney amendment was

Lily Pons Marries Orchestra Leader On 13th Proposal

Norwalk, Conn., June 2 (U.P.).—Lily Pons, operatic soprano and film actress, today was married to Andre Kostelanetz, debonair orchestra leader, who admitted proposing to her 12 times before she accepted.

Kostelanetz gave his age as 36 and his birthplace Petrograd (now Leningrad), Russia. The dark-haired singer gave her age as 33, and her birthplace Draguignan, France.

Miss Pons' first husband was a plump Dutch financier, August Mesritz, whom she met as a girl when she was recovering from an illness at Cannes, France. Mesritz, many years older than the singer, guided her early career. They were divorced in 1933.

Europe Awaits Aliens' Recall In Spain's War

Russia Agrees to Plan to Withdraw Volunteers From Both Sides.

By the Associated Press.

London, June 2.—Withdrawal of foreign fighters from the Spanish civil war drew nearer tonight after nearly two years of bickering among Europe's major powers.

If the plan works, Great Britain will throw her diplomatic power into an effort to bring about a truce in Spain.

(In Paris, Jose Antonio Aguirre, former president of the Basque Republic, admitted the possibility of mediation by outside powers in the Spanish war.)

Russia, at a meeting of the nine-nation nonintervention sub-committee, agreed to the proposal for sending commissions to Spain for removing 10,000 volunteers from each side as a sign of goodwill.

However, remembering many previous disappointments in the efforts to obtain agreement on withdrawal, the British foreign office warned against undue optimism.

Franco Blasts Towns.

Hendaye, France, June 2 (U.P.).—Gen. Franco tonight sent fleets of bombers roaring down the Teruel-Sagunto highway, blasting towns and villages, as heavy loyalist reinforcements from Madrid slowed the drive of his land forces toward the Mediterranean.

The reinforced loyalist, using the same guerrilla tactics that resulted in the Italian rout at Guadalajara, above Madrid, 15 months ago, reported the spearhead of Franco's advance along the highway had been thrown back around More de Rubielos.

Government communiques said three important hills dominating the artery had been recaptured.

10 Dead, Six Hurt In Pa. Mine Blast

Scranton, Pa., June 2 (AP).—Ten miners were killed by a gas explosion today in a deep slope of the Volpe Coal Co.'s mine in this eastern Pennsylvania anthracite field.

Two other miners were reported missing and six were seriously burned. Survivors said a rock fall preceded the explosion, shutting off the ventilation, and that accumulated gases were ignited either by the miners' lamps or sparks from motors.

Mexican Railroads Issue 'Ultimatum'

Mexico City, June 2 (AP).—Mexico's union-operated railways today gave industry the choice of accepting freight-rate increases ranging up to 100 per cent or subscribing to a loan of about $10,650,000.

The railways, nationalized by President Cardenas a year ago and turned over to the Railway Workers' Union to operate May 1, said the funds were needed to help restore them to a sound financial basis.

Czech Leader Lays Treason To Henlein

By the United Press.

Prague, June 2.—A formal demand for the arrest and prosecution of Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German leader, on charges of high treason was placed before the state's attorney tonight by Dr. Vlastimil Klima, a leader of the Czech National League.

The charges were based on a recent interview said to have been given by Henlein to Ward Price, correspondent of the London Daily Mail.

Henlein was quoted as saying that, although he sought a peaceful solution of the Sudeten demands for autonomy, the government's attitude eventually might lead to armed conflict.

Klima's charge was based on the government's law for defense of the republic. He presented a statement by Ward Price that, despite denials by the Sudeten German party headquarters, Henlein's statement to him was correctly reproduced.

Reserves Demobilized.

It was confirmed that the government has partially demoblized two classes of Czech military reserves, called to the colors May 21 when war threatened along the German-Czech frontier.

No official reason was given, and government officials maintained strict silence toward London and Paris reports of demobilizations in the frontier zones.

Henlein was quoted as saying that if the Czechoslovak government conceded full autonomy to the Sudeten German districts and their 3,500,000 inhabitants, "the present national frontiers of Czechoslovakia will remain unchanged and the central government will have authority over all matters concerning the community as a whole."

Will Demand Right.

If this autonomy is denied, Henlein was quoted as saying, the Sudeten Germans will demand "the right of self-determination denied us under the peace treaties," meaning a plebiscite under foreign control.

"The question put to the Sudetens

Czechs Release Friend of Hitler And U. S. Student

Carlsbad, Czechoslovakia, June 2. (U.P.).—Miss Unity Valkyrie Freeman-Mitford, 24, blonde beauty and friend of Adolph Hitler, was released from surveillance on suspicion of being a Nazi spy today and left for Germany. She was accompanied by William F. Rueff, 22, Chicago art student, and Philip Stranklyn, young British writer, who were seized with her.

Before releasing Miss Freeman-Mitford, fourth daughter of Lord Redesdale, the Czech authorities restored to her an autographed photo of Hitler and a Nazi badge.

The United States legation in Prague, appealed to by Rueff, who said he had "never been treated so badly," studied the case today.

New Yorker Made Aide to Dr. Frank

Chicago, June 2 (AP).—Dr. Glenn Frank, chairman of the Republican program committee, today announced appointment of Dr. Thomas H. Reed, of New York, as director of studies to be made for the committee's audit of New Deal policies.

Dr. Reed was given leave of absence from his duties as director of consultant service for the National Municipal League.

U. S. Demands Fulfilled.

By the Associated Press.

With a swiftness astonishing in modern diplomacy, Japan gave in along most of the line yesterday to United States demands for restitution of American property in China and return of American businessmen and missionaries to their posts.

Japan began to act within a few hours after receipt of the strong American note announced Wednesday and delivered Tuesday.

Her first step, announced by American Consul General Frank P. Lockhart at Shanghai, was to agree Tuesday to the return to Nanking of American missionaries formerly resident there. Lockhart said ten passes had been issued for this purpose.

High Schools Restored.

The second step was restoration Wednesday of the two high schools of the American Southern Baptist mission in the Chapei district of Shanghai.

The third step, reported by Ambassador Grew at Tokyo, was the announcement yesterday by the Japanese foreign office that Japan was sending an interdepartmental committee to visit the Japanese-controlled area in central China.

The purpose is "not only to investigate the situation relating to the occupancy of American property, but also to formulate means for satisfactory adjustment of the situation."

This, according to the State Department, refers particularly to the $1,000,000 University of Shanghai, owned by the Northern and Southern Baptist Mission Boards and now occupied by Japanese troops.

Other Points at Issue.

The interdepartmental committee will settle points still at issue, which are:

The actual return to the Baptist Missions of Shanghai University.

Payment for damages suffered by the university and other mission and business properties belonging to Americans in China.

Treasury Move Is Aimed to 'Clear Decks' for New Borrowing.

$1,214,000,000 Notes Will Be Taken Up on June 15.

By the Associated Press.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced last night $1,214,000,000 worth of Treasury notes maturing in June and September would be refunded on June 15.

The type of security to be offered in exchange will be disclosed Monday. The maturing notes are $618,000,000 of 2⅞ per cent notes due June 15, and $596,000,000 of 2½ per cent notes due September 15.

The Secretary explained the September maturities would be refunded in June to "clear the decks" in event it is necessary to borrow new money in the fall to finance the new spending program.

Will Adjust Interest.

Holders of the September notes will have to accept the exchange offer in June, if at all, but will receive an adjustment on interest payments to take care of the premature exchange, Treasury spokesmen said. Holders of both the June and September notes, who decline the exchange, offer, will be paid off in cash on the maturity dates.

Morgenthau also announced a rearrangement of plans for issuing short-term Treasury bills. This will have the effect of reducing the outstanding amount of bills from the present $1,500,000,000 to $1,300,000,000 by August 31. Each week from now until August 31 $100,000,000 worth of bills will be sold, although the amount maturing in different weeks of the same period varies from $50,000,000 to $150,000,000.

Public Debt to Fall.

The net effect of the Treasury program will be to reduce the public debt from its present level of $37,420,000,000 to about $37,220,000,000 by fall. The reduction will be temporary, however, because Secretary Morgenthau already has indicated that approximately $2,000,000,000 may have to be borrowed in the

When the President Slept, 'Ungracefully but Soundly'

A quarter of a century ago I began coming to graduation exercises at the United States Naval Academy. I find it a good custom and I hope to be following it occasionally when I have reached the age of the oldest admiral on the retired list. As a retired commander-in-chief of the Navy I could do nothing else.

The President at Annapolis

The only time I disgraced myself was, I think, during the World War. Because of the strenuous work in the Navy Department, I was a bit in arrears on sleep. The temperature in Dahlgren Hall was in the neighborhood of a hundred. There I was sitting on the right of the superintendent of the Naval Academy. The speaker of the occasion began his address. My eyes slowly but firmly closed. I think my mouth fell open. I slept ungracefully but soundly directly in front of the eyes of the entire graduating class. Could anything be more unmilitary, more humiliating—but more satisfactory?—*President Franklin D. Roosevelt addressing the graduation class of the United States Naval Academy yesterday at Annapolis. Chicago Prisoner Admits Slaying 4 Women and Girl

Chicago, June 2 (U.P.).—Robert Nixon, 18, colored, who had previously confessed to the brick slayings of two women, admitted tonight the murder of a third Chicago woman and the double slaying in Los Angeles of a mother and daughter.

The police listed Nixon's five victims as Mrs. Florence Johnson, slain with a brick early last Friday morning; Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, murdered June 28, 1936; Miss Anna Kutcha, student nurse, killed August 21, 1937, all of Chicago; and Mrs. Edna Worden and her 12-year-old daughter, Marguerite, of Los Angeles, killed last year. Nixon named Howard J. Green, another colored man now in custody, as his accomplice in the California murders.

Gillette Attacks New Dealer for Activity in Iowa

Dubuque, Iowa, June 2 (AP).—Senator Gillette tonight raked "Tommy Corcoran and his crowd of non-Iowans" for attempting to influence Iowa Democrats in the selection of a senatorial nominee.

Gillette carried his campaign into eastern Iowa Democratic strongholds, where Representative Wearin also is making a final drive for votes in the senatorial battle. Wearin is claiming Administration support.

Gillette declared Wearin had the support of Corcoran, New Deal strategist; Gov. Philip La Follette, of Wisconsin; Representative Maverick, of Texas; WPA Chief Harry Hopkins, of New York, and Homer Martin, of Detroit, president of the United Automobile Workers' Union.

1,800 Search Florida For Man With Accent As Abductor of Child

Md. Survey Sees Youth in 'Social Trap'

Economic Vicious Circle Revealed by Talks to 13,528.

Existence of a "vicious circle of economic determinism," whose depressing effect on American youth can lead to profound changes in political and social institutions, is described in a report of the American Youth Commission, published today by Howard M. Bell.

Based on hour-long interviews with 13,528 Maryland youths, 16 to 24 years old, Bell's conclusions are contained in a 255-page report, "Youth Tell Their Story." Included in the youths interviewed were young men and women from Prince Georges County and from Baltimore.

Social Standing "Frozen."

Examining homelife, education, earning-power and social attitudes, Bell concludes that "underneath the placid surface of our social scheme of things there operates a striking concurrence of social and economic forces that tends to freeze social levels and groups into a sort of perennial status quo."

The father's income, education and standard of living, Bell indicates, generally predict the standards of accomplishments of his children. The poorer the family, his study shows, the greater the number of children, the less their education, and the less likelihood of the children advancing economically or socially.

"There are cogent social, as well as political and economic, reasons for making every effort to break up this conspiracy of forces that tends to keep certain groups more or less permanently submerged," he reports.

"A decent social conscience demands that equality of opportunity be made more real. The enduring health and efficiency of a democracy demands an awareness of fundamental issues without which the vote must eventually become a meaningless gesture and pawn of demagogues."

3,000,000 Lack Jobs.

The median wage for youth interviewed in Maryland, the survey points out, is $12.96 weekly. From his figures, Bell estimates that 3,000,000 youths are employed through-

SEC Aide Told How $5 Ruled $16,000,000

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 2.—How a small group with an original investment of $5 got control of seven investment trusts with combined assets of $16,000,000 was told today by a witness at a Securities Exchange Commission hearing.

Six of the group are under indictment in District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's investigation into what he called "the biggest financial deal in years." Four are under arrest.

Dewey said that the $5 was spent to incorporate the Fiscal Management Co., Ltd., a Canadian holding corporation, and that thereafter the men substituted worthless securities for marketable ones to repay money they had borrowed to purchase control.

It was in such a manner, Dewey said, that they took some $10,000,000 of the $16,000,000 represented by the assets of the trusts.

Harold G. Grow of Detroit, told Trial Examiner Adrian C. Humphreys and David Schencker, S. E. C. counsel, he had no suspicion of what was happening last summer when some of the men, having contracted to manage the First Income Trading Corporation, used the corporation's own portfolio of marketable securities to negotiate a loan to take over the firm.

Rumor Is Current That Boy Is Dead

2 Montgomery County Policemen Mistaken for Kidnapers.

By the United Press.

Princeton, Fla., June 2.—Federal agents tonight indicated the fate of Jimmy Cash, 5, and the identity of his kidnapers still were unknown as they sought a man with a slight foreign accent as his abductor.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was in seclusion, but aides, when told of conflicting rumors that the boy was dead and a suspect had confessed, said Hoover's afternoon statement of no development still stood.

From the Florida Keys to the Miami playground, rumors developed almost by the second. Most of the reports—all unconfirmed—said the blue-eyed boy had been found dead.

All Hope Abandoned.

Most of Florida believed the reports. Convinced the child either had been murdered after his father—James B. Cash, sr.—paid a $10,000 ransom, or died of exposure in the Everglades hideaway, Floridians had abandoned all hope for the boy as early as yesterday.

Participating in the most intensive manhunt in the State's history, more than 1,800 men swept through the Redlands farming district, the Everglades and along the Florida keys seeking clews.

When the searchers' work ended with sundown, there was no official indication of progress, but when the hundreds who participated in the manhunt returned to their homes, a word-of-mouth grapevine began to circulate reports.

Residents remained close by radios or stood packed in tense crowds before newspaper offices awaiting bulletins.

[Hoover's aides apparently were continuing to question a number of persons they thought might throw some light on the crime. The Miami Herald said they included Willard Campbell, Miami roadhouse proprietor; John Campbell, his brother, who operates a resort at Princeton; James Herndon, M. F. Braxton, and his son-in-law, Ray Rayburn, the Associated Press said. —Editor's note.]

Talked to Colored Man.

The fact that the kidnaper talked with a slight foreign accent was revealed by the one person who met him. He was a colored man known as John, who lives in the rich Redlands farm district not far from the home of James B. Cash, sr., father of the boy.

After the abduction, a man appeared at John's home and sought to pay him to deliver a note to

Wealthy Explorer Leaves for Hawaii In $250,000 Plane

San Diego, Calif., June 2 (U.P.).—Richard Archbold, heir to a Standard Oil fortune, took off for Honolulu with five companions at 2:44 p. m. (Pacific standard time) today on the first leg of a flight to Dutch New Guinea in his $250,000 "flying laboratory" plane.

The sky was slightly overcast as the plane, weighing 14 tons, lifted from San Diego Bay.

Archbold, 30-year-old explorer and naturalist, expected to fly the 2,267 miles to Honolulu in 18 hours. Weather reports indicated a clear ceiling all the way.

25-Cent Wage Floor Is Urged On Conferees

Compromise to Provide Higher Standards But Allow Exemptions.

By the Associated Press.

A rock-bottom minimum wage of 25 cents an hour was one of the major suggestions laid before a Senate-House Conference Committee struggling to reconcile differences on wage-hour legislation yesterday.

No industry affected by the bill would be granted exemptions from this figure.

The suggestion was put forward with the idea that the bill, as finally agreed upon, might provide general standards higher than 25 cents, but might give a Government agency power to exempt certain industries from these standards.

There was said to be strong sentiment in the committee to establish some bedrock figure below which such exemptions could not go. It was suggested that, besides the 25-cent-an-hour minimum, the committee agree upon 44 hours a week as the absolute standard beyond which exemptions could not be granted.

Compromise Sought.

If such a compromise were reached, it would incorporate provisions of both the House and Senate bills, committee members pointed out.

The House measure calls for a 25-cent minimum wage, increasing to 40 cents in three years, and a 44-hour week declining to 40 hours after two years. The Senate bill sets 40 cents an hour and 40 hours a week as standards, but permits a board of five to excuse individual firms from complying.

One of the Southern Senators who has been active in the fight against wage-hour legislation, but who is not a member of the conference committee, said the Southerners would agree to accept a 25-cent minimum wage if provisions were made extending the time over which it would be advanced to 40 cents.

Randolph Given Post.

Advocates of flexible wage provisions were cheered, meanwhile, by the appointment to the committee of Representative Randolph (Democrat), of West Virginia. He replaced Representative Griswold (Democrat), of Indiana, who was unable to serve because of illness.

This appointment placed a fourth member on the House group who voted in a House committee for the wage-hour bill of Representative Ramspeck (Democrat), of Georgia, providing for an administrative board somewhat similar to that which would be set up in the Senate bill. The House-approved measure which was sent to conference provided rigid standards, and no board empowered to ease them.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), Utah, said he thought the conference committee could complete its work in time for a June 11 adjournment.

Inquiry Asked Into Insurance Adjustments

Investigation of insurance adjustments by the House District Committee was demanded yesterday by Representative Withrow (Progressive), of Wisconsin, in a resolution introduced in the House.

Withrow charged that local insurance adjusters are unduly delaying settlement of claims, that a few companies control all auto adjustments, and many persons are forced to accept smaller payments than are due them.

"I have become convinced that the poorest people, the people without influence, are not being treated fairly, in that certain groups of adjusters will never settle their cases on a fair and equitable basis," he said.

"When this resolution is enacted, I intend to ask the committee to call before it some of these adjusting agencies in the city.

"I feel that some of these adjusters are quick to adjust cases where leading figures in the economic and political world are involved in accidents, but that poor people are being ignored."

The resolution authorizes an investigation by the full District Committee or a sub-committee.

The investigation will cover "all organizations and individuals adjusting claims for property damage liability, collision, upset, bodily injury liability, glass damage, fire, theft, tornado, earthquake, flood, personal liability and other forms of insurance commonly written on automobiles and other private conveyances."

Tuberculosis Must Be Fought In Youth, Mrs. Grant Believes

MRS. ERNEST R. GRANT.

'Children Should Receive Major Proportion of Consideration,' Says Woman Who Has Led Battle on Disease Here Since 1919.

By Christine Sadler

In working for the improvement of health conditions, especially as they touch on tuberculosis, Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, managing director of the District of Columbia Tuberculosis Association, believes that "children should receive a major portion of consideration."

"Children are especially susceptible to the hazards of tuberculosis infection. They are, therefore, one of the most important keys to the future prevention of this menacing disease . . .

"Undernourishment, overcrowding in substandard homes, especially where there is an active case of tuberculosis, make a child an easy prey to this communicable disease, or to any other diseases that may be abroad in the community.

"For this reason I believe children should be given advantage of every available facility that will safeguard their health," she says.

Worked Here Since 1919.

Mrs. Grant has been actively connected with work against tuberculosis in the District since 1919, when she became a director of the association she now manages. From that date until 1923 she headed the Children's Modern Health Crusade, which grew out of the interest in health aroused by the World War and was a national campaign designed to dramatize for children their daily health habits and other health factors in the war against disease.

It was during her leadership of the movement that Washington was awarded the national silver trophy for the city enrolling the largest number of child health crusaders—36,000.

Another monument to her work is the Children's Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Glenn Dale. To get the sanatorium was a 25-year fight in which numerous organizations and leaders joined; but to the tenacity of purpose and energy of Mrs. Grant is credited in large measure the victory of winning Congress over to make the appropriation which assured the Glenn Dale setup.

Advocates Hospitalization.

One of her desires at the present time is to have all beds at the sanatorium filled with District children who need the treatment. She has long maintained that many of the children who have tuberculosis cannot be treated in their homes nearly so well as in hospitals. In the homes where money is plentiful, yes; but not in the homes where living conditions are sub-standard. She stresses that tuberculosis preys most heavily on the youth of the Nation and that more thorough case work and intensive treatment among children would be the most effective means of stamping it out.

Mrs. Grant is a native of Illinois, went to Chicago when she was married, and came to Washington from St. Louis in 1918. Her hobbies are playing the piano—for her own amusement—and reading philosophy. She loves to cook, and would do more of it—if there were no dishes to be washed afterward. Motoring is one of her recreations, but she's always glad when the trip is long enough to permit her to travel by plane.

Before she began giving so much of her time to tuberculosis organizations, she was an active member of the National League of American Pen Women. She wrote health articles for national magazines and feature stories for newspapers. She is credited with the publicity idea for launching the annual sale of Christmas tuberculosis seals with a picture of the President making the first purchase.

On Monday.—Mrs. Harlan F. Stone, president of the Travelers' Aid Society and the Instructive Visiting Nurses' Association, will be next in the "Working for Washington" series.

Ex-Navy Aide Says 'Sea Lords' Bungle U. S. Fleet Control

New York, June 2 (U.P.).—Lieut. Comdr. Holden A. Evans, U. S. N., resigned, charged today in a magazine article that organization of the American Navy is "bungling, unworkable and ridiculously expensive."

Writing in Collier's, Evans contended that while Great Britain's "war machine is geared for active duty in 24 hours" the American equivalent "is not and never will be as long as the present organization remains unchanged." Evans summarized the following as to blame for Navy mismanagement:

"The sea-lord clique, with its contempt for civilians and its insistence that only line officers rise to power.

"Wasted manpower in unnecessary shore assignments.

"Rotation of duty that prevents the development of specialists.

"The unfair system of promotion.

"Lack of proper management in navy yards and naval industrial plants."

Senate, House Groups Agree On Marine Bill

Copeland, Bland Predict Measure Will Pass This Session.

By the Associated Press.

New ship subsidy legislation, aimed at restoring the American merchant marine to world eminence, won approval of a joint Congressional committee yesterday. It represented a compromise between separate bills passed by the House and Senate.

Chairman Copeland (Democrat), of New York, of the Senate Commerce Committee, and Chairman Bland (Democrat), of Virginia, of the House Merchant Marine Committee, predicted enactment at this session.

The conference committee eliminated Senate provisions permitting the Maritime Commission to award contracts to foreign yards if bids of domestic yards were double or nearly double foreign quotations.

Labor Board Approved.

The conference group agreed that the commission might reject domestic bids found to be "unreasonable, excessive or collusive." After such rejection the commission could negotiate with domestic yards to lower costs.

House conferees agreed to a Senate provision authorizing creation of a maritime labor board to mediate maritime labor disputes, only when both sides requested it.

Maritime labor spokesmen won elimination of a Senate provision authorizing Government training for merchant marine officers and seamen.

The compromise measure provides:

Reduction in the down payment a ship line or operator must make on vessels built with Federal subsidies. The payment would be reduced from 25 per cent of the total cost to as little as 12½ per cent.

Allocation of new ship construction so that Pacific Coast and Gulf Coast yards might share the work despite slightly higher costs.

Authority for the commission to fix minimum rates, fares and charges of American merchant shipping, except on the Great Lakes.

Insurance for ship mortgages.

Liberalizing debt, reserve and profit regulations.

Oil Price Fixers Fined $360,000 by Federal Judge

Madison, Wis., June 2 (AP).—Thirteen major oil companies and 11 of their officials were fined a total of $360,000 and $25,000 costs by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone today on charges of illegally fixing the margin of profit for Midwestern independent wholesale gasoline jobbers.

Accepting the defendants' pleas of nolo contendere, the court imposed fines of $15,000 on each company and individual.

Nine other companies and eight individuals refused to enter nolo contendere pleas and will go to trial here September 26.

Palmisano Missing, Slum Bills Halted

The District's prospective $15,000,000 slum reclamation and low-cost housing program was delayed again yesterday by absence from the city of Chairman Palmisano (Democrat), of Maryland, of the House District Committee.

The two houses of Congress have passed bills identical except for language. All that is necessary for the amendments which will make the program possible is for Palmisano to request consent of the House of the Senate amendments. The action would take less than five minutes.

'Sub' Builders Are Ordered to Rehire Strikers

By the United Press.

Overruling contentions that the men "had endangered the national defense," the National Labor Relations Board last night ordered the Electric Boat Co., of Groton, Conn., which builds most of the Navy's submarines, to reinstate 125 sit-down strikers.

The men, members of the C. I. O.'s Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, were discharged February 23, 1937, after a one-day sit-down strike and fined $3 each for violating a Connecticut trespass statute.

The NLRB asserted the company's claim that the men had "endangered the national defense by passing through restricted areas" within the plant "would not bear scrutiny," and added:

Only Visitors Barred.

"The so-called restricted areas were barred only to visitors to the plant. Employes were regularly permitted to go anywhere in the plant without a pass. The fact, therefore, that the machine shop, which was in the same building as the weld shop occupied by the strikers, is a restricted area is of no consequence. Nor is there any importance to the fact that the blueprint room is also in the same building. There is no evidence that the blueprint room was entered by any strikers or that the blueprints were disturbed in any way."

The board pointed out that no property was damaged or persons injured during the strike, and that since State authorities had treated the strike as a misdemeanor, the board should not "attempt to inflict a further and more drastic penalty."

"It is true that the board in its discretion has withheld orders for reinstatement of strikers because of crimes committed during the course of strikes," the board said. "But in each case the crime has been a far more serious offense, amounting to a felony rather than a misdemeanor as here, and involving such conduct as shooting or dynamiting."

Other Rulings Given.

The board also held that officials of the National Licorice Co. had pursued a course of coercion toward employes and ordered it to disestablish the collective bargaining committee of its Brooklyn plant and bargain with the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

In another finding, it ordered the United Carbon Co., Inc., of Charleston, W. Va., to cease discouraging membership in the Oil Workers International Union, of the Committee for Industrial Organization, at its eight carbon black factories near Borger, Tex.

The Gallup Poll

By Dr. George Gallup,
Director American Institute of Public Opinion.

New York, June 2.—The raising of church funds by means of lotteries and games of chance, a practice which has caused sharp controversy among clergymen, is approved by a small majority of Catholic church members, and opposed by Protestant and other denominations, according to a Nation-wide survey.

George Gallup.

With the lottery issue thrown into the limelight recently when Bishop Manning of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York denounced the raising of church money by "gambling games or gambling devices," the American Institute of Public Opinion asked church members and non-church members throughout the country:

Favor Church Lotteries	Oppose
Catholics 58%	42%
Protestants 21	79
Other Denominations 23	77
Non-Church Members 35	65
Combined National Vote 31	69

Those voters of the Protestant and Catholic faiths who oppose church lotteries declared that the practice is "against the principles of the church." Some called it "unchristian" and "immoral." One voter, a young Protestant student, said: "I don't think Jesus would have approved gambling in the church."

But strong convictions were expressed on the other side of the issue. Among Catholics who favor raising funds through games of chance the most typical comment was: "Gambling goes on anyway, and the church needs the money. Besides, the games the churches use are harmless."

A number of voters also declared that it is better to use gambling for a good cause than just for the sake of gambling. Said one aged Protestant churchgoer: "You can gamble in worse places than a church."

Farmers Most Opposed.

The highest opposition to church lotteries was found in the farm areas. Farmers in the survey voted more than 8 to 2 against the practice, whereas residents of urban areas were only about 6 to 4 opposed. The survey also found a higher degree of opposition among women than among men.

Churches Lack Funds.

The lottery question is of special interest today as churches and other institutions feeling the pinch of depression face curtailment of their work through lack of funds. Depression has also brought a revival of interest in lotteries to pay the cost of various governmental activities, such as feeding the unemployed. In a national survey reported two weeks ago, the Institute found that lotteries to pay the cost of government are approved by approximately half of voters throughout the country.

Another survey on President Roosevelt's popularity with U. S. voters will appear in Sunday's Post. Be sure to see it.

Safety Leaders Open Va. Parley

Norfolk, Va., June 2 (AP).—The executive committee and various committee chairmen met informally tonight on the eve of the fourth Virginia State-wide Safety Conference.

Mayor W. R. L. Taylor, of Norfolk, at the opening session tomorrow morning will welcome the delegates, representing 80 organizations sponsoring the conference. The response will be made by Lee Long, of Dante, representing the Virginia Coal Operators Association.

The conference's eight sections will hold 20 sessions tomorrow and Saturday to organize the State's safety efforts for the year.

Earle Predicts Victory With Guffey in Fold

By the Associated Press.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 2.—Senator Joseph F. Guffey's pledge of support for the Democratic nominees today closed one breach in Pennsylvania's New Deal ranks and brought from Gov. George H. Earle a prediction of "certain victory" over the Republicans in November.

Guffey verified State Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence's assertion that the bitter primary split between the two leaders had been ended.

Guffey made no mention of C. I. O. Chief John L. Lewis, with whom he teamed in backing the unsuccessful gubernatorial candidacy of Thomas Kennedy. He rejoined the State committee forces that supported Charles Alvin Jones, the gubernatorial winner, in a statement made at Washington.

Guffey said he was coming to Harrisburg tonight for a conference tomorrow with Lawrence and Edward N. Jones, publicity director for the Kennedy campaign committee.

The State's C. I. O. forces have decided to determine their future political policies by consulting "responsible political leaders and candidates."

Philadelphia, June 2 (AP).—Matthew H. McCloskey, chairman of the Democratic State committee's finance committee, said today he would not allow himself to be "thrown out" of his party position.

He made this comment on reports that he would retire to bring harmony.

"If they think they can put me out, let them try it. I will take them on single-handed."

Housing Plans Of U.S. Boomed On Two Fronts

$300,000,000 Addition to Fund Pressed; Records Set in FHA.

Housing stood in the forefront of the Nation's attack on business stagnation yesterday, as the House advanced the proposal to add $300,000,000 to the slum-clearance and low-cost housing fund, and records were established in the Federal Housing Administration's mortgage-insurance activities.

At the same time the Reconstruction Finance Corporation took steps to create a market for all FHA-insured mortgages of $16,000 or less by, in effect, removing a restriction that it will take over mortgages only on property built since January 1, 1936, and insured since January 1, 1937.

Another development was the acceptance by John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, of the first report of the new C. I. O. committee on housing. Lewis declared that a "paramount interest of the C. I. O. and its unions is the promotion of adequate housing."

To Buy Other Mortgages.

The RFC announced that the RFC Mortgage Company would buy at par and accrued interest such mortgages in the $16,000-or-less classification as the Federal National Mortgage Association was not buying. The latter is limited to the purchase of mortgages on property built in the past two and a half years.

RFC officials said there was no indication that there would be any rush of present holders of insured mortgages to dispose of them, but that the RFC action created a market for the instruments, generally looked upon as an attractive investment.

Preliminary figures compiled at the FHA revealed that the May volume of business exceeded all records. Small home mortgages selected for appraisal during May totaled nearly $100,000,000, it was indicated, compared with $58,000,000 in May, 1937. It was considered highly significant by officials that each week during May showed an increase in volume at a time when some decline might have been expected.

Another interesting item, it was pointed out, was that the FHA income for April was $850,000 and approximately the same for May. At that rate, the annual income would be about $10,000,000, sufficient to pay all operating expenses of the mutual mortgage insurance system and leave a margin for reserves to meet losses on foreclosures. The reserve fund exceeds $21,000,000, it was said, against which net losses of $24,000 are chargeable.

In the increase in mortgage insurance, satisfaction was expressed that the percentage representing homes to be constructed also had shown an upturn. For the week ended May 28, 57 per cent of the mortgages selected represented new construction, compared with 51 per cent for March. Of the mortgages selected in both March and April, nearly 70 per cent covered new homes.

Property improvement loans also are showing increased volume, rising from approximately 7,000 loans for $3,221,000 for the week ended May 7, to 8,400 loans for $4,014,000 for the week ended May 28, and revealing a gain of about $2,000,000 for a four-week period over the previous four weeks.

"Evasion" Laid to Straus.

House debate on the bill to increase by $300,000,000 the present $500,000,000 fund available to the United States Housing Authority was marked by a Republican charge that Nathan Straus, USHA head, was evading a requirement in the housing act that communities must put up 10 per cent of the cost of low-cost housing projects. The bill under discussion would waive that requirement.

Rules Committee Chairman O'Connor (Democrat), of New York, declared the bill would stimulate economic recovery, but Representatives Taber and Fish, New York Republicans, attacked it as "another step toward ruination of the Nation's credit."

The report of the C. I. O. committee called attention to the need for low-cost housing, stating that "of all the unfilled needs felt by the American people in this period of depression, the need for more and better housing for lower-income groups is without question one of the greatest," and maintaining that private industry had failed to meet this need.

The report said the only way this need could be met was through large-scale Government action, pointing to the aid such a program would be in fighting the depression.

The report recommended passage of the bill providing a $300,000,000 program for the current year, and an eventual addition of $500,000,000 in housing construction to the present program.

Girls Are Told To Prefer Faith To Knowledge

Faith rather than knowledge must guide the individual through life, the Rev. Peter Marshall, of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, told 39 graduates of Marjorie Webster School last night at commencement exercises. More than 200 parents and friends looked on.

"No one can tell what lies ahead," the commencement speaker said. "Tomorrow you will go out into a world where nothing, save the will of God, remains unchanged. The entire world is living on a precipice, waiting for a word from Europe that may change the whole system in which we live."

The students were assembled in the school auditorium, garbed in traditional cap and gown. In unison they pledged themselves to "promote the welfare and uphold the honor" of their school.

"Faith, Not Knowledge."

They were urged by the Rev. Mr. Marshall to "go out in the world by faith—not by knowledge. God's light does not stop with books."

The Rev. Lauren G. Bennett conducted the invocation and Marjorie Fraser Webster, president of the school, read the scripture. Members of the school glee club provided entertainment with several songs, and solo selections were given by Charlotte La Fond.

Members of the 1938 graduating class were:

Bethlehem Firm Acquires Shipyard

New York, June 2 (AP).—E. G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, announced today that Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Ltd., had purchased for $9,320,000 in cash all shipbuilding and ship repair facilities of United Shipyards, Inc., including plants at Staten Island, Brooklyn and Hoboken.

Present plant personnel will be retained, Grace said.

Jacob R. Selis, 65, Junk Man, Civic Worker, Is Buried

Funeral services for Jacob R. Selis, 65, head of the Federal Junk Co., and well-known civic worker, were held yesterday at the Bernard Danzansky parlors. Burial was in the cemetery of the Hebrew Beneficial Association.

Mr. Selis died Wednesday at his home, 1410 Taylor street northwest.

Born in Latvia, he came to this country in 1904, living in Belair, Md., for nine years before he established the Federal Junk Co., at 1125 First street northwest, in Washington.

He was a member of the board of directors of the Hebrew Home for the Aged, general treasurer of the District Hebrew Beneficial Association and an organizer of the Hebrew Travelers Sheltering Society. He belonged to Excelsior Lodge, I. O. O. F.

Mr. Selis leaves his wife, Mrs. Hannah Selis; two sons, Aaron C. and Irving Selis, and two grandchildren, Sidney M. and Helen D. Selis.

F. E. Powell, 70, Dies; London C. of C. Leader

Succumbs to Heart Attack While Visiting Here on Motor Trip.

Francis Edward Powell, president of the American Chamber of Commerce, of London, England, and former chairman of the Anglo-American Oil Co., died yesterday at the home of a cousin, Mrs. Henry S. Powell, 4000 Cathedral avenue northwest. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Powell, who was about 70, was visiting here for a few days on a motor trip from Florida. He was accompanied by his wife.

Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, he went to England in 1901 as a representative of the Standard Oil Co., and had made his home there since. He had served as president of both the American Club and the American Society of London.

During the United States Chamber of Commerce convention here in 1935, the tall, silver-haired Powell urged convention delegates to make peace with the White House, and to attempt to bring about better co-operation between business and the Administration. Ruled out of order by the chamber president, he said he was "shocked" at the businessmen's attitude.

Although a leader in London's American colony, Powell always described himself as a "citizen of the world." Besides his posts with the oil company, Mr. Powell also had been chairman of Radio and Electrical Developments, Ltd., and a former chairman of the International Sugar Council. His home was at Rudgwick, Sussex.

Surviving, besides his wife, are a son, Francis E. Powell, jr., of New York, and a brother, Thomas Carr Powell, of New Orleans. He also leaves a daughter and two sons in England. Plans for funeral services had not been made last night, but relatives said burial would be in England.

Capital Hears O'Conner Will Abandon Race

Reports Current He Will Seek Reappointment as U. S. Comptroller.

Reports that J. F. T. O'Conner, breezy, popular former Comptroller of the Currency, would abandon his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in California and seek reappointment to the Treasury position, created lively interest in Capital political circles yesterday.

Indications that the O'Conner vote drive was not going well have come from California for some time. The most recent was a poll said to have been conducted by the Democratic State central committee in Los Angeles County. It was reported to have shown the former comptroller running a poor fourth. Results of polls in other sections of the State have not been received here.

Comment Aroused.

The understanding in some circles that O'Conner would give up the race aroused considerable comment, but neither his friends and associates nor other observers would talk for publication. Capitol Hill circles in touch with the California primary situation agreed that the former comptroller apparently had not made the headway he expected when he resigned January 20, effective April 1, to enter the race.

No information was forthcoming from the White House on whether O'Conner's return to his former position was under consideration.

On the other hand, persons closely connected with him derided the reports and pointed to recent correspondence in which O'Conner had written enthusiastically of the progress made in his electioneering. One friend expressed doubt that the candidate would return here even should he decide to quit the race, and suggested that reports that he did intend to retire probably were spread by persons seeking to injure his candidacy.

FCC Influenced By Radio Lobby, Payne Charges

Commissioner Declines to Elaborate Accusations to House Committee.

By the United Press.

Commissioner George Henry Payne, of the feud-wracked Federal Communications Commission, charging that certain of his colleagues had been influenced by a powerful radio lobby, urged Congress yesterday to investigate monopoly in the broadcasting industry.

Appearing before the House Rules Committee, Payne declined to elaborate his charges until the group meets in executive session next Tuesday, but he pleaded for a favorable report on the Connery resolution for an investigation into broadcasting.

The Senate Audit and Control Committee recently reported a resolution introduced by Senator Wallace H. White, jr., (Republican), Maine, calling for a $25,000 senatorial inquiry into the commission and the entire radio field.

Payne Charges "Spoils."

A Republican hold-over and persistent critic of his colleagues and the radio industry, Payne yesterday charged that "free competition" is rapidly disappearing in broadcasting and that the industry has exchanged its social consciousness for "spoils."

Questioned by Representative Eugene E. Cox (Democrat), of Georgia, Payne admitted that he was accusing his colleagues of "yielding too greatly" to the influence of a group of powerful lobbyists.

He refused, however, to accede to Cox's request that he back up the charges immediately. "At an investigation, I should be glad to take an oath and testify," Payne said.

O'Connor Backs Him.

His stand was defended by Committee Chairman John J. O'Connor (Democrat), New York, who said the meeting would be turned into an investigation if Payne were to answer such questions.

The commissioner charged that several of the lawyers practicing regularly before the FCC have become "arrogant and are in the habit of commanding, rather than of asking or pleading."

"Not long ago one of these lawyers actually doctored the records of the commission in a case in which he was interested, and, in addition, violated two stringent rules," he said.

Ready for Own Probe.

Commission Chairman Frank R. McNinch told the Rules Committee that the FCC is prepared to start its own investigation, in accordance with a resolution adopted March 18, to determine whether monopolistic relationships exist between the three large broadcasting chains and stations using their programs.

He said that the legal staff already has completed a two-volume analysis of radio contracts. Payne contended, however, that the FCC has neither the facilities nor the time to conduct such an inquiry.

McNinch testified that since he had been appointed chairman by President Roosevelt, last fall, the FCC's docket had become "practically current" and that transfer applications which had lain untouched for months were disposed of, "some favorably, some unfavorably."

Reception Canceled.

Officials of the United Daughters of the Confederacy announced last night that the reception to their president-general, Mrs. Walter S. Lamar, has been canceled. The reception was scheduled for Saturday night at Confederate Memorial Hall.

Ludlow Asks Action on International Conference Plan; Davis Makes Barkley a Moose.

LUDLOW.

He stated it would be "tragic" for the houses to adjourn without "doing something to protect America and the world from the horrors of war."

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, Democratic floor leader, yesterday became a member of the Loyal Order of Moose. And a stanch Republican, Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania, was one of his initiators. At services in the President's room just off the Senate floor, Senator Neely (Democrat), of West Virginia, assisted in the initiation.

A Virginia delegation asked Senator Byrd (Democrat), of Virginia, yesterday to support the Robertson bill appropriating $25,000 for a monument at Woodstock to Gen. Peter Gabriel Muhlenberg, Revolutionary hero. The bill was passed by the House this week.

In the group were Judge Philip Williams, of Woodstock; E. E. Keister, of Strasburg, and Herbert Trotter, of Woodstock.

Although the Senate has been in session since January 3, it has turned only two leaves on its calendar, which now shows April 20, the Associated Press pointed out.

With two exceptions, the Senate has recessed instead of adjourning each evening. In such cases the date does not change. By extending legislative days to cover weeks and even months, the Senate leadership avoids parliamentary routine that would interrupt the course of major legislation.

* * * *

The House Judiciary Committee approved legislation intended to force companies holding government contracts to observe certain wage-hour standards for their employees and carry out decisions of the National Labor Board.

* * * *

Senator Lonergan (Democrat), of Connecticut, introduced a bill to prevent retroactive collection of income taxes on the salaries of State and municipal employes. A similar measure already has been offered by Senator Green (Democrat), of Rhode Island, as a result of the Supreme Court decision that salaries of officials of the Port of New York Authority were subject to the Federal income levy. Immediately fear arose that thousands of other city and State employes might be "ruined" by collection of taxes for 12 years back.

Five Are Treated For Traffic Hurts At Hospital Here

Five persons were treated at Washington hospitals yesterday for injuries received in traffic accidents.

Charles E. Golden, 75, of 2922 M street northwest, suffered a possible fracture of the left shoulder. Police said he walked into a car, operated by Joseph M. Barker, 28, 427 Randolph street northwest.

Mrs. Lillian H. Morton, 42, of Baltimore, was admitted to Casualty Hospital, and her husband, Robert A. Morton, was treated for injuries suffered when their car, driven by Mrs. Morton, was in a collision at Seventeenth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast.

Japan Breaches Key Rail City's Outer Defense

Capture of Kaifeng Near, They Claim; Hankow Being Evacuated.

By the United Press.

Shanghai, (Friday) June 3.—Mechanized Japanese columns today fought through the outer defences of Kaifeng, key point in the western sector of China's fortified Lunghai Railway line.

The fate of Kaifeng, frontal base for more than 600,000 Chinese soldiers, was claimed to be sealed when Japanese "dare-to-die" units scaled the walls of Kihsien, 30 miles south of Lanfeng, and cleared the Chinese from the city with hand-grenades and bayonets. Much of the town already had been reduced to ruins by aerial bombing and artillery fire.

The city was stormed after Japanese tanks had leveled six Chinese positions north of Kihsien and turned southward to lead a drive on the strong Chinese divisions holding Lanfeng.

Hankow Being Evacuated.

Events indicated the Japanese hoped to smash the western half of the Lunghai line, guarding China's provisional capital of Hankow, in this month, using the same tactics that won them the eastern half last month.

An orderly Chinese evacuation of Hankow was reported under way. Government officials were sending their families south and west into the interior, and many government bureaus were being removed to southern cities.

It was emphasized the fall of Hankow was not necessarily expected by the Chinese, who merely were taking "sensible precautions."

Fresh Japanese regiments were entering the Lunghai battle at many points, while the Japanese armies farther south, in the Yangtze Valley area, were said to have been doubled, bringing their total strength to about 250,000 men. In all it was estimated the Japanese had about 750,000 men in China and Manchukuo.

15,000 Chinese Routed.

A Japanese spokesman said columns driving on Lanfeng from the south had routed 15,000 Chinese infantrymen outside Ningling and repulsed a Chinese motorized unit of about 5,500 men near Liuhochi, 25 miles west of Kweiteh and almost half way from that Japanese base to Langfeng.

The spokesman denied reports Chinese had recaptured Mencheng, but said a strong Chinese counter-attack there had been repulsed.

The Chinese spokesman in Hankow said Chinese still were holding out in parts of Kihsien, and three picked Chinese divisions were holding strong positions north of Lanfeng, despite continuous Japanese artillery fire. He said Chinese armies to the southward were attacking Hofei, on the narrow-gauge railway northwest of Wupu.

The spokesman admitted all hope of defeating Gen. Kenji Doihara's Fourteenth Japanese division in the Lanfeng area had been abandoned, and the Chinese forces were on the defensive after the arrival of Japanese reinforcements.

Neutral observers reported many Chinese divisions were being withdrawn from the Lanfeng area and formed into a new defense line along the eastern outskirts of Kaifeng. They anticipated Gen. Chiang Kai-shek planned to withdraw his best divisions westward to the section of the Peiping-Hankow Railway between Chengchow and Hankow, leaving only provincials to fight a rearguard action designed to make the Japanese occupation of Kaifeng as expensive as possible.

In the northwest, in Shansi Province, the Japanese said a Chinese force of 8,000 men had been repulsed by the Japanese garrison at Chungyang, four miles south of Lishih, in Western Shansi.

Chinese Leader Executed.

Hongkong, June 3 (Friday) (AP).—Advices from Foochow today said Wang Chien-chang, Chinese commander responsible for the defense of Amoy Island, had been executed. Wang was accused of delinquencies in permitting the island to fall to the Japanese.

under these circumstances would be 'Do you want to be citizens of Czechoslovakia or Germany?'" Henlein was said to have told Price.

"The third solution of the Sudeten problem would be simpler still.

"It is that if Czech repression against the Sudeten Germans continues there will be resentment and a sense of national persecution which may one day force the German government by direct action to bring them (the Sudetens) within the frontiers of the reich."

An inspired article in the semi-official Prague newspaper "Prager Press" said the government was confident that a pacific solution of the minorities question would be found before the end of this summer providing Henlein's party showed good will.

New Violation Charged.

Berlin, June 2. (AP).—Deutsches Nachrichtenbuero (German official news agency) tonight reported a new border violation by a Czechoslovak gendarmerie airplane.

In a dispatch from Annaberg, Saxony, the news agency said the plane first appeared over Koenigswalde, five or six miles from the border on the German side.

The craft was reported later over the border points of Baerenstein, Hammer-Oberwiesenthal and Oberwiesenthal before heading back toward Czecholovak territory.

Ecuador Reports Attack by Peru

Guayaquil, Ecuador, June 2 (AP).—Semiofficial sources reported tonight 40 Peruvian soldiers had fired on four Ecuadorian soldiers and one officer, killing one of them, in a surprise attack on the Ecuadorean garrison at Rocafuerte.

Rocafuerte, in Oriente Province, is near territory disputed by Ecuador and Peru. A settlement of the dispute is being negotiated now in Washington.

Ellsworth Plans 7th Polar Jaunt

Virginia Beach, Va., June 2 (AP).—Lincoln Ellsworth, explorer and writer, who is spending a brief vacation here, announced plans today for a seventh polar expedition.

Ellsworth expects to leave New York, accompanied by Mrs. Ellsworth, August 13. They will take a plane from Southampton over the Imperial Airways to Nairobe, East Africa, and then to Capetown. He will sail about November 1 for the Antarctic.

Hearings on Death Of 5 Sailors Held

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Baltimore, June 2.—Seamen told behind closed doors today how death trapped five of their fellows aboard the Baltimore Mail liner City of Norfolk in the English Channel May 14.

A Federal board of inquiry yesterday began its investigation of the death of Chris MaGuire, who fatally stabbed a 60-year-old cook, and of three seamen who plunged into the water after him. The inquiry began its hearings when the liner docked at Norfolk, her first port in the United States.

Guard at Alcatraz Is Held Murdered

San Francisco, June 2 (AP).—A coroner's jury today found R. C. Cline, guard at Alcatraz, "was murdered by prisoners Thomas R. Limerick, James C. Lucas and Rufus Franklin." He was beaten fatally with a hammer when they tried to escape May 23.

Limerick was shot and killed by a guard and Lucas and Franklin were captured.

Senate Rejects Ban on Politics In Relief Rule

rejected, 46 to 30, and a more drastic committee restriction was cried down after Senator Barkley cited White House opposition. But Barkley assured the Senate the President will not allocate PWA funds for competitive power plants "unless and until the municipality has in good faith made an offer to purchase the private utility at a fair and reasonable price." The leader said the President favored such a restriction, but didn't want it frozen into law because that would promote litigation and delay.

La Follette Cries "No."

Twenty-two Democrats and 8 Republicans voted for the Maloney PWA restrictions, but 39 Democrats, 3 Republicans, 2 Farmer-Laborites, 1 Progressive (La Follette), and 1 independent (Norris), shouted "No."

Efforts of leaders to drive the relief bill, now increased to $3,422,000,000, to a vote last night were frustrated by the row over "politics in relief" which reached a tempest pitch after Wheeler charged Victor Christgau, former WPA administrator in Minnesota, was discharged for political reasons.

Barkley ordered a recess at 10:05 p. m. immediately after defeat of the Hatch amendment. Thirty-nine Democrats voted against the Hatch proposal to isolate relief employes from politics. Twenty-one Democrats, 13 Republicans, 1 Farmer-Laborite, 1 Progressive and 1 independent voted for it.

Tydings Enters Row.

Senator Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, who only Wednesday was opposed for re-election by Representative Lewis, of Maryland, diminutive New Dealer, entered the debate to demand that officials opposing Senators for re-election ought to be "rooted out."

"It seems to me it would be wise to send some of these gentlemen back to the work for which they were appointed and not have them spending all of their time in political machinations which are so transparent that they are fooling no one," said Tydings. But on the roll call, Tydings voted against the Hatch ban.

Works Progress Administrator Hopkins' recent declaration for Representative Wearin, of Iowa, in his fight to unseat Senator Gillette, of the same State, and Public Works Administrator Ickes' statement in the Oregon contest, were frequently cited by Wheeler.

Senator McCarran (Democrat), of Nevada, who has just had a New Deal candidate declare against him, questioned Barkley about the Hopkins-Iowa incident.

"I am willing to admit," said Barkley, "that Mr. Hopkins was guilty of an indiscretion. But he is no more guilty than we who appropriate money and then go around expressing our political views."

McCarran declared there was a "distinction between those who appropriate money and those who control relief" engaging in politics. Wheeler said one must have "a perverted mind" not to draw a distinction between Senators and relief workers in politics.

"We cannot expect the understrappers, we cannot expect the little administrators and assistant administrators and the foremen not to play politics with human misery if they see their chief pushing a man out, firing him and offering to demote him because of the fact that he wants someone who is going to play politics," Wheeler shouted.

PWA power restrictions earlier were voted down in two successive tests after Majority Leader Barkley assured the Senate that the President will not authorize allotments for that purpose "unless and until the municipality has in good faith made an offer to purchase the private utility at a fair and reasonable price."

Barkley said the President at first favored a compromise along the lines of this promise, but opposed all restrictions when it was found the revision "would very probably result in litigation as to the fairness as well as the good faith of any offer made by a municipality to purchase an existing plant."

First blow to a legislative power "truce" with the utilities came on an amendment by Senator Maloney who sought to write into law what the President promised to do by discretion. His plan would have prevented Federal-financed construction of competing publicly owned plants without an offer to purchase the existing utility at a fair price. A board of arbitration would have determined the price.

Although the Maloney plan drew support from prominent Democrats, it was defeated when Barkley threw the full weight of Administration opposition against it.

A moment later, the Senate shouted down the more far-reaching Senate Appropriation Committee amendment forbidding PWA money for projects competing "with any existing privately owned or operated public utility the rates of which are now subject to public regulation."

Barkley said the President told leaders he believed "Federal money ought not to be allocated for the construction of public utilities where there is an existing private utility whose rates are regulated by a public authority, until and unless the municipality or other political subdivision made in good faith an offer to purchase at a fair price the existing privately owned and operated plant."

He said he prepared a compromise amendment along these lines, but later abandoned it because the Administration felt it might "bring about much litigation in the courts over the question of fair price and its acceptance or rejection." He declared the President authorized him to say that he would carry out the same policy in administering the funds if his hands are not tied by legislation.

Among those opposing the Administration's proposal were Senator Pittman (Democrat), of Nevada, President pro tem. of the Senate, and Senator Adams (Democrat), of Colorado, in charge of the bill.

Supporting the Maloney amendment, Pittman said it was a question of "honesty," as the Government has encouraged utilities to invest hundreds of millions in expansion of their services.

"If they (municipalities) do build parallel electric light and power systems, that, in my opinion, is confiscation, because I do not believe in that case any private utility could live," said Pittman. "Private utilities must make, if not a profit, at least expenses. A municipality may cover a deficit by taxation."

Senator Adams denounced a policy of financing competing plants without first making a reasonable effort to purchase existing facilities, but opposed his own committee amendment restricting all PWA grants for public power plants. He said it was too broad, extending not only to electric utilities but to all others.

New Refunding Plan Launched By Morgenthau

Treasury

next fiscal year to pay for new Administration spending.

Between now and September the Treasury financing will be confined to refunding operations, because the $1,400,000,000 credit obtained from the recent deterilization of gold will provide all the cash necessary for financing the deficit in the next few months.

Meanwhile, Secretary Morgenthau declared American businessmen hold an increasingly favorable competitive position in world markets.

Exports Bright Spot.

Discussing recent criticisms by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, of the use of the Treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, the secretary said:

"Our exports are the only bright spot in the whole business picture so far this year. The reason is that the competitive position of the American exporter is advantageous compared with his competitors in the rest of the world."

Morgenthau said that so far this year American exports have exceeded imports by about $100,000,000 a month and attributed this primarily to Secretary Hull's trade agreements program and to currency stabilization efforts.

He specifically denied Congressional criticisms that the stabilization fund had failed to protect the exchange value of the dollar from depreciation of foreign currencies by their governments and said the Treasury had statistics to prove that the exchange value of the dollar was favorable to American sales abroad.

The stabilization fund, created out of the $2,000,000,000 profits on the devaluation of the dollar in relation to gold in 1934, is a secret Treasury agency which regulates the relative values of the dollar and other currencies by operations in foreign exchange markets.

Wamplers' Trial To Open June 27

Trial of T. Morris Wampler, former Washington criminal lawyer, and his wife on manslaughter indictments charging they killed Charles Adams, 65-year-old handyman on their estate, will open June 27 before a special session of the Circuit Court of Charles County, Md., it was announced yesterday by Chief Judge Mitchell.

Adams died April 29 at the Fenwick, Md., home of the Wamplers. Officers said a drinking party was climaxed by an argument in which Adams, the Wamplers and Alan Buck, 26-year-old author of juvenile stories, took part.

Buck has been called as a State witness. Mr. and Mrs. Wampler are free on bond.

Missing British Major Sought in Washington

No trace has been found of Maj. Frederick A. Hastins Seymour, 73-year-old retired British Army officer, missing since March 12 from his home in Mineola, Long Island. He left to visit the British Embassy here to obtain pension rights, it was learned yesterday.

Police Chief Theodore Magee, of Mineola, asked Washington police to be on the lookout for Maj. Seymour, who was last seen wearing a black overcoat and hat, and carrying a cane, small zipper bag and brown leather suitcase. It was said the missing man suffered heart attacks.

ciates for control of the First Income Trading Corporation, a Detroit concern. Ferretti is under arrest here. Frear was arested in Washington, and Robb in Boston.

Grow, who with his associates lost control of First Income Trading Corporation, testified he adveritsed for money last summer and a man who answered his advertisement referred him to Ferretti, who in turn introduced him to Frear and Clayton, who told him New York financiers were interested in operating investment trusts.

His firm, he said, owned stocks worth $800,000, listed on the New York Stock Exchange. He said he had no idea he was being defrauded.

Philip A. Frear, 44-year-old Washington broker, has not yet decided what he will do about his possible extradition to New York, where he and five other men are under indictment in connection with an alleged $16,000,000 securities fraud.

"Reports that I intend to fight extradition," he said yesterday, "are untrue. I have not yet seen a copy of the indictment, nor have I been confronted with formal charges. Until I have had an opportunity to examine the charges, I can't say what course I will follow."

Frear was arraigned before Police Court Judge Hobart Newman as a "fugitive from justice" yesterday, but a hearing was postponed until June 30 at the request of Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart.

D. C. Fireman Dies of Hurts In Md. Crash

William I. Hazelwod, 30, a District fireman, died yesterday in the Calvert County Hospital, Prince Frederick, Md., as the result of injuries suffered in a traffic accident Wednesday night. In 1934 he had been cited for heroism for rescuing a child from drowning.

A verdict of accidental death "due to reckless driving" by Hazelwood was returned at an inquest yesterday, the Associated Press reported.

Thomas W. Stone, of 628 Morris place northeast, who was riding with Hazelwood, was injured slightly. They were on their way home from a fishing trip when their automobile collided with one driven by Gordon Jones, of Island Creek, Calvert County, Md.

Services will be held at the Lee funeral home, Fourth street and Massachusetts avenue northeast, at 10:30 a. m. Saturday. Interment will follow in Arlington Cemetery.

Hazelwood is survived by his wife, Mrs. Florence E. Hazelwood; his mother, Mrs. Fannie B. Robke, and two sisters, Miss Annie H. Robke, and Miss Pearl L. Cole. He lived at 417 Seventh street northeast.

"Nightmare" To Washington.

Following yesterday's news, regret was expressed in certain quarters that the President hasn't had a vision of the Treasury caving in. He is said to have recently dreamed of a terrible airplane crash at Washington Airport and to have been so moved by the experience that he started immediate action to provide the Capital with a safer landing field. In any event, a joint meeting of two House committees assigned to this baffling problem is scheduled for today.

The President has declared in favor of a new airport at Camp Springs in nearby southern Maryland. There would be strong local protest against taking any large part of the $43,000,000 PWA fund potentially available to the District to build it. And there is New York City's experience in this connection to remember. New York, too, had a sum of public money available to build a needed airport and spent it to construct Floyd Bennett field. But, while technically ideal, it proved commercially impractical and for much the same reason that weighs against Camp Springs. It was too inaccessible from the center of the city. Today Floyd Bennett field is seldom if ever used by commercial airplanes.

There are other objections to Camp Springs. The Government's options on the projected site have expired. Time would be needed to reopen negotiations and, of course, a special appropriation would be necessary to bind the sales when effected. Moreover, the Navy has protested against interference with its new radio station at Cheltenham close at hand. It is said that planes at Camp Springs might similarly affect the Bureau of Standards testing station nearby.

The two other leading possibilities are the present airport and Gravelly Point. The first might conceivably be enlarged after purchase by the Government and removal of a railroad spur. But there is doubt whether any expansion there could keep pace with the trend toward bigness in airplane design. As for Gravelly Point, it would take time to develop. But if the Bureau of Public Roads could be induced to move buildings under construction to another site and if Army dredgers were immediately assigned to complete the filling job planned for them, a quick start would be possible. A mere word from the President could do what 12 years of indecision on Capitol Hill has blocked.

Japan And The Open Door.

Another important step in the direction of securing a commercial stranglehold over China has just been taken by Japan.

On January 20 the Japanese puppet government at Peiping issued a schedule of tariff rates substantially lower in many categories than those previously in effect. These rates have now been extended to Central China, including Shanghai. And for obvious reasons, the most drastic reductions are those on articles normally supplied by Japan. Thus it will be possible for Japan to expand her markets in the occupied area without formally closing the open door.

In Manchuria the Open Door has already been practically shut tight to the entry of foreign goods competing with those produced in Japan. And there is every reason to anticipate that if and when the island empire succeeds in consolidating its gains in North and Central China an attempt will be made by the Japanese to bring a similar situation into effect in that area. The lowering of customs duties at this time, therefore, may produce only temporary benefits to foreign commercial interests.

Japan's manipulation to her own advantage of Chinese tariff rates has more than a commercial significance, however. In view of the present chaotic conditions in the occupied zone and the vast destruction that has taken place there, the North and Central Chinese markets are and for some time will continue to be much less valuable than in the past. Nonetheless, Japan's harassed businessmen can find some comfort in the fact that Japanese exporters will now enjoy added advantages over the exporters of other countries. They may thus be won over to the idea that Japan may ultimately derive substantial advantages from the undeclared war to offset the hardships the Japanese people are now called upon to bear.

It may be that, for the time being, neither Breat Britain nor the United States will take any drastic action with regard to Japan's manipulation of Chinese tariff rates. But neither country can be expected permanently to acquiesce in the destruction of its commercial stake in China by Japan.

Proof of this is found in the strong demands made this week by the United States on Japan for the restitution of American property in China seized and held by the Japanese, and for the right of unhindered return of Americans to their posts there. It is quite clear from these and earlier representations to the Tokyo government by this Nation that there is no disposition to let American rights and interests in China go by default. And it is very significant that once again a strong stand in defense of American interests has met with a prompt and favorable response from Japan. By the same token there is every reason to believe that the Japanese efforts to close China's open door will be successfully resisted by the United States.

The Lewis-Tydings Contest.

Announcement of the candidacy of Representative David J. Lewis, in opposition to Senator Millard E. Tydings, assures Maryland of an exciting Democratic primary in September. A tangled gubernatorial situation would have aroused interest even without the current development. But the intervention of the stout-hearted little Congressman from the Sixth District, which includes Montgomery, Frederick and the western counties, is guarantee of a first-class political battle.

A Senate seat is no new ambition for Mr. Lewis. As far back as 1916, after three terms in the House, he won the primary election against Senator Blair Lee, but was in turn beaten by the Republican nominee, Joseph Irwin France. For at least a year now Mr. Lewis has been flirting with the idea of opposing Senator Tydings, and has postponed decision largely because at 69 his health is less vigorous than it used to be. But the Congressman, who started work in a coal mine at the age of 9, will never be too old to prosecute vigorously any campaign he enters.

Much of the interest in the contest will center in the very different personalities of the two candidates. Senator Tydings was born just before Representative Lewis celebrated his twenty-first birthday. But in spite of his comparative youth the Senator has already achieved a brilliant career of public service. His courage was attested by an unusually distinguished war record, and two terms in the Senate have demonstrated equally notable political abilities. Contrasting in age, appearance, background, interests and social viewpoint, the two men yet have in common the fact that, in the Maryland tradition, both came to prominence through proof of outstanding ability in the State Legislature.

It would be unfair to Mr. Lewis to define him as merely a purge candidate, sponsored by the Administration to punish Mr. Tydings for his frequent excursions off the New Deal reservation. Representative Lewis, now serving his seventh term in Congress, long since won national reputation as "father of the parcel post." In 1917 he was appointed to the Tariff Commission by President Wilson and for eight years filled that and other important administrative posts. He does not need the support of this or any other Administration in submitting his record to Maryland voters.

It is significant, none the less, that Mr. Lewis announced his candidacy immediately after a visit to the White House. Even without the plain inference to be drawn therefrom it would be assumed from the Congressman's record since 1932 that he has the Administration's benediction. His support for the New Deal, while based on conviction rather than the advantages of party regularity, has been consistent. Mr. Tydings, on the other hand, has gained the reputation of being one of the most effective and illusion-shattering critics still numbered within the Democratic camp.

This alone, without the strength of his organization and the Ritchie tradition which he to some extent embodies, would increase Mr. Tyding's strength with the traditionally conservative Democracy of Maryland. But as an offset Mr. Lewis has great personal popularity and whatever influence, through WPA sources or otherwise, the Administration may be disposed to turn his way.

If the President is wise, however, he will expressly warn Harry Hopkins and other political kibitzers not to express any opinion on this nearby fight. The tradition of States' Rights, and the hostility to Federal intervention in its domestic affairs, are the stronger in Maryland because of propinquity to the National Capital. The Democrats of that State have two excellent men, of sharply contrasting personalities, to choose between. Any effort by Washington pressure groups to influence the outcome of this contest would be likely to prove a boomerang among voters who have a long record of managing their own affairs successfully.

Without Aid Of Pump-Priming.

One of the few bright spots in the present economic situation is the continued rise of residential construction financed by FHA-guaranteed mortgages. When the slump began last summer, home building was one of the first industries to feel its effects. A year ago the insurance of mortgages for residential construction was definitely on the down grade. Now, however, it is moving steadily upward against the general trend of business and industrial activity.

Small-home mortgages selected for appraisal by the Federal Housing Administration during May total nearly $100,000,000 compared with $58,000,000 for the same month a year ago. The value of mortgages finally accepted for insurance was $15,218,200 during the last week in May, compared with $11,125,010 for the corresponding week in 1937. Of the mortgages selected for appraisal, 57 per cent involve new construction, compared with 51 per cent at this time last year. The percentage of new construction rises to 70 when houses completed within a year as well as those constructed under FHA inspection are included.

Progress is also being made in the development of large-scale housing projects. Twenty-one undertakings of this sort, costing $18,000,000, are now under construction. Financing arrangements have been completed on 35 more, valued at an aggregate of $28,400,000. Twenty projects are in operation. They represent an investment of $19,500,000.

There is no evidence of a housing boom in this record. But it does appear that the amendments to the Federal housing act passed several months ago are promoting a steady development of residential building. That is especially gratifying because of the widespread inactivity of the construction industry since 1929. Every new home thus financed means more jobs and better living conditions without any direct outlay by the Government. The stimulation afforded to private enterprise by this program may prove to be far more effective than direct pump-priming efforts. And the ultimate result is certain to be far more satisfactory.

Toward Direct Relief.

President Roosevelt's letter to Senator Adams did not specifically ask that Federal funds be made available for direct relief purposes. He merely urged that no restrictions be placed "on the immediate starting of works projects," in order to "make possible the selection of those projects which can be got under way most speedily."

However, his request was evidently intended to pave the way for Senator Barkley's proposed amendment to the relief bill giving the President discretionary power to use appropriated funds for direct relief of needy persons. Objections that such extensive grants of power would impair the protective value of the ear-marking provisions of the bill subsequently led to placing a limitation of $125,000,000 upon the sum which might be so spent.

This action, following rejection on the previous day of Senator Vandenberg's proposal to allocate $150,000,000 for direct relief, amounts to a virtual admission by the Administration that its relief policies are not adapted to present emergency needs. The practice of restricting Federal activity in behalf of the unemployed to work relief, thus leaving the States and local governments solely responsible for direct relief outlays, does not permit funds to be expended when and where the need is greatest. Senator Vandenberg, for instance, is concerned about the plight of industrial cities such as Detroit, where many thousands of unemployed workers are congregated. Senator Barkley is agitated about the lack of provision for thousands of idle coal miners in Kentucky and elsewhere for whom no WPA jobs are available.

The present situation emphasizes the need for a complete reformation of the Federal relief program. The Government is now in the position of having to create jobs as a prerequisite to providing relief for destitute and almost starving people in communities whose resources have been exhausted. The obvious ineffectiveness of this system has strengthened a growing conviction that Federal relief money should be given to the States as grants-in-aid to be distributed among the localities most in need of assistance.

Such a flexible system could be adapted to changing conditions. It would recognize local responsibility for the relief of distress, while reducing inequalities in the relief burden. More fortunate communities could be left to shift for themselves. Others overwhelmed by local unemployment resulting from the national depression could then be given more generous aid.

Such a system of grants-in-aid, with administration of relief devolving upon local governments, would not necessitate abolition of work for those drawing benefits. Able-bodied persons no doubt would be expected to contribute labor in return for aid when useful forms of employment could be provided at a modest overhead expense. The projects launched by the WPA, however, are not concentrated where the need is greatest. The amounts paid to WPA workers are not adjusted to individual needs but conform to prevailing wage scales. And finally WPA employes constitute a limited proportion of the total number unemployed. Summed up, these defects amount to a formidable indictment of the existing Federal system of relief.

Attention, Hitler: We can tell you where there's a minority of Germans who are so oppressed they are mortally afraid to whisper their thoughts in the privacy of their own homes. They are in Germany.

In five short months this year, 81 persons have lost their lives in horrible airplane accidents. Think of it! Why, that's as many people as are killed in automobile accidents, on an average, in 19 whole hours!

In May we observed Child Health Day, National Baby Week, National Music Week, National Egg Week, National Restaurant Week, National Foot Health Week, National Golf Week, National Raisin Week, National Maritime Day, Peace Week, Ice Cream Week, Straw Hat Day, Outdoor Cleanliness Day, International Good Will Day, National Tennis Week and the Dionne quints' birthday. And on top of all that, we worked three or four days. It's no wonder that we're all tuckered out.

"Due Process" Clause.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Many have wondered whether the framers of the famous "due process" clause in the Constitution had in mind natural human beings or the artificial persons, such as corporations, when they drafted its letter.

John A. Bingham, a successful railroad lawyer, was a member of the Congressional committee which drafted it. He stated in public testimony before the Congress that he was the author of that clause and that he inserted it to provide a broad and general protection for all persons against State legislators. He made no point of artificial persons known as corporations.

Senator Thomas recently stated, "Constitutionality of any wage-hour measure is certain to be attacked by some industries, anyway." The interweaving hand of the corporation extends over the entire width and breadth of our land. Its power is enhanced manyfold by its interlocking directorates and high-salaried lawyers and its place in American business is dictatorial, if authority, in any way, can be measured by influence. It is estimated that nearly 80 per cent of American business is controlled by corporations—a few hundred artificial persons enjoying the same legal advantages as 130,000,000 natural persons.

This is a paramount problem and one which must be solved immediately if we are going to have guaranteed wage-hour legislation and a stimulus in our road back to normal recovery.

Forbid Ransoms?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Again America is horrified by another kidnaping and murder. It seems as if there might be some way to stop it.

Why not make a law forbidding payment of ransom to a kidnaper? If it were against the law to pay ransom then there would be no motive for such horrors.

The Spanish Scene.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In The Post of May 27 you published a letter from Helen Silvermaster under the title, "The Embargo on Arms to Spain."

In this letter Miss Silvermaster stated that since we all love democracy and wish to preserve it we should send arms to loyalist Spain. But she does not seem to know that there is no connection whatsoever between democracy and the present political parties in Spain. For on one side is the Fascist Party, supported by Italy and Germany, and on the other is the Commupist Party, supported by Russia and France.

But Miss Silvermaster claims that the Communist loyalists are democratic. I see no reason, therefore, why democracy-loving Americans should support these God-haters.

Two Words More.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I should like to call your attention to an error in the last line of my letter which appears in The Post of May 29. The sentence should have read: "That spirit sets us back over 400 years and is as retrogressive as the spirit of war." The omission of the last two words in the printed version causes the sentence either not to make sense or to give the wrong complexion to the paragraph.

The People's Money.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: New Dealers continually puff their own praises as "liberals" and dub their critics as "reactionary." In the spending of the hard-earned incomes and savings of the people their liberality certainly far exceeds all records of history. Their streamlined units of big spending are in terms of billions, no millions or thousands as prior to Roosevelt the Second.

Roman emperors like Nero were great liberals of their days, not only in spending money on themselves, but on bread and amusements to lure the populace to abandon all liberty and self-respect. Louis XIV of France, as well as his equally wasteful and even more dissolute son, Louis XV, were also nearly 100 per cent liberal with all their people could make out of the sweat of their brows or scrape out of the soil. When one of the royal favorites said "After us the deluge," apparently there were only smirks and smiles. Who cared what came after them so long as they themselves got by in revelry?

Probably there is no New Dealer quite so stupid as not to sense that national credit cannot be forever stretched without breaking, and that the mountainous debts rising from their extravagant follies must in time overwhelm all dykes of social security. But doubtless they hope by progressive liberality with the public purse to yet again tempt deluded masses with more largesses despite vanishing liberty. Then if they can just get by the next elections, still more years of power and pelf. But the deluge now comes much sooner than anticipated. It no longer seems possible to pass the buck and the bust to oncoming generations, for the Roosevelt depression has been suddenly creeping up to our very necks and noses.

Washington's Trees.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The New Deal is planning to spend $170,000 to take a "tree census" in Cleveland. Might it not be a good idea to appropriate a sum to count the trees and flower gardens that have been uprooted in the Nation's Capital, not to mention picturesque front lawns that have been destroyed, with a view of checking the onslaught?

According to the commercially minded, it is necessary to strip the city of its beautiful shade trees (notwithstanding that Washington is one of the hottest cities in the country) in order to widen streets, which, prior to the devastation, were twice as broad as many Baltimore thoroughfares, where, incidentally, there are fewer accidents. At the rate we are going, the city eventually will resemble a barren desert. Wasn't there a plan recently promoted to convert beautiful Franklin Square into a parking lot?

Formerly, Lafayette Park was filled with the finest flower beds, but since it had its "face lifted," at a considerable expense to the taxpayer, flowers are conspicuous by their absence. Not one remains. We now have an asphalt avenue, resembling a race track, encircling the square, which doubtless meets with the approval of the "cement trust," although it will hardly merit the approbation of nature lovers.

"Sad Commentary."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I do not agree with Miss Silverman's letter in The Post of May 27 that 75 per cent of the American people favor the lifting of the embargo on arms to Spain. It savors of an old custom of the Communists to strive to appear stronger than they really are. If this estimate is true, it is, indeed, a sad commentary on a supposedly Christian Nation that we wish to align ourselves with an alien and atheistic dictatorship imposed on a Christian people by force.

VENETA WHITE.

Democracy On Trial?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: According to The Post, we are being taxed to keep step with countries that pretend to be up to date. Where are these countries? What countries are up to date? Wherein are said countries more advanced than we, in spite of their higher taxes?

Some of us, including the writer, are not convinced that our country has progressed or become more up to date during the period from 1933 to date, in spite of an increase of its debt from $50 per capita to $400 per capita. In 1929 and prior thereto our country led the world, by common consent, in spite of the fact that "old deal" principles governed and were then generally conceded to be sound. And in spite of the undoubted retrogression that set in with the existing depression, and that has been continued under the ministrations of those who heap contempt on the doings of our forefathers and on the past and pretend to be able to improve the lot of the lowest and humblest by redistribution of the existing wealth without furthering the creation of new wealth, this country still leads the world, even so far as the lot of the so-called underprivileged is concerned.

When, oh, when, will the common sense of the citizens of this great country again assert itself? When will even the uninitiated and the uneducated, whose number is legion, perceive the utter nonsense of many of the pronouncements of its popular heroes? If this time is long delayed, what reason exists for believing that true democracy and freedom will survive? Is not democracy itself on trial?

Unless the people learn to perceive truth, honesty and sincerity in their elected leaders and to recognize falsehood, dissimulation and chicanery when exhibited by their chosen representatives, rule by a majority is doomed. Wrongs are still wrongs even if a majority may agree to a perpetration thereof. Spain provides a present example of what happens when a majority attempts to tyrannize a minority. Are we headed in the same direction? Class hatred is being aroused as never before to mislead the guileless, the ignorant and the discontented.

Teaser.

To the Editor of the Post.—Sir: With fitting respect to the massive brains of bureaucracy, who would know the answer to problems closed to lesser minds, I submit a brain teaser:

Will consumers be subsidized not to consume the oversupply of grain that the farmers were subsidized by the Government not to produce?

Pungent And Poignant.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read your paper regularly for Joe Palooka and Ed Reed's "Off the Record," and also, Mr. Editor, for your articles because of their pungency and poignancy.

But why don't you get to the kernel of things? Now, both of the TVA Morgans and Dave Lilienthal have appeared before the Senate committee. Dave screamed about how Dr. Morgan had let charges of corruption hang over his head for so many weeks and how he was so glad to learn that the Doc didn't mean to charge corruption after all. I have never seen where the Doc charged corruption in the first instance.

Dave says he and his colleagues were scared to death of the Doc at the time the utilities were seeking an injunction against the TVA; they were terribly afraid he would mess up the works.

The Doc charges, and Dave doesn't deny, that the latter deleted certain important minutes from a record of a TVA board meeting. These minutes, I am told, would have proved the charge of conspiracy, which the utilities were making. Dave was afraid the Doc was going to tell of the deletion.

Mr. Editor, haven't you got the core of the whole New Deal there? If our grocer did these things we would quit trading with him.

The Post Impressionist

Just A Boy In A Crowd.

He stood there, his lips tight and grim, in the Wirephoto that had come from Barcelona. He was with a group of other youths, but I recognized him by the tilt of his beret and the way his hands were thrust into his pockets. He always had doubled his fists, as though he held an orange in each of them, when he thrust his hands in his trousers that way.

In the background, just as the cameraman had clicked the shutter, was a huge shell crater. And at one side of the group were the crumpled pillars of an apartment house. The picture had been taken the day after the black bombers from the rebel air base in Mallorca had come buzzing at a tremendous height, and conducted the most brutal air raid in modern history.

Beyond the youths were little groups of Spanish women and old men, some of them leaning on canes. And a one-legged soldier propped on his crutch, looking more at the beretted recruits than at the debris.

I knew the boy I spotted in the crowd was Our Secretary of pleasant days—the first days of the Spanish Republic—six years before. And I knew he was one of the group of untrained Spaniards lining up that day in stricken Barcelona to join the People's Army, and march out with a few days' training to throw themselves in the path of the great rebel offensive.

• • • •

"Hello," I mumbled, "so you've grown up. You're going to be a soldier, and maybe even now you're sprawled grotesquely in an olive grove, and your career as a soldier is over just as quickly as was your career as a citizen of the new republic."

The boy couldn't have been more than 17 years old. When I knew him he was not more than 12. He had liked to drive a burro cart after school—and he was fond of picking up a little English and practicing it on his friends—but I knew he had forgotten all his English now, and merely could look grim and a little confused standing there with the other boys in a gravely outraged, bitterly brave city.

• • • •

Our Secretary was the son of a fisherman, who put out daily from the Mallorcan fishing village of Soller in his big schooner, with a crew of hardy townsfolk.

But, as he told us, he didn't like the sea, and didn't intend to be a fisherman, now that the republic had come, and a young fellow didn't have to follow in his father's footsteps any more.

"I'm going to Barcelona when I get old enough and study to be a lawyer," he told us.

He brought us the books and cards the good padres had given him to study in school. They told of Great Britain, with the greatest navy in the world, and of France, north over the Pyranees, and Paris, with its boulevards. They told of Germany and of Italy, and of a strange, immense country called China.

"When I get rich as a lawyer, I'm going to travel everywhere," he told us often in the May twilight.

"The republic gives us all an opportunity, just as you have opportunity in America."

• • • •

There would be the click of glasses at our sidewalk cafe. A burro cart would rattle by, and the shadows would fall across the Church of Our Lady, which was opposite the bar. Then there would come the sounds of singing from inside, for it was gay in the islands when first we met Our Secretary.

"What shall I order for you tonight?" he would ask, and then we would tell him, and give him a peseta for himself, and he would vanish into the darkness to order our dinner—not forgetting the Diamonte and the small fishes fried in olive oil, with their tails in their mouths—for he was Our Secretary, and, after all, a very good one.

• • • •

As he stood there in the crowd I wondered if he was remembering the time we hired a little power boat and cruised the rocky coast around the village. Far away in the distance there had been the great vessels, steaming toward Italy and Corsica and Alicante. The sea had been rough—the bays deep and blue—and Our Secretary became ill. He curled up in the boat, just as he might be curled up in an olive grove today.

That night we gave him a duros and he ran away to the fiesta.

He told us later he had met a little girl from Spanish Bohemia, and that they had thrown balls at the wooden gaucho and won a free ride on the merry-go-round and that he thought he loved her.

• • • •

Then the line of youths seemed to move toward the improvised recruiting station, and Our Secretary moved with them.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler.

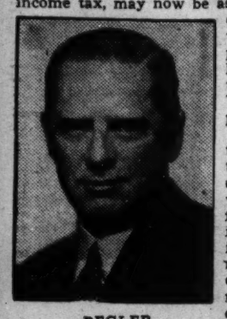
Charity Towards Some.

SENATOR GREEN, of Rhode Island, is alarmed by the prospect that millions of State, county and municipal employes, hitherto exempt from the Federal income tax, may now be asked to pay not only their current taxes but arrears, with interest. The Supreme Court split a hair last week, holding that the employes of the New York Port Authority must pay the tax.



PEGLER.

The United Press says the Treasury interprets this to mean that all State employes are thus brought within the great big, happy family of taxpayers. This interpretation doubtless includes county and municipal help as well. For convenience, it is customary to refer to the whole exempt class as State employes.

[The Supreme Court in its decision ruled that only those employes of a State agency not essential to the preservation of the State's sovereignty were subject to the Federal tax.—Editor.]

Senator Green apparently favors some sort of amnesty as to arrears and interest, and it is reported that the Treasury does not intend to be harsh. That is nice of the Treasury, but habitual taxpayers will naturally wonder when this feeling of sweetness first came over the catchpolls and whether it will benefit other classes.

• • • •

THE RECIPIENTS of this proposed grace are mainly politicians. They include, of course, great numbers of fairly diligent, obscure employes who receive low salaries and would suffer much to scratch up the money for back taxes. But they also include thousands of judges, commissioners, mayors, sheriffs and strictly parasitic functionaries who draw big salaries and could pay if pursued with no worse hardship than other citizens suffer from strict interpretation of the law.

There is never any evidence that a private citizen's distress touches the heart of the Treasury in similar circumstances, and, strictly speaking, it shouldn't. But, strictly speaking, the Treasury is entitled to its pound of flesh and all the hair on it and all the blood in it, from the public employes, little and big. The Treasury, by the way, has held repeatedly in dealings with private citizens that a pound of flesh means a pound or more but not less, and any bristles or gore that go with it.

The amnesty would amount to a sizable cash gift to thousands of well-to-do officials and former officials of the States and their subdivisions, including too many who never did a lick of work to earn their public pay and used their official powers to extort fortunes through the sale of insurance, concrete, brick and tile, office supplies, saloon materials and dance tickets. Including, in plainer words, the grafters who never pretended to earn their salaries and, if justice could be done, should be compelled to kick it all back, with interest.

IT IS TOUCHING to read of Senator Green's solicitude for the mental peace and economic security of the political officeholder and to hear that the Treasury does not intend to be harsh.

It seems impossible that this can be the same Treasury which slaps jeopardy assessments on private citizens admittedly in excess of any legitimate tax to guarantee the payment of disputed items which may be decided in the taxpayer's favor after legal proceedings more costly than the claims themselves. And it almost defies belief that this humane bureau, with the gentle sympathy for politicians, can be the same which forbids a distressed widow to dispose of her late husband's old shoes, hats and golf sticks until an official secondhand dealer can appraise them as high as the law allows in an effort to throw the estate into higher brackets and collect on these valueless relics more than they cost new.

But it must be faulty law which permits of charity toward some. It is said the Treasury shrinks from detailed accountancy and litigation in these cases, including those of well-to-do politicians. But taxpayers in other classes have lived under the rule that the Treasury will spend 75 cents for accountancy and lawyers to get back $1 in taxes, and many surrender, even to injustice, rather than fight. The same rule would yield at least 25 per cent for the politicians' dues as profit and, more important, would put them in the habit of making returns—an experience which would be good for citizenship.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

A Wash For Broadway.

There's a movement on to clean up Broadway in time for the World's Fair, and it will be a good trick . . . if they do it. Broadway has become the street nobody recognizes. It has become a pineapple drink region.

• • • •

Broadway has sunk from the Barrymores, the Mrs. Fiskes and the John Drews to the Polykarykoes, the Hamburger Joes and Hot-Dog Harrys. It has gone from glamour, tradition and prestige to cocoanut milk, flea circuses, chambers of horrors, curious odors and queer dialects.

• • • •

It has slipped from diamonds and ermines to aprons and mustard.

• • • •

• • • •

Where the Leslie Carters, the Belascos, the Sarah Bernhardts, the Maude Adamses, the Richard Mansfields and the Nat Goodwins once mingled, you now fight your way through crowds of jazz bandsmen, bankruptcy sale barkers, orange-drink addicts and the rattle-throated ballyhoo artists for movies that the cops have chased from other cities.

• • • •

Broadway has gone from art to fried onions, from beauty to ugliness, from romance to waltzing fleas and from the drama to popcorn, peanuts and candied applies.

• • • •

Once you could walk along Broadway and know the glory that was Fannie Davenport and the color that was Manhattan Island. Today it's a hop between traffic whistles through a congested street and has all the charm of a midway and the pep of a mardi gras in its dying hours.

• • • •

Once visitors flocked to Broadway to see Churchill's, Rector's, the Knickerbocker Bar, the kitten and spool of thread in electric lights and the best-known figures in the theater. Now they come to see the biggest collection of self-service lunchrooms on earth, watch the patent medicine men show their biceps and see the modern center of the frankfurter-and-roll world.

• • • •

Chinese army planes flew over Japanese cities without dropping any bombs, and the Japanese seem even more disturbed than if they had dropped them. Their position is like that of the downstairs roomer who yelled: "For heaven's sake, drop that other shoe," when he heard only one thump on the ceiling.

• • • •

As a matter of fact the Chinese may have hit on a way to spread a new terror. Nothing can make a people much more jittery than to have a bombing fleet fly over them again and again just to increase the suspense.

You can't convince Henry Armstrong that June is the month of Rosses.

Waterbury, Conn., has one of the biggest city hall scandals in American history, investigators charging that the taxpayers have been robbed of millions. The trouble seems to be that the people kept no Waterbury watch.

Roosevelt's Advice

President Tells Annapolis Graduates They'll Never Reach Top Unless They Keep Well-Rounded Knowledge.

Annapolis, Md., June 2 (AP).—The text of President Roosevelt's address to the midshipmen at Annapolis follows:

A quarter of a century ago I began coming to graduation exercises at the United States Naval Academy. I find it a good custom and I hope to be following it occasionally when I have reached the age of the oldest admiral on the retired list. As a retired Commander in Chief of the Navy I could no nothing else.

The only time I disgraced myself was, I think, during the World War. Because of the strenuous work in the Navy Department, I was a bit in arrears on sleep. The temperature in Dahlgren Hall was in the neighborhood of a hundred. There I was sitting on the right of the superintendent of the Naval Academy. The speaker of the occasion began his address. My eyes slowly but firmly closed. I think my mouth fell open. I slept ungracefully but soundly directly in front of the eyes of the entire graduating class. Could anything be more unmilitary, more humiliating—but more satisfactory?

Friendly Suggestion.

You who are about to become officers of the Navy of the United States have had four years of advice—kindly advice but firm advice. I do not propose to add to it except to make one friendly suggestion which is not addressed to you as officers, but is intended to apply to you just as much as to this year's graduates of any other college or school in the country.

No matter whether your specialty is naval science, or medicine, or the law, or teaching or the church, or the civil service or public service—remember that you will never reach the top and stay at the top unless you are well rounded in your knowledge of all the other factors in modern civilization that lie outside of your own special profession.

That applies to all of world thought and world problems, but it applies, of course, with special emphasis to the thought and problems of our own Nation.

Illustration Given.

Let me illustrate by quoting what Theodore Roosevelt once said to me. A bill for the conservation of natural resources, which he had strongly recommended, had been defeated in the Congress by a coalition of votes by members who saw in the bill no special advantge to their own Congressional districts. When he learned of the defeat he said, as every President has said at least once, first or last: "I wish I could be for just five minutes both President and Congress, too. I wish we could have a constitutional amendment requiring that no person could run for Congress unless he had visited every one of the 48 States in the Union."

You who graduate today will fill many important Government posts during many intervals of shore duty. In these posts you will need national knowledge—knowledge of the problems of industry, knowledge of the problems of farming, knowledge of the problems of labor and knowledge of the problems of capital. You will need to know intimately the geography and the natural and human resources of the United States. You will need to know the current operations of Federal, State and local government. You will be called on for decisions in your line of duty where such knowledge will be of at least daily desirability—daily help to you in coming to your own conclusions.

Preliminary knowledge of this kind you have, but the best of it—the most important part of it—will come to you through the passing years.

Widen Your Knowledge.

It will come to you in two ways. First, by the experiences of your daily life and those experiences can be profitable to you or not in proportion to your ability to relate each experience to the whole field of experiences. Second, you will have the opportunity constantly to widen your knowledge by your own individual efforts. You can confine your field of thought to your professional work or you can widen it to include a current interest in current events.

You graduate with the certification by the Government of the United States that you are gentlemen—and the fact that you have been able to graduate from the Naval Academy at all proves that you are scholars. I want you to prove that you have another qualification—that you are also thoroughgoing, up-to-date, intelligent American citizens.

I congratulate you on your graduation. Your Commander in Chief is proud of you.

Sol Bloom Urges A 'Sell-Now' Drive

Representative Sol Bloom (Democrat), of New York, yesterday held a press conference and claimed a widespread acceptance of his patented idea for combating the recession through a "Sell Now" campaign by American merchants.

His idea would be for merchants to make prices so attractive that a wave of purchasing would arise and clear the store shelves of accumulated stock. This, Bloom believes, would cause factories to hum and serve the purposes of supply and demand all along the line.

"It can be used by any store, large or small, is far reaching and should be taken up by the whole country," Bloom stated.

Constance Bennett Denounces Picture

Hollywood, June 2 (U.P.).—Constance Bennett admitted from a witness stand today she doesn't know what realism in painting is, but if Artist Willy Pogany's portrait of her is "realism," she doesn't want any part of it.

She also doesn't want any part of the painting, she said, and is contesting the artist's suit for $3,500, the price he charged her for a picture painted in 1935.

She explained she had objected to the way Pogany was painting her, insisting it made her look popeyed, too big—particularly around the thighs—and the blonde hair was the wrong color.

Us Folks At The Fair.

MR. PHIL STONG, with the co-operation of Josephine Von Miklos and some other photographers, has made an amusing picture book about the great American folk institution, the county fair. The photographs are very good and leave nothing uncovered. The good ladies of the churches are there serving 75-cent chicken dinners for half the price; there are the slickers and smoothies of the midway; there are country gals with the home-grown manners and genuine excitements; the farmer is there with a batch of blue ribbons or envious of the batch his neighbor has; the boys are there to see the girls and the old and forgiven are there to criticize the fruit and judge the beeves and to commend to God's own relieving mercies the sinners of the shimmying midway.

For the benefit of the hopelessly urban reader, the county fair is like this; In the exhibition department, the farmers and their wives show off their wares, the farmer his choicest crops and livestock, the farmers' wives their handiwork, such as pies, afghans, crochetings, canned goods and bedspreads. There are the farm machinery exhibits. Generally they have a race track for trotters and runners and, at the close, a mule race that fairly splits Uncle Ezra's sides with all the laughter. They have hog-calling and husband-calling contests; the prettiest girl of the fair is chosen; they may have a modest and inexpensive display of fireworks, and over all of this is the incessant yell and bellow of the midway carnival.

IT IS THE MIDWAY that really gets them. If the truth were known, Uncle Ezra cares more for this wild dissipation than he does about all the blue ribbons put together. Dadblameit, a man gets tired of staying in the sticks all the time with nothing to do but cuss the weather and grumble about the board of supervisors. The preacher can say what he wants but a man ought to kick up a little shindy sometimes. So he goes to the county fair.

In Mr. Stong's book your first view is a flaming midway with Uncle Ezra's boy, big-eyed and out for a day with the devil. Through 50 12-by-9 pages you see the lost children crying, the greasy hamburgers in the greasy pans, the envy in Uncle Ezra's eyes as he sees the blue ribbon on his neighbor's bull, Dan Patch and the other famous trotters of the bigger fairs, and the ladies who wiggle their hips in the sideshows for the boys in Sunday suits and with shaven necks, who watch them with a new-found something in their eyes. The good ladies of the Methodist Church are serving the midday luncheon to their inevitable financial loss and the barker holds his goods and cries: "Now, folks, I don't want to sell you nothing."

These pictures, taken in the '30's, show the county fair as unchanged as it is imperishable. The scenes could have come from the early part of this century. Only one figure was missing: the man in the peg-leg trousers who was wont to mount the grandstand while an announcer, whose lungs were a match for any of these new-fangled loudspeakers, cried:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we bring to you the sweetest songbird of the South, whose voice has thrilled the crowned heads of Europe and who is so in demand that he broke his Broadway contract—at a tremendous personal and financial sacrifice—to appear in this lovely village before you today."

And the midway, by some magic, would seem very still as a voice began:

"I care not for the stars that shine,
"I dare not hope you'll e'er be mine;
"I only know I love you . . .
"Love me, and the world is m-i-n-e!"

When he was through encore after encore, the people would be wistful for a while.

• • • •

THE CITY MAN will take the book and for a moment, perhaps, feel apart and quite alien forever to that earthy thing called America. Uncle Ezra, by some good fortune, may see it himself and, smacking his overalled leg, will cry: "Be danged if that ain't the Podunk County Fair, and me, an old fool, kicking up all that shindy there while the harvesting's gone to hell."

About The Opera

By Richard Adloff

IN THIS COUNTRY, radio broadcasts of opera from the Metropolitan and other houses have reawakened interest in a form of art that until recently seemed moribund, or at best, stuffily esoteric. The few American opera companies of the predepression era were pets of certain tycoons. Their performances were high social occasions where ordinary citizens were only grudgingly admitted—so as to fill up the gallery seats and thus improve the acoustics. But now the broadcasts are bearing fruit, and a significant change is evident. Average Americans are finding that they really enjoy a good opera; the opera companies are losing, to some extent, their status as rich men's playthings and are turning to the public for support, and thus operatic art is on its way to becoming here what it has been in Europe for many generations—a popular institution.

Now we have a stout volume which is by far the best thing of its kind to have been published in years: Mr. H. Howard Taubman's "Opera Front and Back." For the thoroughness, the wit, and the sound artistic sense that have gone into the making of his book, Mr. Taubman deserves the highest praise. As he says in his foreword, he has aimed to engage the interest not only of inveterate opera fans, but also of what he calls the "middle-of-the-roaders," and even of the "unregenerate belittlers" of opera who will find in his ancedotes the opportunity for laughter at, if not with, the opera singer and his theater.

"Opera Front and Back" is therefore no dull history, but a fascinating revelation of what the operatic theater is today. As the Metropolitan Opera Company, besides being of greatest interest to Americans, is probably unequaled in the world at the present time, Mr. Taubman rightly devotes most of his pages to an account that takes in every detail of its operation. There are innumerable stories about stars and conductors and patrons and others, past and present, including Flagstad, Alda, Bori, Caruso, Tibbett, Galli-Curci, Toscanini, Gatti-Casazza, Otto Kahn and many more. There is an abundance of information—much of it never made public before—concerning salaries, the routine of production, the ups and downs of the Metropolitan's finances, and the like. And there is an unusual set of 36 photographic reproductions, mostly of the "candid" sort.

Scottish Symposium

It was Burns, a Scot, who longed for us to see ourselves as others see us, but in the case of present-day Scotland, we're in need of seeing it as Scots do. More than 20 of them have come together to discuss their country in this symposium, edited as well as contributed to by John R. Allan. The result is a picture of today's Scotland that may some day become a valuable historical record.

Instead of going off at sixes and sevens in the way of some symposiums, there has been real collaboration in this book. The contributors, such as Ian Macpherson, G. Scott-Moncrieff and Dr. J. R. Peddie, have read one another's work, thus avoiding duplication and enabling each to bring out fresh points in his essay. All are men who can write with knowledge and with humor on such subjects as the spirit and atmosphere of districts in Scotland, of its cities and industries, its homes and educational system, its arts, and then such charming aspects as Saturday afternoon sports and "Sweet Saturday Night."

This review of Scotland was brought out very opportunely with the opening of the Empire Exhibition of Scotland at Glasgow, although there is apparently no direct connection.

Zoning, Dope And D.C. Fraud Bills Approved

Fair Trade Plan Shelved for This Session by Senate Group.

By James D. Secrest.

The Senate District Committee in a clean-up session yesterday approved bills to modernize the zoning act, regulate the sale of narcotics, and to prevent the defrauding of noteholders in realty sales.

House bills to give the District a fair trade practice law and Washington firemen a 5-day 60-hour week with more liberal retirement provisions were buried effectively for the session. Chairman King did not call up the fair trade bill and he referred the firemen measures to a sub-committee to be named later.

A dozen representatives of firemen, accompanied by Representatives Jenckes (Democrat) and Bernard (Farmer-Labor), waited patiently until the end of the meeting without being heard.

Many Protests Received.

"We have had lots of protests against these bills," King said, "so we can take no action until a hearing is held."

The fair trade bill may be referred to a sub-committee before the session ends, but there is no likelihood that a report will be made before adjournment.

The zoning and narcotic bills have passed the House and are expected to be called up in the Senate within a few days, possibly today, along with a half dozen other local measures previously approved.

Senator Overton (Democrat), of Louisiana, explained that amendments to the zoning bill had appeased civic opponents. The major change is elimination of a provision which would have authorized the zoning commission to put an end to non-conforming uses of realty property.

Other Amendments.

Other amendments provide for longer notices of hearing, relieve citizens' associations of the customary fee in appeals to the board of zoning adjustment, and stipulate that the National Capital Park and Planning Commission shall have power to regulate the construction of Federal buildings.

The bill providing for the recording of deeds of trusts and mortgages on real estate stipulates that releases shall not be approved by the recorder unless accompanied by canceled notes.

An outgrowth of realty frauds of a half dozen years ago, the measure has twice passed the Senate, but has never been adopted by the House.

Realty Hearing Set.

Upon insistence of Senator Lewis (Democrat), of Illinois, King agreed to name a sub-committee to hold hearings on the Lewis bill to eliminate all realty taxes in the District, but the chairman asked: "Where are we going to get the money to run the District?"

Lewis said that he would explain his plan fully at the hearing. Earlier he made public a letter he had received from Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, and several other States have repealed all realty property taxes, but that no city, so far as he was aware, had done away with the realty levy as a source of revenue.

Morgenthau Tells Reporters a Nickel Is Big Enough Bet

The Federal Diary

By Scott Hart.

Explanation.

Confusion surrounding the recent cafeteria vote in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is discussed in this letter from John B. Irving, chairman of the bureau's recreational league, as follows:

"The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has a recreational league composed of a baseball team, a bowling league of 20 teams for men, a bowling league of 12 teams for women, basketball for both and a 6-team league of softball for girls, with a team in the Government League. Our golf association of 60 members held its spring tournament at the Manor Club this month and, let me add, we also have a 40-piece orchestra, a glee club and a fine dramatic club.

"In the very near future the bureau employes will have access to a splendid big auditorium in the new bureau annex that seats 1,200 people. It was our desire to equip this new hall for free plays, moving pictures of travel and educational value, dances and lectures. Our proposition of asking about 5 cents each week from the employes, for a limited time, was defeated, 2,300 to 1,600, but, of course, other ways will be found to finance such a worthy project.

"The 1 cent a day, if needed for a whole year, would be a lot nearer $6,000 than the $10,000 mentioned in the article, but our proposition was that as soon as the budget was reached the 1-cent contribution would stop. And, anyway, who ever heard of using $10,000 for an amateur ball club?

"Our social and recreational plans run a bit further than a ball club and will not be stopped by misrepresentation of our purpose or stupid agitation of a few unsocial persons, most of whom are C. I. O. members of a Treasury Union." Amen!

Notes.

A report from our agent 2-R: Congress is very much disturbed because of the practice by departments of acting as bad debt collection agencies; there appears to be no authority for this practice . . . GAO dismissals and separations of emergency employes began May 31 . . . Orders have come from the White House that in the separation of emergency employes apportionment laws shall apply . . .

Cost per worker on WPA projects is $82 per month, divided as follows: Federal Government pays $63.50, sponsors pay $18.50. Of the Federal cost of $63.50, the wages paid average $53 per month; to that is added $7.50 for materials and equipment, 80 cents for general project supervisory expense and $2.20 for administrative, making a total of 63.50 . . . There has been filed 3,900,000 claims with SSB since the first of the year; 2,400,000 were allowed, 800,000 were denied, and 700,000 undetermined. . . .

Treasury Department's vast accounting system was saved from abolition by request of the President, Called the Accounts and Deposit Division and under supervision of the budget director, there is now operating a 24-hour shift tabulating figures on relief spending, and by June 10 the President will have on his desk an exact statement showing total relief spending and balances. This report is made available each ten days and a 24-hour shift is required to make the report . . .

Examinations.

The Civil Service Commission announces examinations, as follows: Engineering draftsman, various grades, $1,440 to $2,300; optional branches for all grades except the junior grade are architectural, civil, electrical, mechanical and structural. There are educational and experience requirements . . . Maritime research assistant, $3,200, Maritime Commission; certain experience on ocean-going or Great Lakes vessels and certain supervisory experience or investigatory or liaison experience are required . . . Assistant electric-rate investigator, $2,600, Federal Power Commission; certain education and experience connected with the rates and charges for electric services are required . . . Loftsman at the Navy Yard, Charleston, S. C. The salary ranges from $7.39 to $8.35 per diem. Inasmuch as a previous examination for this position resulted in insufficient eligibles, qualified persons are urged to apply. Applications must be in file not later than June 23.

Don't forget the golf tournament sponsored today by Accounts and Deposits Athletic Association of the Treasury at Beaver Dam Country Club, Landover, Md. The prizes awarded will be dependent on the number of participants. The Association hopes that many employes will take part. All who do attend will be allowed to get off from work—on annual leave, of course. In charge are J. W. Harvey, jr., G. E. Jones, J. C. Palmer, G. H. Jones, R. H. O'Malley, C. D. Johanson, J. F. Schoen, Everett Johnson, R. A. Bishop, C. M. Martin, R. H. Moore and J. H. Molster.

Mrs. Anna B. Stone, of Arlington, Va., has been appointed to a position in the administrative division, stenographic section, FCA . . . Survey in Md. Finds Youth in 'A Social Trap'

Youth

out the country. A country-wide census, he predicts, would reveal "an appalling example of wasted human resources and of youthful energies that are being neither profitably directed by the schools nor utilized by industry."

A majority were discontented with their jobs, the interviewers found. Bell asserts that this is one evidence of a week system of vocational education and training, and a public school system that must be strengthened.

Two institutions emerged relatively unscathed from the intensive "scientific sampling" by 37 expert interviewers—the home and the church.

Four out of five were living with parents or relatives; half the married group was so housed. A third of the homes were broken by death, divorce or separation; the latter two causes were three times as frequent among city parents as among farm parents.

About one out of five was contributing some support to his parents.

Church a Vital Force.

". . . For all its alleged decadence as a vital social force," Bell reports, "the church still retains a substantial measure of its original appeal. Three-fourths of the youth considered themselves church members. Six out of every seven reported that they had attended services at some time during the preceding year, and about half of this group stated that they were in the habit of going to church once a week.

". . . The majority of young people want to be identified as church members and like to have it known that they participate in its devotional activities. In the minds of the great majority of youth, the church is neither a public forum nor a recreational center. It still retains its original character as a place of worship."

Youth are increasingly prone "to turn to an omnipotent national government to solve their economic ills, Bell says in asserting that security is youth's greatest problem.

A majority said wage rates generally were too low, that governmental action was the best means of raising them. Three-fourths favor Government setting minimum wage and maximum hour standards for business and industry.

Ninety-five per cent favored the Government regulating or abolishing child labor.

Majority Reject War.

Ninety per cent believe the Federal Government should be at least partially responsible for taking care of needy unemployed.

Bell summarized youth's attitude toward war by saying that the majority thought war was needless and preventable. "Few showed any enthusiasm for war, but only one in six said that he would refuse to go. The majority would follow the course of least resistance and go if they were drafted."

Although pointing out that the survey was purely factual, and not intended to prescribe remedies, Bell said that corrective measures must be directed along three lines—employment, education and recreation.

Employment, Bell wrote, means the double task of getting jobs for "hundreds of thousands," and also raising existing wages. "Creation of a less fictitious equality of opportunity" is an essential part of the educational program, he asserted, pointing out that many young men and women are forced from school because of economic pressure. He also called for an educational program "that is more clearly in harmony with their interests and needs."

Bell also suggested recreational centers and programs be developed by communities. Studies of youth's leisure, he said, revealed energies that are often directed towards delinquent behavior, and generally are allowed to go into unproductive channels.

America was called "culturally poverty-stricken" by Dr. Homer P. Rainey, director of the American Youth Commission of the American Council of Education, in an address yesterday to the recreation committee of the Council of Social Agencies.

"This condition," he said, "is at the root of much of our social and economic problems. We need an American substitute for the folk movements of Europe.

"Jobs have become so mechanized that less than 25 per cent of the working population receive any intellectual or emotional stimulation from their work. Their recreation is also mechanized—the radio and the movies being the chief diversions of the youth of today."

Dr. Rainey urged local folk festivals, similar to those of Europe, and the stimulation of community groups to sing, dance and play together.

"As people learn to play together," he asserted, "they gradually develop an interest also in economic co-operation. Most of the economic co-operatives of Europe had their root in the folk movements."

Dr. Rainey reported that surveys conducted by the American Youth Commission showed an increasing number of young persons here remaining in school until after 18, but that they were not receiving vocational training until after the completion of high school.

Kidnap

the Cash family. The colored man refused, and finally fled from his ramshackle shack in fear. The kidnaper placed the ransom note under the door of the shack and left another at the home of W. P. Cash, uncle of the boy, directing the father where to find the first message.

But before John fled he conversed at some length with the stranger in the darkness and noted that he spoke with an accent. In most communities such a clew would be inconsequential, but in the Redlands district, where the speech is the drawl of the Southern farmer, it may be sufficient to apprehend the kidnaper.

Legionnaires Find Milk.

A group of Legionnaires, searching abandoned shacks, found a can containing fresh milk in a cabin in the heart of the Redlands district. Discovery of the can brought quick concentration of the searchers, and volunteers began ripping up floors and combing the basement for further clews.

The milk can was taken to F. B. I. headquarters in Miami for examination by laboratory experts.

Officers said other evidence found in today's search led them to believe the child still lives. O. W. Faircloth, Miami police officer in charge of searchers' reports, said that "there is definite reason to believe that the Cash child is still alive."

Flotilla Searchers Keys.

Under the command of the maritime disaster relief committee, a flotilla coasted the Florida Keys, exploring them for any criminal hideout. Squads co-ordinated by police radio searched the fringe of the Everglades and citrus and truck farms.

G-men offered double the face value for every ransom note. Every cash register in southeast Florida and every bank teller in this region had a list of serial numbers of the ransom notes.

Mistaken for Kidnapers.

Montgomery County Policemen Leroy Rogers and Dunbar Padgett, off duty and parked in a car on Wilson lane, near Bethesda, were mistaken yesterday for the kidnapers of 5-year-old Jimmy Cash.

Their car was seen by Mr. and Mrs. George Kidwell, of Cabin John, who reported they heard a child screaming and saw two men push the youngster from a window. Rogers explained he had his young daughter along and stopped to show her an airplane soaring overhead. She screamed as it swept low.

Mrs. Grattan Dies at 26 at Harrisonburg

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 2.—Mrs. Elizabeth Conover Grattan, 26, wife of George Grattan 3d, a member of a prominent Harrisonburg family, died in Rockingham Hospital today. Death was attributed to embolism following a tooth extraction.

Mrs. Grattan had been in excellent health and completed her shopping this morning before going to the hospital for the operation. She had intended making a trip to Washington Saturday.

Well known in Washington society, Mrs. Grattan had made her home in Harrisonburg since her marriage in 1932 at Lake Charles, La., the year after her graduation from Sweetbriar. Her husband is an attorney.

Besides her husband, she is survvied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Conover, of Lake Charles; two infant children, Elizabeth Conover Grattan and George Grattan 4th; and two brothers, William Van Conover, of Lake Charles, and Richard Conover, of Washington.

Funeral services were tentatively set for Saturday at the home, the Rev. Parks Wilson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, officiating.

H. H. Reed Funeral To Be Held Today

Funeral services for Harrison Herman Reed, 55, acting secretary of the National Mediation Board, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the Warner E. Pumphrey chapel, 8424 Georgia avenue, Silver Spring, Md. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Mr. Reed died Wednesday at his home, 8402 Cedar street, Silver Spring.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Evelyn Carter Reed, a son, Lawrence Harrison Reed, and a daughter, Mrs. Helen Reed Cline, all of Silver Spring, and a half-sister, Mrs. Lena Kimble, of La Prairie, Ill.

Nelson B. Bell About The Showshops

Most Beautiful 'Gold Digger' Will Visit Capital Wednesday

Ethelreda Leopold Wins a Prize Trip to Paris; 'Robin Hood' Moves to Met; Fight Films Shown; Gossip of Amusements.

ETHELREDA LEOPOLD, "most beautiful and talented" of all the "Gold Digger Girls"—who will be a little more famous later than she is now—will pay a flying visit to the Capital next Wednesday, June 8, two days in advance of the Warner Brothers' production of "Gold Diggers in Paris," in which she appears, which will open on the screen at the Earle on Friday, June 10.

BELL.

Miss Leopold is not the star of the picture—Rudy Vallee, Rosemary Lane, Hugh Herbert and others occupy the cast's upper brackets—but she is unique. A majority of the 109 "Gold Digger Girls" voted for her as the best all-around representative of their number. She is a natural blonde with blue eyes, is 5 feet 5 inches in height and weighs 114 pounds. She was born in Chicago 21 years ago and is the daughter of Walter Leopold, well-known composer.

The prize she won by being selected as the outstanding member of her group is a trip to Paris, locale of the picture, aboard the Normandie—with all expenses paid for her and her mother.

Ethelreda won the contest on five points, of superiority—prettiest legs, prettiest face, best figure, most talented girl, and most popular girl of all the "Gold Diggers." She is expected to spend a full day in Washington. This will be her first visit to the National Capital and a busy schedule is being planned for her by the local Warner executives.

* * * *

And while we are speaking of the Warners, you might as well know now as any time that "The Adventures of Robin Hood," which has just played to a gross of more than $40,000 in two weeks at the Earle, will continue its downtown run uninterruptedly by moving to the Metropolitan Theater today as chief feature of the screen bill for the new week. Errol Flynn, in the title role, Olivia De Havilland, Basil Rathbone, Claude Rains, Alan Hale, Eugene Pallette, Una O'Connor, Patric Knowles and all the other members of the cast of this gorgeous Technicolor production have won both critical acclaim and "word of mouth" praise since its opening performance at the Earle—longer than that, as a matter of fact, for the drama desks began "going to town" on this one immediately following its private preview.. It might not be piling it on too thick to say that the new "Robin Hood" is one of the best pictures ever made. Doors at the Metropolitan will open this morning at 10:30.. The feature will be projected six times during the "all-day grind," the last showing to begin at 9:40 p. m.

A convention of prime importance to the motion picture industry, although concerned with artisans and technicians little known to the lay public, will convene next Monday in Cleveland, Ohio, when the thirty-fourth convention of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators of the United States and Canada will be called to order.

It is Anthony Muto, formerly associated with the Will H. Hays office in Washington and now director of public relations for the I. A. T. S. E., who advises me from Cleveland that William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be the principal speaker. Other addresses will be made by Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio; Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley, of Ohio; Representative William T. Schulte, distinguished wearers of the cloth and other prominent figures.

The convention will be attended by more than 900 delegates, representing 706 local unions. George E. Browne is international president of the Alliance. His "platform" is expressed in a few brief words: "We seek to obtain steady employment at proper wage levels for our membership and to maintain jurisdictional integrity of the I. A. T. S. E."

It might be worth mentioning that without these boys, there would not be any pictures to look at in our theaters.

Beginning last evening at 6 o'clock, official motion pictures of the Henry Armstrong-Barney Ross welterweight championship bout, fought in the Madison Square Garden Bowl, on Long Island, last Tuesday night, went on view at Henry Hiser's State Theater in Bethesda, Md. They will be continued—in addition to the regular feature attractions—through next Thursday, with special late showings of the fight film only tonight and tomorrow night at 11 o'clock.

The same extra added attraction will be shown at Sidney B. Lust's Cameo Theater, Thirty-fourth street and Rhode Island avenue, Mount Rainier, Md., beginning today at noon. Here, too, the fight films will be shown for a week and will be presented in addition to the feature programs regularly booked.

The Variety Club luncheon originally scheduled for next Monday at 1 p. m., in the Willard Hotel, at which J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was to have been inducted as an honorary member of the Variety Clubs of America, with National Chief Barker Johnny Harris of Pittsburgh, in attendance, has been postponed a week to Monday, June 13.

This postponement has been made necessary by the absence of the chief of the F. B. I. in Florida, where he is directing his operatives in the country's latest sensational kidnaping case.

Invitations are out for the formal opening of the new offices of the Monogram Distributing Corporation, 922 New Jersey avenue northwest, Monday, June 6. The Monogram executives will hold open house all day, with refreshments and everything for the visiting firemen.

Mrs. Louise Noonan Miller and Mr. Abe Tolkins take a couple of typewriters on their laps to say that the Ancient Order of Hibernians, its Ladies' Auxiliary and the United Irish Club of Washington will sponsor the local premiere of "Kathleen," opening at the Little Theater on Sunday. The film received the indorsement of all Irish organizations during its five-month run in New York.

With Sally O'Neill imported to Ireland from Hollywood to appear in the title role, the remainder of the cast was recruited largely from the acting forces of the Abbey Theater in Dublin and the Irish music halls. This special sponsorship, it is emphasized, will not entail any change in the usual scale of admission charges.

* * * *

Unless that new vocalist on the Wilson Line's steamer, City of Washington, appearing with Sidney's Orchestra, under the conductorship of Russ Cullen, turns out to be a pretty good singer, Ray Bell, of the loewcal Loew organization, and your reporter are apt to sue him. His name is Ray Nelson!

The Roadside Theater evidently is not superstitious. It opens its fifth season on June 13 and there are 13 members in the cast of "Sweeney Todd, or the Demon Barber of Fleet Street," the inaugural bill.

Tickets are now on sale at Mrs. Dorsey's Concert Bureau, in Droops, Thirteenth and G streets, and it is further announced that a bus will leave Dupont Circle every Monday night during the summer at 8 o'clock, arriving at the "old red barn" in time for the first curtain—which, of course, has nothing to do with that superstition, unles you count Thirteenth street.

Blast Mountain For 'Suez' Thrill

Movie engineers estimated that 250 tons of earth were moved by the upheaval, which shook the countryside for 5 miles around.

Hersholt Building Film Biography

Jean Hersholt's motion-picture record of his screen career has been enlarged by the admission of 16 millimeter prints of two of his earliest pictures, "The Climax" and "Alias the Deacon."

The actor was shopping for film in a home movie library and camera shop in Hollywood when he made his invaluable finds.

As soon as he finishes his current assignment in Warner Baxter's "I'll Give a Million," Hersholt will entrain for Callander to co-star for the third time with the Dionne quintuplets. The forthcoming picture will be "Five of a Kind."

Interesting Hobby.

Margaret Lindsay has bought a home lapidary set with which she has begun manufacturing her own costume jewelry out of gold, silver and semi-precious stones. Her first production, which she displayed with pride on the set of "Garden of the Moon," was a lapis lazuli ring with a hammered silver band.

Gets Stuck.

John Payne, no seamstress, had to have three needles pulled out of his fingers during the course of a day's work in "Garden of the Moon." He was supposed to sew a button on a shirt before the cameras.

Business as Usual.

Jack LaRue, on location with the "Valley of the Giants" company at Eureka, Calif., is running his North Hollywood restaurant by wire. He sends a daily telegram to his mother giving her instructions on changes in the menu.

In Hollywood

With HEDDA HOPPER

HEDDA HOPPER

I met for the first time, Meliza Korjus, new Viennese songbird, outside her dressing room on the stage of "The Great Waltz" set. With hair piled high and two gold birds of paradise coming out from it, she was wearing a one-piece cotton dressing gown.

"I am sorry you see me in this," she said. "Could you wait till I slip into the most beautiful dress I ever had?"

Who am I to resist a smile like that? When she emerged she all but took my breath away. Adrian had a real inspiration when he designed that gown. All billowy lace, with the beige pinky cream colors, glittering with tiny sequins, and at least 50 pairs of birds of paradise fluttering way down the front. She loved it and said: "Real paradise—see."

They called her to the stage, a replica of Vienna's Opera House. "Please watch," she said, "if I'm bad, tell me—if I'm good, kiss me."

With a ballet of 100 back of her, she twirled, whirled, while singing cadenzas with high C's floating out, matching the brilliance of the crystal chandelier above her head.

Then on to "Love Finds Andy Hardy" set, where Mickey Rooney was showing Lana Turner some fancy back flips in a swimming sequence, with George Seitz directing. He's the fair-haired boy whose making "A" pictures for the price of "B's." And covered himself with glory directing "Yellow Jack." He is making it plenty tough for those who think a picture can't be turned out under a million dollars. I've seen plenty of these opuses but stayed on for the Judge Hardy pictures, which I've enjoyed more.

Every star should visit that set. Might remind them of home. Took me right back to mine in little old Altoona, where my beloved parents brought seven of us up on a budget so small you could stick it in the corner of your eye. There are many more like us, with homely every day problems, than there are those Park avenue penthouse pets, who on the screen are just about as real as the synthetic gin they used to drink during prohibition.

It always amused me when I played those dressy, nasty-nice sophisticated women of the world. Only time I ever got to wear a gingham apron was for a charity short, directed by Otto Brower, who is now in the Arizona desert doing canal scenes for "Suez."

The Post's New Yorker

By LEONARD LYONS

New York, June 2.

FAME: Jean Hersholt, who portrayed the role of Dr. Dafoe in "The Country Doctor," went to Callander, Ontario, a few days ago, to renew his friendship with the quintuplets, in preparation for the new Dionne movie, "Five of a Kind" . . . Papa Dionne, who wasn't at all amicable toward the movie folk when the last picture was made, this time was more friendly toward Hersholt . . . And just before the screen star departed from Callander, Dionne came to say good-by . . . "I've brought you a little present," he told Hersholt—and presented him with a Papa Dionne autograph.

* * * *

DIGNITY: Amy Vanderbilt, New York's only publicist who is in the Social Register, has been press agenting "Captains Outrageous," the first book written by her husband, Morton Gill Clark . . . Her newspaper friends, in their stories about the book, were urged to omit mention of the fact that Clark's father is a socialite banker. Otherwise his Wall street banking firm, Merrill, Lynch & Co., might consider such a tie-up "undignified" . . . On the day the book was published, Charles E. Merrill, a member of the firm, was front paged in that name-calling marital story.

* * * *

TRIUMPH: Nat Karson, the scenic designer, received his first real opportunity in the theater when he did the scenery for the WPA Federal Theater's production of "Macbeth" . . . As a result, Karson was hired by the Rockefellers' Radio City Music Hall, to design the settings for their productions . . . Karson, who went from the WPA to the Rockefellers, now has a new job. He'll design the sets and be consultant-producer of "Sing for Your Supper"—the new musical to be presented by the WPA Federal Theater.

* * * *

SETTLEMENT: Sylvia Sidney has been under contract to Walter Wanger, the movie producer . . . Miss Sydney is anxious to return to the stage. Her film contract still has a year and a half to go . . . And so the screen star is paying Walter Wanger a significant amount of money—in two instalments—to secure her release from that contract.

* * * *

DEFEAT: Clifton Fadiman, the book critic, has been broadcasting on the "Information Please" programs, every Tuesday evening . . . Next week, because of other commitments, he won't be able to appear on that program, and so Sinclair Lewis was asked to substitute . . . "I won't go on the radio," Lewis replied . . . "But why not?" he was asked. "You'll be paid for it. So why not try it?" . . . "No," Lewis explained. "I might like it."

* * * *

PROTECTION: The publishers of Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People" have ready for publication a similar book, concerning executive ability . . . In many cities Carnegie's book was a best-seller competing with its travesty, "How to Lose Friends and Alienate People." And so the publishers are not announcing their newest volume until after they have prepared, and will have ready for publication, their own travesty upon the new volume.

* * * *

PRIDE: Clyde Pangborn, the aviator, has been working in England this past year for Sir Cunliffe Owen at the British subsidiary of the Canadian Car & Foundry . . . Three weeks ago Pangborn walked through the factory and saw four laborers trying to lift a car onto a truck . . . "Look," he offered, "watch how Americans do it, in America" . . . Pangborn placed his hands under the rear fender, bent his knees, and heaved mightily . . . As a result, he's in the hospital now—and henceforth will be required to use a cane. Pangborn's heave broke his Achilles tendon.

* * * *

SUCCESS: Thyra Samter Winslow, the writer, lives in a Park avenue apartment. Her maid went to the laundry in the building where she met some of the other maids and then told her employer: "There's a tenant in this building who's a better writer than you. She doesn't answer phone calls between 11 and 2" . . . "Not answering phone calls for three hours doesn't prove she's a better writer," Mrs. Winslow replied. "Who is she?" What's her name" . . . "Cather," the maid informed. "Willa Cather."

Officer Uses Auto As Club on Suspect

Private James A. Godbold, of the Second Precinct, yesterday converted his automobile into a weapon to capture one of three young colored men suspected of robbing Frank Walker, Capital Transit bus driver, of 200 tokens and $10.

Godbold saw the three run into an alley behind North Capitol street, near U street. He followed them in his car, found them dividing a quantity of money. He cornered one man with his automobile after bumping him several times, while the other two escaped.

Fifth Infantry Command Goes To Gen. Grunert

Officer Is Ordered From Manila to Vancouver Barracks, Wash.

The War Department yesterday transferred Brig. Gen. George Grunert from the Philippines to command of the Fifth Infantry Brigade, Vancouver Barracks, Wash. Grunert, now commander of the Twenty-third Brigade at Manila, Philippine Islands, wil succeed Brig. Gen. George C. Marshall, who has been ordered here.

Orders also were issued transferring Brig. Gen. Walter C. Short from command of the Second Infantry Brigade, Fort Ontario, N. Y., to command of the First Infantry Brigade, Fort Wadsworth, N. Y., where he will succeed Brig. Gen. Laurence Halstead, who retired Tuesday.

Brig. Duncan K. Major, now at Schofield Barracks, T. H., who had been scheduled to succeed Halstead at Fort Wadsworth, was assigned instead to command of the San Francisco Port of Embarkation, where he will succeed Brig. Gen. Robert S. Abernethy, who will retire this summer.

Col. Donald C. Cubbison was moved from Fort Sill, Okla., where he had been an instructor in the Field Artillery School, to the Sixth Infantry Brigade, Fort Douglas, Utah.

Col. Irving J. Phillipson was transferred from the Thirtieth Infantry, San Francisco, to command of the Second Infantry Brigade, Fort Ontario, N. Y., effective July 1.

Cubbison and Phillipson soon will be promoted to brigadier generals.

Children of Cleric In Wooster Class

The son and daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Wooding, 5533 Thirty-third street northwest, are among the 154 candidates for degrees at the sixty-eighth commencement of Wooster College, Wooster, Ohio, June 13.

Miss Erma Wooding majored in biology. She was administrative president of the Women's Self-Government Council, and was chosen May Queen her junior year.

Harry Wooding majored in Greek and history and expects to join the ministry. He was on the Big Four drive last fall for $2,000 for religious life activities on the campus.

Grin and Bear It

By Lichty

"Oh, he doesn't mind us watching now—he's just cooking up a little soup for dinner."

Government employes will want to know about the first Government-sponsored cruise. Scott Hart tells you about it in the Federal Diary in Sunday's Post.

Georgetown Pike Speeders Warned

United States Commissioner Charles E. Benson of Cabin John, Md., yesterday warned motorists against speeding along the old Georgetown Pike from the District Line to Great Falls.

A total of 35 persons were arrested last month for violating the 25-mile-an-hour speed limit, he said, and rigid enforcement with heavy fines will continue.

Bill Would Require Cards on Windshields

Motorists would be required to exhibit their registration cards in transparent holders on the windshields of their cars under provisions of a bill introduced yesterday by Chairman King, of the Senate District Committee.

Wreath to Be Laid On Davis' Statue

Maj. Charles M. Stedman, Children's Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will lay a wreath at the statue of Jefferson Davis in Statuary Hall in the Capitol at 10 a. m. tomorrow in honor of the 130th anniversary of Davis' birth.

Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, president general of the U. D. C., will present a prize to the child who has written the best essay on Winnie Davis, daughter of the former Confederate President. Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, will make an address. Mrs. Stephen Pendexter, president, District Division, and other officers will join the ceremonies. Mrs. Edward F. Wood, director of the children, will preside.

Burglary Suspects Held in $5,000 Bail

Judge Hobart Newman yesterday held two colored youths, suspected of about 25 housebreakings, for the grand jury in $5,000 bond each.

The pair, James Terry, 19, and Cornelius Pitts, 20, both of 1603 S street northwest, pleaded not guilty to breaking into a home in the 1300 block, Belmont street northwest, and taking a quantity of jewelry and clothing.

Over the Coffee

By Harlan Miller

THE BARGAIN HUNTERS.

One of the busiest little bureaux in Washington (entrenched in the triangular building at the apex of the Government Triangle, which points right at the Capitol) is the Federal Trade Commission, a squad of skeptics which tries to protect us inveterate bargain hunters from our own overeagerness.

• • • •

Mr. Ferguson . . . chief skeptic

Its complaints and orders are a hilarious history of what people expect to get for their money (or for nothing) and what others offer to sell them . . . The FTC has no sympathy for poetic lingo; it rebukes with equal gusto a soap which claims to contain "filtered sunshine" or a machine which claims to grow hair when it merely stimulates the flow of blood in the scalp.

• • • •

Other slaps: At a bread company which advised customers to eat bread and grow thinner; at the makers of a massage device touted to "make you feel 10 years younger" and to "restore the organs to normal activity" at a correspondence course which agrees to make you a fingerprint expert (with a $150 job) in six months by mail.

"—a shot at filtered sunshine."

FTC has forced a plant food company to stop claiming that its stuff contains "rare" mineral elements, remarking sarcastically that these "rare mineral elements" are found in practically all American soils . . . A wise guy who was selling for $3 an aviation manual exactly like the one the Air Corps gives away free also got socked, as did an encyclopedia peddler, who pretended to make "special prices" for persons of "prominence" because of their "influence."

• • • •

Other targets for FTC sharpshooting: a "vineyard company", which owned no vineyard, but bought its wines on the Chicago market; an incense vender who claimed "mystical charm" for his incense ("the key to one's fortune appears in the ashes"); a humanitarian who offered to cure stammering and stuttering by mail; a bottler who used a shamrock to imply that his ginger ale was imported from Ireland.

• • • •

"—bald men: an easy mark"

Warfare between FTC and venders of beauty is endless . . . at bears down hard on a skin cream which struts as "a skin rejuvenator or skin food," and "actually builds beauty into the skin."

It undertook to put a stop to the claim of another face cream that "when vitamins are applied to the surface of the skin they aid it more directly than when taken by way of the mouth."

Now it is challenging a Kansas City company's claim that "the lovely, clear glow of youth" can be restored by external applications of its unguents.

• • • •

On the carpet right now is a chicken feed magnate who claims that chicks fed on his magical ration will begin to lay eggs at five months, or four weeks sooner than less fortunate chicks . . .

And right beside him on the carpet is a tailoring company which says it will give $7, a suit of clothes and a bonus to a man who sells one of its suits . . .

FTC even casts a gendarme's eye over the arts; a Boston company with a somewhat complicated system of selling colored photographic enlargements has 20 days to explain.

• • • •

Out in Omaha a business school has been ordered to stop pretending that it has a campus and a swimming pool; a New York maker of pen knives must explain to FTC why his brass, gold-plated knives are stamped 10K and 14K, and a Chicago firm has 20 days to prove that its lamps give ten times as much light as other lamps, are more like daylight, and prevent eyestrain and headaches . . .

FTC, in fact, gives headaches to many an imaginative, high-pressure mastermind, and it is doing a lot to prove that no one but the United States Government legally gives anything away free.

Housekeepers Of Hotels Call Their Job Fun

"The funny thing about these girls is that they all love their jobs," said Miss Margaret Barnes, housekeeper of the Raleigh Hotel.

The girls are 150 members of the National Executive Housekepeers Association, now in convention at the Raleigh. And they think their jobs are so much fun, they are doing everything possible to interest more women in institutional housekeeping as a career.

Delegates yesterday heard speakers describe summer courses in large-scale housekeeping now offered at three universities, with instruction furnished by the housekeepers' association.

"Fascinating Work."

"It's hard work, but fascinating; no two days are alike," explains Miss Barnes, founder and first president of the group, which now includes 1,000 executive housekeepers for hotels, hospitals, apartment houses, clubs, colleges, schools, steamships and railroads.

"Women in this business have to be interior decorators, diplomats and judges of materials and people," she said. "It's one job men can't fill."

Take Miss Caroline Meyer's job, for instance. She's head housekeeper for the world's largest hotel—the Stevens in Chicago. She started at the Stevens in 1933 and had her baptism of fire during the Chicago World's Fair.

"One night during the fair we had 5,185 guests in the hotel, and 2,000 employes working in the building," she recalls.

The Stevens accommodated 1,000 exuberant American Legionnaires during the 1933 convention and suffered less than $100 worth of damage.

Holes Punched in Bags.

"Most of the other hotels stripped their rooms of everything breakable," Miss Meyer points out, "but we figured that was just asking for trouble, and treated the men like any other guests."

The Stevens' only precaution was to punch holes in laundry bags, an operation which kept a shift of maids at work through one night. No water-filled bags were dropped from Stevens' rooms to the sidewalk, she said, and holes now have become standard equipment on all hotel laundry bags.

Relief Station In Southwest Closed Down

The office, located in the Cardozo School, First and I streets, will be moved into the Northeast relief station, 1358 Florida avenue.

Meanwhile, welfare workers began an analysis of the present 7,600 cases on relief, prior to slashing the case load by approximately 36 per cent.

Welfare Director Elwood Street said it had been intended to move the Northeast office to the Southeast office since the latter office would be more convenient, with the greater number of persons receiving aid there. However, the District Commissioners decided the Cardozo School property should be used as a site for the proposed health center.

All cases in the Northwest section will be handled, hereafter, through the relief station at 1428 U street; and all those in the Northeast, Southeast and Southwest, through the Florida avenue office.

Sixty per cent of the cases under care of the Public Assistance Division will be handled through the Northwest office and 40 per cent through the Northeast station, Street said.

D.A.R. Here Backs Statute to Forbid Swinging Anthem

Daughters of the American Revolution here and there may favor swinging the National Anthem, but not the District Chapter.

A resolution pledging support of any legislation to keep Congo rhythm out of the anthem, introduced at a recent executive committee meeting of the chapter by Mrs. Charles Carroll Haig, vice president general of the national society and chairman of the chapter's resolutions committee, was unanimously adopted. Copies were sent to President Roosevelt, the chairman of the Senate District Committee and the chairman of the House District Committee.

Citizens Ask Extended Avenue Bus Service

The Fort Davis Citizens Association, holding its last regular meeting of the year at the Southeast Library last night, adopted resolutions asking that bus service in the area be extended to include Pennsylvania avenue between Branch and Alabama avenues and that a proposed sidewalk be built along Pennsylvania avenue as far as Texas avenue.

Tax on Gains Assailed by Farm Group

National Agricultural Conference Holds One-Day Session.

Monetary legislation "providing sufficient currency to raise the agricultural price level to at least that of 1926" and abolition of the capital gains tax were demanded yesterday by the one-day National Agricultural Conference, in session at the Raleigh Hotel.

Re-establishment of a free flow of capital and a shifting of tax burdens away from the consumer would result in "a new and permanent prosperity for agriculture, labor and business," the conference declared in a resolution, claiming that an increase in farm income to $15,000,000,000 would raise national income to $100,000,000.

The one-day meeting was called by leaders of national farm organizations and a group of Congressmen from agricultural States.

Production Limit Scored.

The prevailing theme of speeches at the conference banquet last night was the paradox of "idle men, idle acres, idle factories and idle money" in a country "badly clothed, housed and fed."

"We're in an absolutely senseless depression," said Louis J. Taber, national master of the Grange. "I am sorry we still have with us people who believe production control will bring the millennium . . . It doesn't make sense to curtail production of crops and then permit importation of the same products from abroad."

"Too Much Ignorance."

"We have no overproduction of anything, except ignorance—at both ends of Pennsylvania avenue," observed the Union Party's 1936 Presidential entry. "The trouble is underconsumption, maldistribution and a corrupt and corroded monetary system. The American people must assume full control over the country's credit and money system."

The depression will be worse next winter than it is today, predicted William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green pledged A. F. of L. support for any program brought in by the farmers themselves for solution of agricultural problems. "Farm prices must correspond to prices of things the farmer buys," he said.

Senator Smith (Democrat), of South Carolina, attributed the Nation's ills to control over currency by men "who want to make money out of money."

"Congress must reassume its lawful authority over the monetary system and raise the price of commodities by cheapening money," said Senator Smith. "Then the farmer and laborer can enjoy an American standard of living. If prices go too high, a little money can be withdrawn from circulation."

B. H. Inness Brown, New York attorney and publicist, described the capital gains tax as the chief deterrent to free government of capital today.

300 Girls in Montrose Playground Festival

Post Staff Photos.

Children Appear in Costumes of Many Countries.

Nearly 300 girls from ten District playgrounds presented at Montrose Playground yesterday the first of four folk festivals to be held in different sections of the city.

The event was staged under the direction of Maude Nelson Parker, director of girls' and women's activities of District playgrounds who also designed the costumes. Assisting Miss Parker were Pauline Woodruff, Kathleen Fisher, Abbie Flynn, Susie Hand, Elizabeth Jones, Hilda Klockenbrink, Sadie Lewis, Mary Marshall, Etta Richwine, Ruth Tate, Eleanor Carroll and Virginia Pfeiffer, playground directors. Betty Jacob of the Montrose Playground, was announcer.

Seventh-Day Adventists Open Takoma Park Camp Meeting

Signs and warnings have been given to tell when the Judgment Day is near, J. W. MacNeil last night told an audience of 1,000 persons gathered in a huge tent at a Seventh-Day Adventist camp meeting on the grounds of Washington Missionary College, Flower and Erie avenues.

Included in the audience which heard the president of the Potomac Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, were several hundred persons who are living in tents on the college campus. An additional 2,500 persons, including representatives of 48 churches from Virginia, Maryland and the District, are expected to attend meetings today.

Noah's Day Described.

"Wars, rumors of wars, floods, storm disasters, increase of knowledge, crime and earthquakes are all signs of a warning message," said MacNeil. "In positive language God tells us we know not the day nor the hour of Christ's coming, but in language that is just as clear and positive he tells us that we can know when that day is near at hand."

MacNeil described Noah's day, telling of God's warning message and how the world returned to revelry after the seventh day with no flood. But when the rain came the doors were shut. The same will happen in the present—the door will be shut, he declared.

Other Speakers Listed.

Among the speakers slated for various programs are the Rev. Steen Rasmussen, head of the home missionary department, who has just completed a trip abroad; F. J. Gilbert, former rabbi; the Rev. J. L. McElhaney, president of the General Conference, and H. H. Votaw, director of religious liberty and brother-in-law of President Harding.

One of the features of the session will be the election of an entire new staff of the Potomac Conference next week.

Wage Board Listens Today To Waitresses

Complaints of Deductions for Meals Will Be Aired Here.

Repeated complaints by waitresses that their employers are deducting the price of three meals per day from the minimum wage—regardless of the arrangement of their working hours—will be aired today by officials of the District Minimum Wage Board.

A group of restaurant employers have been invited to the session in hopes of reaching an understanding regarding the legal deductions from the $13.25 weekly wage guaranteed to waitresses.

As originally constituted the Public Housekeeping Occupation order, which became effective May 8, allowed a deduction "for each bona fide meal furnished by the employer when an employe is on the employer's premises as a condition of employment," the deduction not to exceed 30 cents.

The question arose soon thereafter, however, as to the number of meals the waitress was compelled to eat at her employer's establishment. In order to clarify this, the board set definite hours at which time breakfast, lunch, and dinner could be consumed.

In the meantime, the wage conference which will recommend a basic wage for more than 4,500 women in the beauty culture industry, held the final public hearing yesterday. They will meet Tuesday in executive session to fix the wage.

The question of renting booths in beauty parlors was brought out for the first time yesterday when Mrs. Carrie Colbert, colored, said colored operators were not able to pay "any" minimum wage, due to the stiff competition offered by booth renters and private operators. She explained "any" wage as meaning either the $17 a week proposed by the employers, or the $22.30 wage asked by the employes.

Mrs. Robert Huse, representing the League of Women Shoppers, proposed that renters of booths in beauty parlors should be classified as employes, and not as individual employers. She said otherwise operators would be able to disclaim poor work done by the booth operators. She also urged the conference to fix a wage which would include the purchase of the necessary tools of the work.

Miss Estelle Crawford, an employe in a beauty shop, gave as evidence to the conference a bill for $45 for a replacement in the permanent-waving machine, which she had to purchase.

Tenderized Baked Ham A Food 'Find'

Dozens of Varieties Are Featured in the Sausage Line.

There is a smug delight in being the first to feature new foods on party menus. Already anticipating hot weather, inquiries were made this week on cold cuts and meats for buffet suppers. The assortment on the market now is varied and adaptable to many types of service.

A tenderized baked ham that is economical to serve was one of the best "finds." This ham is no more expensive than other cold cuts but has a delicately flavored smoked taste and is so tender that it can be cut with the tines of the fork. It is a perfect solution for the picnic lunch or for a cold summer plate lunch. There is no shrinkage in using it, as the ham is precooked and trimmed.

In the sausage line, dozens of varieties are featured so that it is possible never to have duplication. Precooked frankfurters, salami, liverwurst, bologna and knackwurst are some of the meats. The liverwurst is made of pork livers. Other items are of beef. From the West comes liver cheese that has a flavor similar to liverwurst. Spiced ham is molded to facilitate slicing.

Bologna is no longer of one variety. Three types are featured—ham, veel, or pimiento. Summer bologna is called thuringer and is made of beef. Salami remains slightly more expensive in price but excellent for salads and sandwiches. Cooked tongue is the luxury meat, due, of course, to the fact that choice cuts are limited and the meat is rather hard to sell. A Pennsylvania sausage that appeared last summer on many Washington tables is lebanon. This sausage keeps well and its very smoky flavor improves with age.

In the jellied meats, souse is most frequently displayed. This is a combination of pork, green pepper or pimiento, pickle and olive, jellied with lemon. Hoghead cheese is much the same but does not have the tart flavor of lemon.

These smoked meats are perfect sliced and served on a platter with a garnish of cress or sliced tomatoes, but many of them can be combined with other foods in salads or in hot casserole dishes.

The salami sausages add a cosmopolitan air to the salad bowl. They also can be used in soup. Russian consomme should be made with the salami sausages cut into fine strips. Here is the recipe:

Russian Consomme.

5 cups of consomme
½ cup of finely chopped cooked beets
¼ cup of salami sausage cut in thin strips

Combine the consomme with the chopped cooked beets and the salami. Cook for five minutes. Serve very hot with a spoonful of heavy sour cream on each cup.

This consomme is excellent as a first course for a menu consisting of tomatoes stuffed with chicken, hot cheese biscuits, orange ice and toasted sponge cake.

The precooked ham is convenient to use in salads. This recipe has a piquant taste that is enjoyed by heat-jaded palates.

Ham Salad.

1½ cups of cubed baked ham
1½ cups of chopped celery
2 chopped hard-cooked eggs
½ cup of whipped cream
¼ cup of mayonnaise
2 tablespoons of horseradish

Blend the cubes of cooked ham with celery. Add the chopped eggs. Add the mayonnaise and horseradish to the whipped cream. Add a dash of pepper and fold into the ham and celery. Serve in lettuce cups.

Smart Hostesses Make Reputations With Clever Ideas

Many smart hostesses make their reputations with clever ideas. They select only one of two dishes and serve them perfectly prepared and seasoned. Even their vegetable dishes are combined in such a manner as to bring out every atom of flavor.

In the case of canned peas and carrots, it may be the addition of grated cheese or chopped fresh mushrooms that gives this colorful touch. Here is the recipe for a casserole of creamed peas served with a garnish of sliced cooked carrots.

Peas and Carrots.

1 can of peas
2 medium cooked carrots
1/3 cup of grated cheese
1 cup of evaporated milk or thin cream
2 tablespoons of flour
1 tablespoon of minced onion
2 tablespoons of butter
Salt

Brown onion in butter. Blend with flour and seasonings. Add milk and juice drained from peas. Cook until smooth and thickened. Add peas and place in buttered baking dish. Add the cheese and brown in an oven set at 375 degrees for 10 minutes. Serve with a garnish of the sliced carrots around the edge of the casserole.

Wandering Crumbs.

If you've ever been bothered with the wandering crumb problem when grating and grinding bread, simply grate or grind—the bread inside a large paper bag. This not only solves the problem but leaves the crumbs in the paper bag, ready for storing, as well.

Treats for Masculine Appetites

ASSORTED cold cuts, cheeses, sliced tomatoes and fresh fruit make a cool, colorful assortment for a summer buffet or porch supper. This type of menu can be prepared with practically no effort by the hostess and appeals to the masculine palate.

Today's HEALTH TALK

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

Honey's Health Value.

"Honey and Health" is the name of a book by Dr. Bodag Beck, who published a book on "Bee Venom Therapy," which advocated the use of bee venom in arthritis and rheumatism. At the time the book was published I did not think much of the scientific evidence produced to substantiate his claims, but when I published an article on arthritis not long after, I was severely criticized by several doctors for not advocating the use of bee venom.

This book on honey is interesting, but hardly more convincing than the one on bee venom.

I don't believe Dr. Beck will obtain many devotees of honey by reminding us that the indefatigable German fuehrer is a liberal consumer of honey, in which he indulges daily at breakfast."

Then, Dr. Beck says, "Foods which by themselves are salutary become injurious when combined. Meat, eggs, milk, starches, sweets and acids alone are digestible, but become heavy and indigestible when mixed." I wish people would not say such things, because they simply are not true and do a great deal of harm with nervous people who starve themselves into a state of malnutrition from fear after hearing nonsense of that kind. Also when he says, "ice cream is not objectionable, but when eaten after a meal it will convert the otherwise digestible food to a state of decomposition," he is absolutely and entirely false. Ice cream is a splendid food, particularly after a meal.

He says honey in hot water is better than alcohol as a pick-me-up.

Honey, according to Dr. Beck, prolongs life, being responsible for Anacreon's living to the age of 115, Pythagoras to 90 and Thomas Parr to 152. Unfortunately for this argument, in the time when these centenarians lived, honey was the only food used for sweetening. Sugar hadn't been invented. What became of all the other people in those days when everyone ate honey?

Honey is advocated for rheumatism and as an expectorant, a diuretic and for diabetes. It may be all right to give it for rheumatism, but for diabetes I flatly disagree. "The author's personal comprehension is that the abuse of artificial sugar and salt are mainly to be blamed for it (i. e., diabetes)," writes Dr. Beck, which shows that his personal comprehension is incapable of wrestling with scientific data. Diabetics are warned to avoid the doctrine that honey is good for them at their own risk.

The folklore of honey is interesting. If a bee lights on the lips of a new-born baby he is endowed with eloquence. Honey was much used in marriage ceremonies—in Egypt the groom always presented his wife with a pot of honey. Perhaps the word "honeymoon" came from this. It was a belief of the ancients that anyone drowned in honey would revive.

Jellies for Lamb.

Mint, of course, is the favorite lamb accompaniment, but jelly of tart currant, guava or plum are good. Horseradish, spiced conserves, pickles and other relishes add desirable tartness. Onions, spinach, string beans, asparagus, turnips and cauliflower are vegetables that go with lamb as well as the traditional green peas.

Modern Cookery Avoids Odor Which Once Marked Cabbage

No spring vegetable is more delicate than young cabbage, shading from creamy white to pastel green. Cooked by modern methods, it reaches the table with no loss or change of color. No longer do we feel that it must be cooked for hours, until it has lost its characteristics and developed dark color and strong flavor. No longer does it signal its presence by strong odor which once advertised its preparation for a meal.

Young cabbage may be cooked whole. It needs a slightly longer time to cook than when it is shredded. It may be dressed with tiny fried croutons and sprinkled with minced parsley.

If it is shredded, it will take only five or six minutes of cooking, whether it is put into a large quantity of boiling salted water and cooked uncovered or whether it is cooked in a heavy covered utensil with just enough water to cover the bottom of the pan.

In the first place it should, of course, be drained before it is dressed. In the other case the butter or cream may be added to the small amount of liquid which remains in the pan. With the butter, you may like to add a little sugar and vinegar for tang. Occasionally you may like to fry your cabbage lightly in butter, tossing it once in a while in order that it will brown evenly. Then, you may add the vinegar and the sugar.

Cabbage With Frankfurters.

Water
Salt and sugar
¼ cup butter
¾ cup small croutons
2 tablespoons minced parsley
12 frankfurters in natural casing

Cook cabbage in plenty of water, with a dash of salt and a dash of sugar, about ten minutes. Drain and dress with melted butter. Remove to hot serving dish and sprinkle with croutons and minced parsley. Surround with frankfurters heated in steamer not more than 3 to 5 minutes.

Cooking Lambchops.

Lamb chops may be broiled either by direct heat or panbroiled. For panbroiled be sure to have the pan sizzling hot at the beginning. And pour off excess fat from time to time to keep the chops from frying. For fancy chops, buy double ones—those cut twice the usual thickness—and have them boned and rolled. Wrap in a piece of bacon and broil. Or have rib chops "frenched" by trimming the edges bare.

College Girls Describe Their Own Methods of Entertaining.

HOW are college girls entertaining their friends this summer? That was the question selected this week to register an opinion among the younger set. Here are their answers:

Weiner Roast.

Miss Peggy Kletchka, Strong Hall, George Washington University:

"I always have friends down to a house party at the beach during the summer. Our cottage has all the conveniences of home so that cooking is simplified. On the electric range, we are able to prepare the same type of meals as at home. On maid's night out, baked beans is a favorite dish. We like hot food and only have cold dishes when it is really too hot to cook. For entertainment, we go swimming, and have weiner roasts on the beach, or go dancing."

Midnight Supper.

Elaine McClayton, Alpha Omicron Pi, University of Maryland:

"My summer entertaining is either a bridge luncheon, picnic supper, or a midnight buffet after the dance. When we go to the beach, we never cook, but have such things as fried chicken, sandwiches, potato salad, pickles, olives and cake. For the midnight buffet, the menu varies. If it is an impromptu menu, the girls do the cooking and the menu is scrambled eggs, bread or toast and hot coffee.

Beach Party.

Helen Hull, Holton Arms School:

"This summer I am planning on spending my vacation in California, but my home is in Connecticut and I have always had friends during the summer for house parties. Our cottage is at the beach. I have a horse there, so we go on buggy rides or horseback, have beach parties and go swimming. We cook on the beach over a very old and rusty grate using the driftwood for fuel. We broil steaks and bake potatoes and even a sprinkle of sand can't spoil their marvelous flavor."

House Parties.

Miss Elizabeth Mike, Strong Hall, George Washington University:

"I think 20 is an ideal number of guests for a house party. That was the number I had last summer at my home in Flemington, N. J. The type of entertainment varies with the number of guests.

I always plan on a bridge party and a dance. Over the week-end, we may go down to the beach. Our cottage has a fireplace so we do all the cooking over the open fire. We take turns doing it and have lots of fun. Our broiled steaks are the most successful, but we also have baked squash and potatoes. If a gang of my friends goes down, we each bring things. One brings the salad, another the dessert, another the beverage. It is on the Dutch supper idea. For bridge parties, I like to serve sandwiches, cookies and something to drink. I always serve after playing."

Afternoon Tea.

Mary Ann LeLong, Holton Arms School:

"In Kentucky, we like house parties and during the summer I have many of them. I always have a tea for my friends when they first come and have as many as 150 guests. It is served between 4 and 6 in the afternoon and my mother or one of my friends pour. I serve various kinds of sandwiches and ices. A luncheon is also popular. Sometimes after luncheon, we go on to the country club and play bridge. At these luncheons, the menu is usually a salad, sliced Kentucky ham, beaten biscuits, coffee and ice cream."

Bridge Luncheon.

Bernice Aring, Kappa Kappa Gamma, University of Maryland:

"A luncheon is the favorite method of entertaining among my friends. It is served as a plate lunch to groups of four at bridge tables and we play cards afterward. Our menu might be chicken salad or cold fried chicken, sliced tomatoes, rolls and a fancy dessert such as ice cream in meringues or strawberry shortcake. If it is hot we may go swimming after luncheon. If only girls go to the beach we buy hot dogs for an after swimming supper. If we have dates, we pack a lunch."

Sorority Party.

Edith Starling, Alpha Omicron Pi House, University of Maryland:

"Girls at my sorority have a house party during the summer down at Sherwood Forest. We have swimming, dancing and card parties. One of the mothers comes down. We take turns doing the cooking, but she is in charge just to see that everything goes right. We cook on a kerosene stove. Nothing so ritzy, but we have lots of fun anyway. I think that the favorite dish among the "cooks" is wieners, but we are also pretty good at "mixes." Anything that doesn't turn out well, we call a new name and have dishes like Alpha stew or curlicue potatoes. We tried making cookies, but now buy them at the store. We have cans of fruit juices on hand so we can always have cold refreshing drinks."

Dressings Lend Glamour Even to Common Salads

Post Readers Send in Recipes for Roquefort, French, Chiffonade, Tomato and Cream Sauces to Tempt Summer Appetites.

An unusual dressing can be depended on to give glamour to even ordinary salads. Crumbled roquefort cheese, a pinch of curry powder, or pureed pimiento are a few tricks that are used by Post readers for accomplishing this feat. This week's contest brought a wealth of unusual suggestions.

Roquefort Dressing

Mrs. W. R. Crutcher, 1724 Seventeenth street northwest, won the first prize of $3 with a roquefort cheese dressing that has the epicurean flavor of a Parisian dressing. An oil salad dressing forms the base of this dressing, but the flavor is enhanced by the addition of tomato and prepared mustard. This dressing was made to order for head lettuce salad but is also perfect for vegetable salads of various kinds.

MRS. CRUTCHER.

The amount of each ingredient has been carefully balanced to give a perfect blend of flavors.

French Dressing.

1 cup of olive oil
4 tablespoons of vinegar
1 tablespoon of salt
3 tablespoons of sugar
1 teaspoon of mustard
2 tablespoons of tomato ketchup
1 tablespoon of ice water
Pepper and paprika to taste

Mix the ingredients and beat with an egg beater. Crumble up a small piece of roquefort cheese and stir in well. Chill and serve.

Chiffonade Dressing

Sylvia Klein, Room 376, Procurement Division of the Treasury Department, finds cooking and recipe collecting a delightful hobby. This interest has gained for her a reputation as an epicure and invitations to her parties are eagerly anticipated by her friends. One method of making salads more interesting is to serve them with Chiffonade dressing. A favorite French dressing is used as the foundation for this individualized recipe.

SYLVIA KLEIN.

Special Chiffonade Dressing.

1 cup of salad oil
1 teaspoon of grated onion
½ cup of catsup
1 teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce
¾ cup of vinegar
1 cup of sugar
1½ teaspoons of salt

Mix these ingredients and beat with egg beater until well mixed. Blend ½ cup of this dressing with 2 tablespoons of minced celery, 1 tablespoon of minced onion, 1 teaspoon of minced parsley, 1 minced hard cooked egg, and 2 tablespoons of chopped cooked beets. Mix well and serve at once. The preparation of this dressing takes less than 10 minutes.

Fruit Dressing.

Minerva Frey, 1499 Irving street northwest, has developed a simple formula for preparing fruit salad dressings. Butter, sugar and egg yolks form the nourishing base for this dressing, lemon juice adds tartness and whipped cream is folded in to give fluffy consistency to it. The dressing is ideal for mixed fruit salads, or for frozen fruit salads. Lime juice can be substituted for the lemon if desired. The dressing should be combined just before serving.

MINERVA FREY.

Dressing for Fruit Salads.

Cook three tablespoons of butter and two of sugar with three beaten egg yolks in a double boiler until thick. Then add the juice of a lemon, a little salt, and cook again. When quite thick remove from fire and beat well. When ready to serve add whipped cream or thick cream.

Tomato Dressing.

Mrs. Simmonds, 1612 N. Hartford street, Arlington, Va., never serves this dressing for vegetable salad without having several guests ask for the recipe. It is an inexpensive dressing that can be prepared in quantities and stored in the refrigerator until time to serve. Mrs. Simmonds suggests that a clove of garlic be dropped into the mixture before shaking and removed before the dressing is placed in the refrigerator.

MRS. SIMMONDS.

Tomato Salad Dressing.

1 can of tomato soup
¾ cup of vinegar
½ cup of oil
¼ cup of sugar
1 tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons of grated onion
1 teaspoon of salt
1 teaspoon of paprika
1 teaspoon of mustard

Place the soup, vinegar, oil, sugar, Worcestershire sauce and grated onion into a quart jar. Mix the salt, paprika and mustard and add these to other ingredients. Seal the jar and shake well. This will keep for a month in the refrigerator. Shake each time before using. This is especially good on head lettuce.

Cream Dressing

Sara Ryan, 950 W. Lombard street, Baltimore, Md., enjoys collecting unusual recipes. A sour cream dressing is one of her favorites. It has a tart flavor that makes it satisfying for jaded summer appetites. The dressing is ideal for shredded cabbage but is also good on potato, vegetable, egg, or fish salads. The mashed pimento gives the dressing a rosy glow.

Blush Cream Dressing.

To one cup of sour cream, beaten until slightly thick, add one mashed pimiento, one teaspoon of sugar, one-half teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of lemon juice, a dash of Worcestershire sauce, and paprika for coloring.

Runners-Up

Ten recipes were selected this week for honorable mention in The Post Recipe Contest. Selections include:

Mrs. Warren Price, 2326 Ashmead place northwest, fruit salad dressing.

Mrs. Betty Feldman, 5000 New Hampshire avenue northwest fruit French dressing.

Mrs. Margaret Hancock, LaPlata, Md., avocado salad dressing.

Mrs. Ellie Murray, Clinton, Md., bachelor club dressing.

Mrs. Leo Williams, 2930 Edgevale terrace northwest, sherry cream salad dressing.

Mrs. Franklin Johnson, Livingston road, Oxon Hill, Md., Hawaiian fruit salad dressing.

Mrs. Andrew Kincaid, 805 Silver spring avenue, Silver Spring, Md., tomato mayonnaise.

Mrs. B. E. Feaganes, R. R. 1, Alexandria, Va., dressing Russian style.

Mrs. M. M. Cole, Quantico, Va., whipped cream salad dressing.

CAPITOL DISHES

Shrimp Delicacy Feature of Tea Given by Mrs. Morgenthau.

AN AFTERNOON TEA that featured fresh shrimps marinated in beet juice was given by Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr., at her home at 2211 Thirtieth street northwest for members of the Women's National Press Club and the Newspaper Women's Club of Washington.

MENU.

Hors d'oeuvres canapes
Assorted sandwiches
Beaten biscuits
Finger rolls with ham
Chocolate leaves Sugar cookies
Chocolate layer cake
Mocha ice cream
Rum punch Orange juice
Tea Nuts

Fresh cooked shrimps that had been marinated in beet juice to give them a rosy glow were served impaled on a toothpick with piquant sauce. Films of dried beef spread with cream cheese and rolled into petite rounds and sliced into inch lengths were also featured hors d'oeuvres. The canapes included anchovy filets garnished with red pimiento, sliced tomato and petite morsels bordered with minced pickle. The sandwiches were cut in various shapes and had such fillings as cucumber, cream cheese, minced watercress and ham. The beaten biscuits were served with a filling of Smithfield ham.

Diplomats' Favorite.

AT A LUNCHEON given at the Hay-Adams House in honor of the Texan writer, Grace Dupree Ridings, which was attended by the Minister of Finland and Mme. Jarnefelt, Signora Giusepee Cosmelli, wife of the Italian Counselor; Senor Juaquin de Sosa Leao, Brazilian Counselor; Dr. Vladimir Rybar, Counselor of the Yugoslav Legation, and Herr and Frau Tannenberg, of the German Embassy, a special Friday menu was prepared by Chef Meissner.

MENU.

Mint fruit cup
Broiled salmon with parsley sauce
Potatoes au gratin
Petit pois a la francaise
Rasberry ice
Petit fours
Demi-tasse
Fancy mints

Petit pois a la francaise is a favorite dish among diplomats. Herr Meissner recommends the following recipe:

Boil peas and spring onions separately using minimum amount of water and removing the peas from the fire while they are still firm. Then combine the onions and peas with a butter and parsley sauce and serve.

Fried Chicken Supper.

A BUFFET SUPPER featuring Virginia fried chicken was served by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Myers, jr., at their country home in Merrifield, Va., on Memorial Day. Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson, of Toledo, Ohio, were honor guests. The color scheme of yellow and white was reflected in the center bowl of yellow buttercups and yellow candles in crystal candelabras.

MENU.

Cold Virginia fried chicken
Sliced baked ham
Potato salad
Fresh garden tomatoes garnished with halves of hard cooked egg
Radish roses
Bread and butter sandwiches in fancy shapes
Cantaloupe a la mode
Hot coffee

Platters of crispy fried chicken were garnished with watercress. The potato salad was made by blending cubes of boiled potatoes with tomato, hard cooked egg and minced onion tops. Celery seed, salt and peppers added seasoning and mayonnaise the needed moisture. Radish roses and lettuce provided a contrasting garnish.

Cottage Cheese Fine Main Dish In Hot Weather

Rich in Protein, It Can Be Used in Dumplings and Croquettes.

Cottage cheese is particularly welcome in summer. This nutritious food is adaptable, but unless blended with additional cream or mayonnaise is not high in calories.

Since cottage cheese is rich in protein, it can be used successfully as a main dish. The cottage cheese can be blended with mashed potato and seasonings and used in croquettes or in dumplings. For summer cold plates a cottage salad is delicious. The flavor of the cheese is rather bland and needs contrast both in flavor and texture.

When cottage cheese croquettes are used for the main dish select colorful vegetables such as asparagus or shredded green beans for contrast. Serve these croquettes with a thick Spanish sauce or a mixed vegetable sauce simmered in tomato puree.

Croquettes.

2 cups of cottage cheese
2 cups of mashed potatoes
2 eggs
Salt and pepper for taste
Fat for deep frying
1 cup of dry bread crumbs
1 egg well beaten

Drain the cottage cheese well. Chill the freshly mashed potatoes. Then mix with the cottage cheese. Add the slightly beaten eggs and season with salt and pepper. Form into croquettes. Roll in dry crumbs, then in beaten egg, and again in the bread crumbs.

Fry until golden brown in deep fat (370 degrees) and drain in absorbent paper. Garnish the croquettes with parsley tops and serve with the hot vegetable sauce.

Requests have been received for the old fashioned pot cheese, pies. This recipe uses cottage cheese as a base and can be made into individual pies or in one large nine-inch pie.

Cheese Pies.

1½ cup of cottage cheese
4 tablespoons of melted butter
½ cup of sugar
¼ teaspoon of salt
1 teaspoon of flour
Grated rind of 1 lemon
2 egg yolks (unbeaten)
½ cup of raisins
¼ cup of nuts

Combine the drained cottage cheese with melted butter. Blend the sugar, salt and flour. Add to the cottage cheese with grated lemon rind. Beat the egg yolks slightly and mix with other ingredients. Add the chopped nuts and raisins. Pour into an unbaked pie shell. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce the temperature to 350 degrees and continue baking until the filling is firm (about 30 minutes).

Cash Prizes Wait Housewives for Cherry Recipes

The fresh cherry season means delicious fresh fruit desserts for the family and a check for five smart housewives. This week The Post Contest invites your special formulas for using cherries in puddings, pies, salads and hot desserts. The awards offered are $3 for the first prize, $2 for the second, and $1 for three additional prizes.

A prize-winning possibility is a fresh cherry pie with thick brilliantly red cherries in a short crisp shell topped with a golden brown criss-cross top. The formula for making this dish must include explicit directions for preparation. Explain not only the proportions but the secrets which you have found will make its preparation "fool proof."

The entry for the contest must be postmarked on or before Saturday, June 11, to be considered eligible in the contest.

$50 Budget For Kitchen ItemsNeeded

By Jean Green.
The Post Food Editor.

Selecting little things that will make the bride's kitchen an attractive workshop is fascinating. Color this year is playing a large role in their design, and selections can be made from many charming ensembles.

JEAN GREEN.

The bride who comes back from the honeymoon to take inventory of her shower gifts may find many gifts that can be used in working out a consistent color scheme. Those that do not seem to "conform" to this scheme usually can be exchanged. If the bride is "starting from scratch" so to speak, a budget of $50 should be set aside for equipping a kitchen for two in an efficient manner. Many items will cost no more than 10 cents, but cooking equipment should be considered as a investment and the purchase of a roaster, casseroles, and electric equipment of standard make is best.

In planning the kitchen ensemble it is possible to match in color such needed items as the spice set, bread box, wastebasket, dustpan and draperies. If this idea is followed even the drabbest kitchen space can be transformed into a colorful workshop.

Three mixing bowls, graded in size; aluminum measuring cup, glass measuring cup, two strainers, utility or meat knife, paring knife.

One set muffin tins, biscuit tin, two wooden spoons, mixing spoon, set of measuring spoons, small rolling pin.

One set of graters, small funnel, rotary egg-beater, set of cake tins, ice cream or gelatin mold, large and small skillet.

Spatula, long cooking fork, double roaster, casserole, shallow glass baking dish, tea kettle.

Two saucepans, double boiler, stew pan, dish pan, colander, garbage pail, dish scraper, soap dish, bread board, bread box, small chopping bowl.

This inventory for kitchen equipment is not lavish but really "the happy medium." It is adequate for a young bride who hopes to do her own cooking successfully and entertain from time to time. It has only necessary items and, if housekeeping is to be established in the small apartment or small home, there is an advantage to starting with the minimum.

Before making purchases, it is well to investigate the advantages of the new club aluminum, glass cooking utensils and copper. Many new electrical devices are available that are convenient for Sunday breakfast or buffet party entertaining. The new electric roasters operate from usual outlets and are suggestions for the bride who is not able to depend on a regulated oven in her new home.

Pleasant Homes

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

WE'D A LOT rather go shopping than go buying. Because when we just go shopping we can look to our heart's content, and the sky's the limit as to price and utility. Whereas when we embark on an expedition to really buy this or that, well, that's something else again. We have to stick to the things we can afford, for one thing. And for another, we have to consider wear, usefulness, practicality and a host of other dull and necessary points.

Bright Notions.

The other day we started out bright and early on a shopping exhibition with only car fare in our purse. We hadn't the slightest intention of buying so much as a paper of pins. We were just in search of bright notions and new ideas. And we found some beauties. Such as:

A perfectly delicious quilt-bedspread of white quilted intricately all over with a garland flower border appliqued on all around the edges. Then, to match, a quilted slip cover for the headboard of the bed. The one we saw had the flowers intricately shaded out of separate patches. But, to save a lot of work, an enterprising lady could copy the idea by cutting out garlands from a piece of chintz or cretonne, then appliquing them on and outlining the flowers with quilting.

Pink and White.

A fresh, cool-looking bedspread of pink and white striped seersucker finished with white ruffles was another find. Can you think of anything prettier and more June-y . . . unless it would be a white and pink birthday cake and ten party-dressed little girls around a pink and white table!

A yellow chintz dressing table petticoat with ruffles of white eyelet embroidery such as we once wore on our long-sleeved nighties. Very sunny looking.

Hassocks for the porch made out of awning striped canvas. Why wouldn't that be a good idea for re-covering old bedraggled hassocks? Or for padding and covering some seat-high packing boxes that might be handy around the place.

Looks Blithe.

Fried Chicken, Popular in Congress

Small Chicken Best Fryer Now, Says Rep. Wene

New Jersey Congressman Recommends 4-Pound Size as Ideal.

Fried chicken has always had a 100 per cent American flavor for the whole country. What is the secret of preparation? Should it be rolled in cornmeal, batter or flour? Should it be fried in butter or shortening? Washington housewives would like to know.

Representative Elmer Wene, of New Jersey, an epicure and authority on fried chicken preparation, says that proper selection of chicken determines the method.

"Fresh killed chickens for frying can be obtained every month in the year," he said. "There are seasons when certain types of chicken are most plentiful. At the present time the small chickens are best broiled and the chickens about four pounds in size are the type of purchase for frying."

Representative Wene believes that chicken should be first parboiled, then dipped in cracker dust, and then fried in butter.

"The parboiling with onion and celery improves the flavor and shortens the cooking time," he said. "The chicken should be fried to a golden brown crust and served with hot biscuits and plenty of thick milk gravy."

To have tender meat, he recommends a moderate heat throughout cooking. As soon as each piece is cooked it should be removed to a hot covered pan. The gravy is made from the rich chicken broth in which the pieces of chicken were simmered. Here i shis special recipe for its preparation:

Fried Chicken a la Wene.

Select a 4 or 4½-pound chicken. This is the stewing size. Cut it in pieces and cook in a small amount of boiling water (not too much). Add onion and a little celery. Cover closely and cook very slowly until tender. Roll each piece in flour and brown in butter. Serve well browned, with gravy.

Gravy.

Add milk to the water in which the chicken was simmered. Thicken with flour. Season well. Cut in half home-made baking powder biscuits, put in a large vegetable dish with a cover. Pour the gravy over the split biscuits and serve in a covered dish.

'Salad Shelf' Is Useful In Kitchen or Pantry

A "salad shelf" is one or a group of shelves—in your kitchen or pantry—devoted to the things you use for making salads, especially the salad dressings. Put up a shelf, or use one of those in your cabinet. Then collect all the ingredients (the nonperishable and bottled, canned and packaged ones) you use for French dressing and its countless variations.

Arrange on the shelves your vinegar, mustard, sugar, salt, pepper, paprika; your Worcestershire sauce, horse radish, relish, garlic buds, celery and onion salts, curry powder. Of course your salad oil will be represented, and add a few cans of fruit juice, too.

Cool Beverages Are Nourishing

Hot weather suggests cool beverages, and the housewives with a knowledge of food values will want to include from time to time nourishing drinks that will provide additional calories and protective value to the menu.

Chocolate milk beverages are of this type. They can be prepared quickly in a cocktail shaker and served with a topping of whipped cream. Additional food value may be gained by adding an egg or a scoop of vanilla ice cream before mixing.

Chocolate milk beverages can be served as part of a cold luncheon menu or used as an after-play luncheon for hungry children. The calories are in a readily assimilated form and will provide a quick pick-up for relieving fatigue.

Eggs Madrid Ends Monotony of Menu

Here's something different you've been promising yourself to lift the summer menus from monotony. Eggs Madrid have a continental flavor and utilize an unusual combination of ingredients such as chili powder and chopped ripe olives. As its name suggests it has a Spanish origin.

Eggs Madrid.

6 hard cooked eggs
2 cups canned or cooked tomatoes
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 finely chopped small onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1-3 cup yellow corn meal
1½ cups boiling water
½ cup grated cheese
2-3 cup chopped ripe olives
3 tablespoons butter

Cut eggs into halves lengthwise and place in baking dish. Combine tomatoes, chili powder moistened in a little cold water, onion, salt and half the paprika, bring to a boil and cook three or four minutes. Pour over eggs. Cook corn meal in boiling salted water about five minutes. Add cheese, ripe olives and remainder of paprika and stir to blend. Spread over eggs and tomato sauce and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 30 minutes.

Serves six to eight.

Birthday Parties for Children Should Be Planned With Care

Birthday parties for children bring joy to their hearts and should be planned with care. Attractive invitation cards, mysterious packages and a preview of refreshments will bring smiles of rapture to their faces.

In selecting the menu for the birthday party, prepare the menu carefully. Select foods that are simple, healthful and light. Serve the meal after the party at the regular children's meal time. The type of refreshments will depend to an extent on the age of the child. Here is a party menu for the youngster who has just started to school:

Party Menu.

Sandwich Triangles With a Flaked Chicken Filling.
Mixed Fruits With Garnish.
A Decorated Birthday Cake.
Lemon Rice Custard.
Chocolate Milk.

Lemon Rice Custard.

½ cup uncooked rice
1 pint milk
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons cream
1 package lemon rennet powder

Drop rice into about 1½ quarts of rapidly boiling salted water and cook until grains are tender, about 20 minutes. Turn into sieve, rinse in cold water and steam over boiling water until grains are dry and fluffy. Divide rice among six sherbet cups which have been trimmed with frills made from outer edges of lace-paper doilies; drop rice in very loosely. Warm milk to lukewarm with sugar and cream. Remove from stove, stir in rennet powder until dissolved and pour over rice. Let stand ten minutes without moving, then set in refrigerator to chill. Garnish if desired with a sprinkling of finely chopped preserved or crystallized ginger; or cook 2 tablespoons chopped preserved ginger with the rice. If desired, add ¼ cup washed raisins to the rice just before steaming.

Yield: Six desserts.

Chill Grape Juice.

Grape juice is delicious in summer drinks. Chill it well and serve it combined with pineapple and lemon juices. Use ginger ale in frozen cubes or add it just before the drink is served.

Crust for Meat Loaf.

By wrapping a meat loaf in a piece of pastry, tucking the ends well under, you will not only have a delicious golden-crusted meat loaf after baking but one which is nicely shaped and easily removed from the pan. Instead of baking the meat loaf in an ordinary loaf pan, place the pastry-wrapped loaf in a large dripping pan, seam side down. Oh, yes—remember to prick the pastry well to allow the steam to escape.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Girl Who Has 'Never Gone Out With Boys,' Asks How to Manage Her First 'Date,' to Senior Prom.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a senior in high school and am expecting to attend the senior prom. As I have never gone out with boys, except on occasions when my elder brother went along, I am in doubt as to the proper social procedure. My brother has arranged for a friend of his to escort me to the dance, but the boy has not as yet got in touch with me, although the affair is less than two weeks off.

• • • •

Is it my obligation to telephone him, or should I just go ahead on the assumption that he will keep the engagement? Should I purchase the tickets and expect him to pay me for them? Or should I just get them and tell him I have them? Upon returning home, should I thank him for a very pleasant evening? I shall appreciate it very much if you will answer these questions immediately. VERNA.

• • • •

DEAR VERNA: After receiving your letter, I went into a huddle with a trio of socially experienced spokesmen for the younger generation, who agreed that there is no necessity either for you to get in touch with the young man, or for him to get in touch with you, prior to the evening of the senior prom. No doubt the young man (they assured me) takes it for granted that your brother, as go-between, has made all necessary arrangements, and that all he has to do is show up at the appointed hour on the designated evening.

• • • •

Since your class is giving the "prom," your status in the arrangement is that of hostess; the young man is to be your guest for the evening, and, therefore, you are supposed to pay for the tickets, procuring them in advance, and either hand them to the young men en route to the dance, or turn them into the ticket taker yourself. It doesn't make much difference which method is adopted.

• • • •

On returning home, the young man (if he has good manners) will tell you what a pleasant evening he had. That is an obligation which any guest owes any hostess. However, if he fails of his duty in that regard, you may quite properly thank him for coming. Yet it isn't strictly necessary, and you shouldn't worry about it to the extent of thinking up a set speech in advance. If the evening is rather dull, if you don't get along together any too well, if he seems stand-offish, you may simply say, at the evening's end: "Good night. It was nice of you to come." If you have a hilarious time together, you can be more fulsome in your expression of enjoyment. M. H.

Adolescent Triangle.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a high school girl, very much in love with a high school boy. That part is all right, but here is the trouble: One night I had a double date with this boy, my best girl friend and another boy. I enjoyed it until I noticed the girl was trying to win his interest. She succeeded fairly well and while I was boiling mad inside, I concealed my feelings. After that night, I didn't feel so friendly toward her. But a few days later she came over and was so sweet that I changed my attitude to one of friendliness, and again liked her a great deal.

• • • •

Well, everything went fine until I heard from a reliable source that she had been out several times with my boy friend. I was so hurt and jealous that I cried at first. Then, after thinking it over, I was angry. But both of them continued to act as friendly to me as before. Now, what I want to know is this—should I be friendly with them, or furious? They don't know that I know about them, but since I do, how should I handle the situation?

• • • •

I still love the boy, and I've known the girl for so many years that I can't ignore her for no apparent reason. Should I tell her what I know and have a show-down, or go on pretending that all is as it should be? I will appreciate any advice you can give me.

CONFUSED.

Keep Poker Face.

DEAR CONFUSED: Since you care for the boy, it must naturally be a matter of concern to you to keep his good opinion, and that, I think, can best be done by keeping your suspicions of his and the girl's skullduggery to yourself. Men (and boys) have an abiding distaste for and dread of women (or girls) who make scenes, and you would be making a scene in confronting your rival with a "show-down." It might give her just the ammunition she needs, and is waiting for, to make you ridiculous and objectionable in the boy's eyes.

• • • •

I think you should accept her supposed underhanded rivalry as a challenge to win on merit, not on dogged prior claim and jealous possessiveness. Beat her at her own game. Don't seek her out. Avoid her society as much as possible, merely in the interests of personal sincerity of conduct, but when she comes around with honeyed words and sugared sweetness, pay her off in her own coin, with a measured glance of sardonic and skeptical amusement to properly season your reaction. Leave her guessing as to how much you do know, and what you think about her in consequence.

• • • •

As for the young man, who—wooed by two girls—is between the devil and the deep sea, concentrate all your most beguiling charms on him, just as you would if he were a brand-new beau, whose allegiance you were trying to annex on a permanent basis. The fact that he is willing, if not eager, to keep his interest in the girl a secret for the time being, suggests that you are still rather important to his happiness. If his interest in her was greater than his interest in you, he wouldn't care what you knew, or how you reacted to the knowledge. He would openly signify his preference for her, and let you like it or lump it.

• • • •

If you keep a poker face and employ your suavest manners where both are concerned, I dare say it won't be long until the situation "breaks" of its own accord. Either their interest in each other will die out, for sheer lack of adventurous suspense, or one or the other will "come clean" to you with the whole story, placing the blame on the absentee. In any event, you have more to gain than you have to lose, by ignoring the existence of what you suspect, and by turning a deaf ear to, and disapproving eye upon, informers. M. H.

Air-Conditioned Accessories for Summer

By Ethel Ehlen.

The Post Fashion Editor.

IT'S GOING to be a cool summer, sartorially speaking. With shoes riddled with perforations and cut-outs, beach clothes reaching a new record in briefness, dresses going sheer and many of them backless, and hats as cool and refreshing as an iced drink, Washingtonians can face the torrid summer days well armed. Designers and manufacturers have taken comfort plus smartness into consideration this season, so there is no excuse for anyone's not looking as cool as a lettuce leaf, in spite of the weather.

A WOMAN'S NEW YORK

By Alice Hughes.

New York, June 2.

THE NEW YORK week-end season is now in high. Come here, come there, and those of us who haven't a little shanty (eight bedrooms, nine baths) in Jersey, Westchester or Connecticut can usually spend Saturday and Sunday getting fine grub, good beds and mosquito bites 45 minutes from Broadway. I dress a pretty good week-end, though I'm a city lover, but the little old man is a problem. He hates fancy sports clothes, and the most he will do is put on a pair of gray pants and an old left-over coat. He is a regular week-end bum.

ALICE HUGHES

Sometimes we split week-ends between friends fighting for our patronage, to their ultimate sorrow. Saturday evening we spent at the lake and woods-surrounded spot of John Frederics, milliners—an hour from town, and yet as remote as a fishing hideaway in Maine. Three fine servants minister to those who rough it, including a magnificent chef who can roast a squab with any cook in Gotham. On Sunday we drove to the hilltop home of Rex and Pola Stout at Brewster, N. Y. Rex, bearded and outdoorish, writes the Nero Wolf mystery fiction, while lovely Pola designs and weaves wondrous fabrics, and mothers Rex and two children.

Rex broiled about 50 pounds of 2-inch steak on an open fire for the 30 guests, and we all went glutton. Half the crowd was writing folk, like Rex, Joseph Wood Krutch, of the Nation, and Gilbert Gabriel, critic, novelist and movie writer. The rest of us were in or around the "rag business." Plenty of talk, lots of eating, bright sunshine and a panorama of country toward the Hudson. Lovely, hectic week-end—good food, good talk, good friends, and by today we feel almost normal again. The menace and joys of New York week-ends are an inexhaustible subject. I'm afraid you're in for plenty more!

• • • •

GIRL ABOUT TOWN—We all rushed over to Neighbor J. P.'s house here on the Hill to congratulate the old gent on the arrival of his first great grandchild, a son recently born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Skinner Clark. Louise's papa is J. P.'s son, Junius. Of course, we didn't get past Psychic, the famed Morgan butler, and the two Pinkerton dicks on duty gave us pretty dirty looks.

• • • •

In all the excitment over the local debut of Vera Zorina, now the town's sensation in "I Married an Angel," operetta smash, too little attention has been paid to the whizzing comeback of prima-donna Vivienne Segal in the same show, singing the Dick Rogers songs. Viv was a standby in the last operetta epidemic, some years back—and show's she hasn't lost her magical touch in the new beauty.

• • • •

New York pals have just heard from Kay Francis, who say that when her long film contract finally winds up next September, she is off for a long jaunt to European parts.

• • • •

And I hear around town that George Gershwin's 85-year-old grandmother still hasn't been told that the famed musician is dead. Doesn't seem possible that it is very nearly a year since George died in Hollywood.

• • • •

Noted on the sunlit avenue—social girl Barbara Boston in a snake-skin hat with a flaring brim, and carrying a huge handbag of the same material, or whatever it is. Hat and purse are enormous, but can't quite hide Barbara.

• • • •

Terrors of New York life. Mrs. Amelia Sanchez was walking along East 114th street when a bullet hit her in the back, came out her chest, passed through a man's hand, struck another in the face, and then fell to the sidewalk. No one knew who shot the lady, but even walking here can be dangerous, it appears.

• • • •

Miss Barbara Bates is not exactly heading a drive on the blood-red fingernail, but she is offering a lovely substitute right now, for the summer. She is doing lacquer-white nails, cool-looking and very pretty, as a summer finger-notion, and winning a lot of converts to the polish. Goes beautifully with the tan or sunburn of the season, and is a very pleasant change in every way. I feel that nails have gone a little too gory of late.

YOUR FIGURE, MADAME!

By Ida Jean Kain.

WHEN YOU WERE the neighborhood tomboy you could probably chin yourself six times in a row from the limb of the old apple tree. And now you can feel rightfully proud if you are able to hoist yourself chin-level just once.

That's not old age. The trouble is that you have not used those upper arm muscles enough to keep them strong. And what has this strong-arm stuff to do with your figure program? Plenty! If you find it impossible to chin yourself, you no doubt have arms that are as flabby as a rag doll's, and look forward with scant pleasure to the short sleeve season.

While age actually has nothing to do with the shapeliness of the arms, failure to use the arm muscles over a long period of time makes this area almost as accurate an index of birthdays as the chinline.

Very few everyday tasks involve such movements as thrusting out forcibly with the arms, or working with the arms held in a horizontal rather than perpendicular position. You may contend that you do considerable work with your arms, but the old-fashioned chores, like operating the back porch pump, scrubbing on a washboard, or churning, were the ones that used the arm muscles most effectively. We would not for anything give up the clever inventions that lighten a woman's work, but they have made it necessary to invent special exercises for unemployed muscles, particularly those of the upper arms.

Next to chinning yourself, the most effective use of the arm muscles is obtained in the following exercises:

MOVEMENT: Keeping the body in a straight line, push yourself up off the floor with the arms. (Whew! I hope you didn't expect that to be easy.)

This one exercise, repeated from three to five times daily, would keep your shoulder, arm and tummy muscles on the job.

You may require an easier beginning exercise and here is one that we can all do with good results:

POSITION: Standing about 12 inches from the wall, palms of hands against the wall, chest level. Have the back straight and the tummy held up.

MOVEMENT: Resisting with the arms push forward until the chest touches the wall. Do not let the back sink in as you move toward the wall. Now, resisting with the body, push away from the wall with the arms. It is very important that the body be held in a straight line during the exercise. To stretch the leg muscles, have heels flat on the floor throughout. Repeat the exercise six times, gradually working up to 20. Always perform slowly and forcibly.

REDUCING MAYONNAISE.

2 egg yolks
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1¼ cups mineral oil

All the salt to the egg yolks, blend thoroughly. Add the lemon juice. Then add the oil in quantities of a tablespoon or more, being sure that all the oil has completely combined with the egg yolks before more is added. Continue beating all the time with rotary beater. Toward the last larger quantities of the oil may be added at a time. Have all the ingredients cold. If a more acid dressing is desired, add more lemon juice or add the juices from several pickles.

Use purified mineral oil—heavy oil is best. This oil has no nutritive value and is also laxative.

One and one-half cups of dressing contain 57 calories. One tablespoon contains 3 calories.

No danger of flabby arm muscles so long as you can chin yourself

Consideration Is a Requisite In Apartments

Manners Code Accepts Fact Private 'Rights' Must Be Secondary.

By Margaret Wallace.

THE CODE of good manners for apartment house dwellers has as one of its prime essentials the consideration of others. The person or family that essays to live in an apartment also accepts the fact that this form of living is different from living in a house with private front doors, yards and sidewalks.

Well-bred apartment house dwellers, who are just as much monarchs within the walls of their apartments as those who live in houses, should remember, however, that those who dwell within other apartments also are monarchs in their realms. It is just as intrusive to use too much of the public apartment passage space or other prerogatives as it would be to intrude in one of the apartments.

Loud Noises Annoying.

While laws regarding radio, singing and loud talking in apartment houses are very lenient, considerate persons remember that those beyond the walls of their apartments may want to study or relax and will try to keep all sounds as soft as possible. The person who likes grand opera music on the radio may "have the right" to let it blare out in the late hours of the night but still be guilty of bad manners by so doing.

Some apartment dwellers seem to have the idea that since they live in apartment buildings they and their neighbors are all one big family. This attitude often is a source of annoyance to other families that wish to safeguard their privacy. It is no more necessary for an apartment house dweller to be on intimate terms with a neighbor than it is for neighbors in houses to do so. The habit some housewives and other members of apartment families have of dashing about the building in informal attire is just as bad form as it would be to dash from one's house to a neighbor's.

Calling Not Essential.

The apartment house dweller has a perfect right to regulate the degree of friendliness maintained with neighbors. The system of calling and leaving cards and so forth between neighbors in houses should be followed as strictly by the apartment house dweller. If an apartment neighbor calls, the person who has been called upon may return the call if she wishes to continue the acquaintanceship or leave cards as a courtesy and let the matter rest there.

Since members of apartment house families meet frequently in elevators and halls, courteous greetings should be acknowledged, whether the neighbors extending them are friends or acquaintances or not.

Tribute to Bromides.

Thank Heaven for weather:

To bridge that awkward pause after the "so glad to meet you."

To serve as a gangplank, at bridge luncheons, to weightier matters of gossip.

To employ in safe and gracious condescension to servants and tradespeople.

To commend or curse animatedly when you are riding in office elevators with semiacquaintances.

To take refuge in when your enemies lie in wait to grab a phrase to ensnare you.

To talk to your beau about when you want to freeze him for past misbehavior.

To ramble on maddeningly of when all the girls are waiting to hear the latest scandalous morsel you've cornered.

• • • •

Thank Heaven for table decorations:

To open the conversation with when you turn to the luncheon or dinner guest at your right.

To open the converation with when you turn to your guest at the left.

To gush over at length when you are stuck at a tea with a guest whose name, face and background are a little vague in your memory.

To discuss with the tea pourer, with the one man who is present, with all lovers of the beautiful, and with especially with social climbers with whom you want to remain strictly impersonal.

• • • •

Thank heaven for geography:

To draw upon when you are introduced to all the Mrs. Whoosits from here, there and yonder.

To give you a conversational send-off when you meet the third assistant to the undersecretary of an embassy.

To assist you in melting the ice with old Mrs. Doodlebopp, whose name is a power in the Sniffville section.

To aid you in following a detailed account of the cross-country motor car tour of Mr. Van Proser.

To give you prestige with the Noodles, the Looneys, the Piffles and all others whose grandmothers and yours came from the same region.

To make you a charming companion to old Mr. Rambler, who has been everywhere and insists upon telling about it.

• • • •

Thank heaven for climate (especially Washington's):

To apologize for to visitors and make them feel pleasantly superior.

To discuss with Californians and send them home happy.

To give a great sense of social elation to those who are going away for the summer.

To publicize in your letters to friends out of town and discourage them from journeyings eastward.

To berate through the long summer months and to give you the sense of a martyr.

To draw you together in ties lasting and true with persons who have similar feelings.

• • • •

Thank hevan for trifles:

For cute little tea cakes; for canapes that are unusual; for trinkets brought from strange places; for views from drawing room windows; for antique highboys that are "adorable;" for rooms that are "interesting;" for gowns that are "stunning;" for anything, everything, dull, trite and harmless that keeps talk off of Hitler, of the terror in Spain, of the carnage in China, of taxes on business, of the follies of Congress; of fears of the White House; of men who are jobless, of how who should do what, and of "What of the future?"

Improve Your Conversation

JANE'S REALLY NO beauty, but she has S. A. Yes, that means Speech Appeal!

Not luck but pluck produced it. She realized, shrewd lassie, that conversational come-hither is as exciting as optical come-hither, so she studied the magic of good talk.

Some of Jane's rules? She keeps a conversational ace-in-the-hole to break embarrassing silences—"What good movies have you seen lately?" She invites the other fellow to talk, makes him feel important with "What do YOU think?"

She never lets on if she's heard a story. Slang? She uses it lightly, never harps on trite phrases like "You said it!"

As for small talk, what to say to strangers, how to charm as hostess, guest—Jane got tips from our 40-page booklet, IMPROVING YOUR CONVERSATION. Use it to weed out errors; to acquire sparkle.

Extremely Simple Wedding Was Planned in the Utmost Secrecy.

By Hope Ridings Miller.
The Post's Racing Editor.

A small, quiet wedding of interest from coast to coast took place here yesterday when Miss Moira Archbold, younger daughter of Mrs. Anne Archbold, became the bride of Nicol Smith, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hayes Smith, of the Crossroads, Burlingame, Calif.

Marked by extreme simplicity and planned with the utmost secrecy, the marriage ceremony was performed in the spacious music room of the Archbold home, Hillandale, on Reservoir road. The Rev. George Clair St. John, of Wallington, Conn., officiated. He is headmaster of the Choate School, which was attended by the bridegroom and both brothers of the bride.

Armar Archbold, elder son of Mrs. Archbold, gave his sister in marriage. She wore a frock of pale pink organza, with an applique design of white roses on the bouffant skirt. Her short jacket, fashioned with elbow-length sleeves, was completely covered with the applique design. Her hat, a small flat model of pink straw, was trimmed with a nosegay of pink roses tucked under the brim and was set off with a wide pink veil, falling to the shoulders. A bouquet of pink roses, sweetpeas and lilies of the valley completed her ensemble.

Miss Caroline Beall Is Maid of Honor

Miss Caroline Beall, of Washington, was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She was gowned in sea green chiffon made like the bride's costume on bouffant lines. With it she wore a small green toque trimmed with loops of green velvet ribbon at the back and a nose veil. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

John Archbold 3d, of Walpole, Mass., younger brother of the bride, was best man.

Console organ music was played softly during the wedding ceremony, which took place before an improvised altar at one end of the room. Ferns, standards bearing June roses and tall candelabra marked the aisle, flanked the altar and served as a background for it.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served on the terrace, where the bride later cut the wedding cake and she and her husband lingered to mingle with the guests. Mrs. Archbold wore a brown and white frock set off with a broad-brimmed brown hat. Mrs. Smith, mother of the bridegroom, wore a purple and gray ensemble.

At the conclusion of the reception, the couple departed on their wedding trip, destination Europe. Plans for their future, like plans for their wedding were veiled in secrecy, but it is generally believed they will make their home in California.

Company of 50 Attends Wedding

Approximately 50 guests, including several out-of-towners, witnessed the wedding ceremony. The father and mother of the bridegroom came East especially to attend it. They have been visiting in New York and will be there for some time before returning to the West Coast. Mrs. John D. Archbold 3d, sister-in-law of the bride, was among the guests; also, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Powell, of London, England; Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Tobin and Miss Nini Tobin, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Cameron, and Edward Macauley, all of Burlingame, Calif.; Mrs. George Clair St. John, of Wallington, Conn., and Dr. Yau, of New York and Pekin, China.

Washington guests included Mr. and Mrs. Page Hufty, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Col. and Mrs. Sherman Miles, Mme. Cantacuzene, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. William Beall, parents of the maid of honor, and her sister, Miss Sidney Beall; Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, Mrs. M. J. Whittall, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Phillips, Baroness Koff, Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, Dr. J. H. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burling, Dr. Francis Foye, the Rev. and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, Miss Harriet Winslow, Miss Mary Winslow, Miss Ellen LaMotte, Miss Anne Randolph, Miss Mary Randolph, Mrs. Fred Cousins and Miss Joan Cousins.

Yesterday's bride is a granddaughter of the late John D. Archbold, who for many years was president of the Standard Oil Co. before it was separated into the present companies. Mr. Smith, an explorer and writer, was president of the Bachelors Club of San Francisco at the time his engagement was announced in April. Thursday, May 26, was the date originally set for the marriage, but two weeks prior to that the ceremony was postponed until yesterday, with no public announcement being made, and with persons invited to the wedding being asked not to mention the date.

Mrs. Archbold, mother of the bride, has long been prominent socially and in civic and philanthropic work here. Mr. Smith is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Nicol, of Stockton, Calif., where for many years Mr. Nicol was a prominent lawyer. The bridegroom's father is also a lawyer and is the director of several companies and owner of extensive oil lands.

Julia Murphy Is June Bride

St. Mathews Catholic Church, in New York City, was the scene of a quiet wedding yesterday morning, when Miss Julia Louise Murphy, daughter of George Carlisle Murphy, of Washington, became the bride of Patrick Francis Sheahan, of Wilmington, Del.

The Most Rev. John Collins officiated. The main altar, at which the nuptial mass was celebrated following the wedding ceremony, was decorated with roses, carnations and other cut flowers, while ferns and palms banked the sanctuary.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white chiffon. Her tulle veil fell from a halo fashioned of old Limerick lace and was trimmed with lilies of the valley. The bride carried a prayer book and a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses.

Miss Helen Genevieve Morley, maid of honor, wore a frock of blue marquisette, with a bolero jacket. A blue face veil and a bouquet of pink roses completed her ensemble. James Joseph Corbett, also of Washington, was best man. Following the ceremony there was a breakfast at Schraft's for immediate members of the families.

The bride attended Central High School, Wilson Teachers College and Columbus University Law School. Mr. Sheahan, who is Wilmington agency director for the New York Life Insurance Co., formerly made his home in Washington. After an extended wedding trip to Quebec and other points of interest in Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Sheahan will make their home in Wilmington.

Mrs. Brown, G.O.P. Committeewoman, Gives a Luncheon

Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Brown, Republican National Committeewoman from Dayton, Ohio, who has been spending some time at the Mayflower, entertained at a small luncheon there yesterday. The ranking guests were Mrs. Charles McNary, Mrs. Warren Austin, Mrs. Ralph Brewster and Mrs. Dolly Gann.

Representative and Mrs. Brewster hope to attend the commencement June 18 of Bowdoin College in Maine, Representative Brewster's alma mater. They will then motor to Cambridge, Mass., where Representative Brewster will attend the twenty-fifth reunion of his class at Harvard Law School. Their son, Charles Brewster, is a first year student at the school.

The remainder of the summer they will spend at their home in Dexter, Me., campaigning for Representative Brewster's re-election on September 12.

Signora Piussi Leaves Today for New York

Signora Margherita Piussi, sister of Donna Matilde de Suvich, wife of the Italian Ambassador, will leave today for New York. She will return for a day before going to Pittsburgh.

On June 10 she will sail for Italy with Donna Matilde de Suvich and the latter's children. She will be joined later by the Ambassador.

At a garden party today at Toll House Tavern, Faik Konitza, Albanian Minister here, will be awarded the High Hat given monthly by Judge magazine for his "marvelous sense of humor and a fine ability to phrase."

Miss Gallatin Is Married to William Aiken

Washington Man Is Usher at Ceremony Performed in New York Church.

Miss Phyllis Almy Gallatin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gallatin, of New York, was married yesterday in that city to William Appleton Aiken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lawrence Aiken, also of that city. J. Graham Parsons, of Washington, and I. N. P. Stokes 2d, formerly of this city, now of New York, were among the ushers.

The ceremony was performed in St. James' Church by the Rev. H. B. W. Donegan and the Rev. Sewell Emerson. Pink and white flowers at the pews and flowers and palms banking the altar formed the decorations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white chiffon gown with a full skirt and a lace veil. The costume was worn by her mother and sister at their weddings. She carried lilies of the valley and a spray of white orchids.

Mrs. C. B. P. Cobb, who was her sister's matron of honor, wore a frock of blue net trimmed with pink ribbons, and carried delphinium and African daisies.

Whitney Satterlee was best man and the other ushers were Albert Frederick Gallatin and James P. Gallatin, brothers of the bride; Henry I. Cobb, jr., Dr. Hamilton Southworth, Winthrop G. Brown, George W. Wheeler, Huntington Miller and William Douglas.

Alex Legare Home And Garden Shown At Housewarming

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Legare are planning an autumn garden for their new home in Georgetown, but friends who dropped in yesterday afternoon for their informal housewarming, all agreed that, as an early summer garden, it was perfect.

The outdoor furniture is painted a cool gray with gray and red covers, and the terrace is flagged with old marble. The Legares have set out a row of red Japanese maples for a hedge when they "come of age." At the back is the original brick wall.

Virginia Shafer Becomes Bride

Carrying her mother's prayer book, Miss Virginia Shafer last night became the bride of Kenneth Barker in a ceremony performed at the Cherrydale Methodist Church by the Rev. Dr. Eugene Makosky, rector, and the Rev. James Ferneyhough. The former Miss Shafer is the daughter of W. G. Shafer, of Warrenton, Va., and the late Mrs. Shafer. Mr. Barker is the son of Mrs. Charlotte E. Charters, of Arlington, Va., and the late Henry F. Barker.

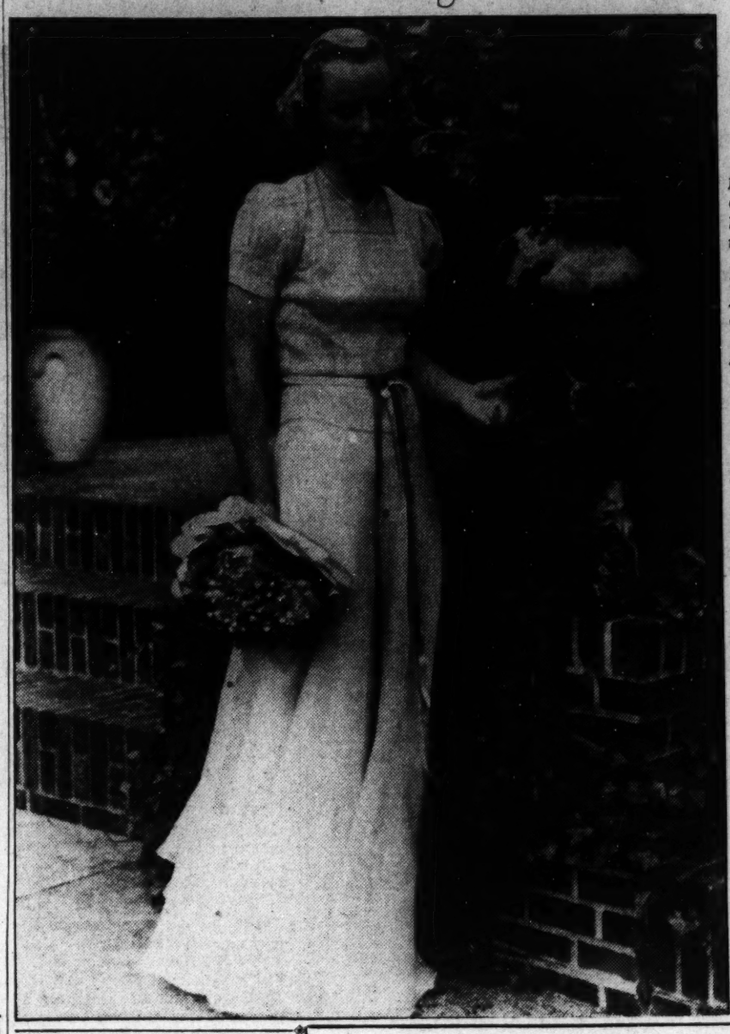
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white lace over white satin, fashioned with a long-sleeved jacket and a slight train. Her wedding veil was caught with clusters of orange blossoms.

Miss Ruth Shafer, her sister's maid of honor, was in white over blue embroidered organdy, made with a bolero jacket and a full skirt. She carried roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Nellie Shafer, who wore flowered organdy in peach tones; Miss Lillian Fletcher, of Warrenton, who was in green embroidered organdy, and Miss Edith Blincoe, of Arlington, who was in pink embroidered organdy. All carried roses. Bernice Rector, of Warrenton, was the flower girl. She wore pink organdy and carried a basket of rose petals.

Donald Barker, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Floyd Stehman and Joseph Marsteller, of Arlington, and Alfred Stevens, of Washington. After a reception at the church, the couple left for Boston. The bride's traveling costume was of London tan with accessories of wheat. After the middle of June, they will be at home at 2904 Twenty-second street north, Arlington.

Made Debut at High Tea Yesterday



Miss Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor, daughter of the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, was presented to Washington society yesterday at a large tea given by her parents at their home on Observatory Circle. She has just completed her first year at Bryn Mawr. It is possible that Mr. and Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor may give a small dance in her honor next winter to which the younger set will be bidden, but yesterday's bow marks her official curtsy to capital society.

Paraguay Envoy Luncheon Guest

Gen. Jose Felix Estigarribia, who arrived early in the spring to serve as Minister from Paraguay, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given yesterday by Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union.

The guests were George S. Messersmith, Assistant Secretary of State; Oscar L. Chapman, Assistant Secretary of the Interior; Dr. Pablo Max Ynsfrant, Counselor of the Paraguayan Legation; Robert Thomas Allen, Commercial Attache; Richard C. Patterson, jr., Assistant Secretary of Commerce; Ernest G. Draper, of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve Board; William Wallace White, Consul General of Paraguay at New York, and Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the Public Health Service.

Others present were Robert M. Scotten, Counselor of the United States Embassy at Rio de Janeiro; Laurence Duggan, chief of the division of the American Republics of the State Department; Richard Southgate, chief of conferences of the State Department; Dr. Alexander V. Dye, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce; Dr. Constantine E. McGuire, and Dr. William Manger, counselor of the Pan-American Union.

John L. Rogerses Give House Party For Middie Son

Among the many house parties in connection with June Week festivities at Annapolis was the one given by John L. Rogers, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Mrs. Rogers. Their son, Leon W. Rogers, was graduated from the Naval Academy yesterday, and the house party, attended by a number of relatives and friends, was arranged in his honor.

Among the guests were Mrs. L. O. Rogers, of Tennessee and Florida; Mr. and Mrs. Clark F. Rogers, of Jacksonville, Fla.; W. B. Rogers, of Orlando, Fla.; Jimmie Hart, of Tennessee and Princeton, N. J.; Miss Aurelia Carter and David Church, of Washington. Miss Betty Sisson, of Washington, was the guest of John L. Rogers, jr., at the farewell ball Wednesday at the academy.

Ensign Rogers will leave for Seattle the latter part of June to report for duty on the U. S. S. Northampton.

About The Town

With Dudley Harmon

ENERGETIC Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor yesterday took the first step in a strenuous schedule of bringing out two girls in two cities in two years. She and her husband, who is Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, presented their elder daughter, Miss Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor, at a large reception at their home on Observatory Circle.

DUDLEY HARMON

Since the Chatfield-Taylors come originally from Chicago, yesterday's debutante will be presented there as well. Her sister, Miss Rose Chatfield-Taylor, now a student at Westover, Conn., will come out next year.

• • • •

THE HEROINE of the reception yesterday is the Capital's second debutante of the season, its first from "little cabinet" circle. An unusually slim and pretty blonde, she wore a floor-length frock of the palest blue, with a narrow belt of crimson velvet ribbon, and carried an old-fashioned nosegay. She has just completed her first year at Bryn Mawr.

The whole Taylor family had been hoping for weeks that the sun would be shining yesterday so the party could be held on the lawn. Their wish came true, and everybody gathered on the grass behind the house. Mrs. Taylor and her daughter received on the terrace overlooking the garden.

An unusual decorative touch had been bestowed upon the wide entrance hall, where the pillars were festooned with ivy and glacioli, which also were twined over the wide doorway.

TO LIST who was there would be to copy the diplomatic blue book, the Congressional Directory and the Social Register almost verbatim. However, just to skim the surface:

Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, wife of the Assistant Secretary of State, with charming Miss Eleanor Sayre, who will graduate this year from Bryn Mawr, chatting with Mrs. William Chapin Huntington, who will be off July 1 with Mr. Huntington for a tour of Europe by motor.

The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay, the latter occupying a comfortable chair in the garden and surrounded by admirers. Miss Irene Boyle, in navy blue with a becoming hat; Keith Officer, and several others of the embassy staff.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Houghteling leaving early because they had to attend a 7 o'clock dinner; Mrs. C. Mathews Dick, in a yellow print; charming Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, who said that her daughters, the Misses Martha and Virginia Bacon, had left for their Old Westbury home; Mrs. Edward Finkenstaedt; Mrs. Carroll Morgan chatting with Charles Carroll Glover, jr.; Mrs. Sol Bloom and Miss Vera Bloom, who will spend the summer in Bluemont, going to New York in September, when the primaries begin, and Mrs. Emil Hurja.

Sherlock Davis, Mrs. William McCracken, Mrs. McCook Knox and Miss Kathleen Knox, the latter in a brown tweed coat and a smart brown hat, with a veil and feather trimming of the palest pink; Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Feis, Mrs. Charles Darlington, Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding and Mrs. Theodore Achilles were only some of the many, many present at a very successful party.

• • • •

THE USUAL enthusiastic crowd turned out last night for the F Street Club dance, the second this spring. Despite threats of rain, dinner was served in the garden, where guests grouped at small tables and did justice to a menu that included creamed turkey, scrambled eggs, salad, baked beans and so on, ad infinitum.

At one table were Frances Andrews, wearing a brocaded wrap over her evening gown, and Eleanor Floor, who was dressed in black. Another dinner group included Mrs. Higginson Rogers and Jacques Dumaine of the French Embassy.

Issue Invitations.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gregor have issued cards for a tea on Tuesday from 5 to 7 in their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Family heirlooms were a feature of the bride's ensemble when Miss Betty Louise Main, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John David Main, of Denver, was married yesterday afternoon to Henry Wilder Keyes, son of former Senator and Mrs. Henry Wilder Keyes, of North Haverhill, N. H., and Washington.

Over her white satin gown, simply made, the bride wore an embroidered net veil first worn by her great-grandmother. It was trimmed with a cluster of orange blossoms that the bridegroom's mother wore at her wedding. The bride carried her great-grandmother's white prayer book with a shower of lilies of the valley and stephenotis.

Miss Gretchen Main Is Maid of Honor

The ceremony took place at the Church of the Ascension in Denver at 4:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Henry S. Foster officiating. Miss Gretchen Main served as maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. Her frock of aqua lace was made redingote style over taffeta with a rose colored sash. A braided coronet completed her costume.

John Parkinson Keyes served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Walter Koch, of Corpus Christie, Tex.; Louis P. Bansbach, jr., Thomas Aurelius, and Donald I. Davidson, all of Denver. Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Main, who received with the newlyweds, was gowned in gray tucked net and wore a wide-brimmed Dubonnet hat. Her bouquet was of carnations and bouvardia.

Bridegroom's Mother Wears Heirloom Frock

Mrs. Keyes, who is widely known as Frances Parkinson Keyes, wore a dress of black Chantilly lace that has been in her family for four generations and a circlet of diamonds that belonged to her mother. Beneath the lace there was a pink slip that blended with her corsage of orchids. Last June, Mrs. Keyes appeared in the same frock at the marriage of another of her sons, Francis Keyes, and Miss Louise Burleigh McNeil, who were married in Boston.

The dress belonged to Mrs. Keyes' mother, her grandmother and her great-grandmother, each of whom appeared in it at the wedding of her daughter. Mrs. Keyes has carried on the tradition and worn the handsome frock at the weddings of both her youngest and eldest sons.

After a wedding trip through the Panama Canal, the couple who were married yesterday will make their home at 105 Myrtle street in Boston. As her traveling costume, the bride chose a costume of navy blue sheer with a matching cape, trimmed in yellow. She is a graduate of Smith College, while the bridegroom finished Harvard College and Harvard Law School. He is now connected with the Boston law firm of Sherburne, Powers & Needham.

Miss Bondfield Gives Talk at A. A. U. W. Fete

National Planning Must Provide for the Fundamental Needs, Former British Labor Minister Declares.

By Jessie Ash Arndt,
The Post Club Editor

National planning must provide for the fundamental needs of the human being, Miss Margaret Bondfield, former minister of labor of Great Britain, declared last night speaking at a dinner given in her honor by the Washington branch of the American Association of University Women, at the Mayflower Hotel. A program which stops short on economy in the use of coal without taking into consideration its effect on the lives of human beings, becomes a social evil, she asserted.

When new devises come into an industry to increase production and replace workers, or when economic measures are improved effecting whole areas of poeple, all citizens should turn their attention to the problem, she said.

"It is nonsense to say more employment is created by increased production," said Miss Bondfield. "The new machine may provide a job for the young man just out of college and trained to operate it, but how about his father, or perhaps his grandfather, still an able worker, who is displaced by the machine? What of the man who has given his best effort and skill for almost a lifetime and suddenly finds industry has no place for him? The blow to his self-respect is the terrible part of the situation.

"The community as a whole should recognize new industrial processes and make provision for consumption equal to production—it is folly not to. That is what makes such depressions as we have today.

Individual Should Be First Consideration

"The responsibility of the twentieth century goes deeper down than the matter of wages, hours and working conditions. Whether you like it or not, the age is plunging into collectivism in the matter of economic problems. Producing and consuming goods are not the end of life. It is the development of the individual that is important."

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who was to have been on the program with Miss Bondfield, was unable to be present, having just sailed for Europe.

Referring to Miss Perkins' mission abroad, Miss Bondfield declared it is of supreme importance to democratic countries of Europe that the United States shows "even the smallest sign of interest in the mess we've got over there."

It is deeply appreciated not only by the governments but also by the workers, she said, that this country is sending Secretary Perkins to Geneva. She made this statement in the beginning of her address and closed with the assertion that, "because of the vastness of your resources, always remember, that you can't do anything without affecting the rest of the world."

Traces English Labor Movement

Tracing the progress of the labor movement in England from 1833, when it was made illegal to compel a workman to trade at a company store, Miss Bondfield followed it through to the present with the powerful Labor Party which she represents, functioning in politics as well as in economics.

With John Brophy, of the C. I. O., and Louis Hines, of the A. F. of L., among the guests at the head table, she referred to the vertical and horizontal forms of organization and the ironing out of difficulties within the labor movement in England.

Education for the worker in England has gone hand in hand with correction of labor abuses, she said, and has included the breaking down of the long-accepted theory that the intellectual class should be the lawmakers. "First-class brains are not confined to those born in wealthy households," she said.

Mrs. Richard Hogue, past president of the Washington Branch of the A. A. U. W. opened the dinner program, presenting Mrs. Robert L. Olesen, who has just succeeded her to the presidency and who presided. Miss Bondfield was introduced by Miss Dorothy Sells, of Brookings Institution, who has done research in the field of labor both here and abroad.

Tributes were paid to the guest of honor by Dr. Susan Kingsbury, of Bryn Mawr, whom she will accompany to Pennsylvania today; by both Mr. Brophy and Mr. Hines, by Miss Mary Anderson, of the Woman's Bureau of the Department of Labor, who also expressed Miss Perkins' regret at not being able to attend, and by Miss Elizabeth Cristman, of the Women's Trade Union League.

Others who were introduced were Miss Florence Thorne, of the American Federation of Labor, and Liefer Magnusson, director of the Washington Branch of the International Labor Organization. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Houdelette also were seated there.

Many Men Among Guests at Dinner

The dinner was attended by many men as well as women. Among the guests were Richardson Saunders, assistant to the Secretary of Labor; Mrs. Saunders, Gerard D. Reilly, solicitor of the Department of Labor; Miss Frances Jurkowitz, administrative assistant to the Secretary of Labor; Mr. and Mrs. David Cushman Coyle, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Houghteling, Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the Mint; Mrs. Charles Weston, Capt. Rhoda Milliken, Mrs. Milliken, Mr. and Mrs. Snell Smith, Lowell Mellett, chairman of the National Emergency Council; Mrs. Thomas McAllister, director of the women's division of the Democratic national committee; Miss Olga Halsey, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Wagenet, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Huse, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wandel, Dr. and Mrs. Karl Pribraum, Judge Fay Bentley, Judge Annabel Matthews, Miss Selma Borchard, first vice president of the World Federation of Education Associations; Miss Earlene White, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs; Mrs. Nina Allender, of the National Woman's Party, and Miss Sibyl Baker.

Mrs. Irvine L. Miller, Maryland State chairman of the D. A. R. committee on national defense through patriotic education, has called a round-table instruction and discussion meeting on Wednesday, June 15, at 10:30 a. m. in the D. A. R. headquarters, Memorial Continental Hall.

National defense policies will be discussed.

Leaders in the discussions will be Mrs. Justin Sypher, of Washington, chapter chairman of the national defense of the Maj. William Thomas Chepter, and Mrs. Harry K. Corrick, of the national defense committee staff.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Wade, national defense chairman of the Brig. Gen. Rezin Beall Chapter, will open the forum discussion with her view, as a clubwoman and patriotic leader, of the place of a patriotic society in public affairs, and Mrs. Paul Schaff, executive secretary of the national defense committee, will read and discuss the resolutions passed at the last Continental Congress.

Although designed primarily for Maryland D. A. R.'s in the Washington area, the meeting is open to all interested. A similar meeting will be held in Baltimore on June 17 at the Tudor Arms.

George Lanes to Fete 3 Betrothed Couples

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Lane will entertain at dinner tomorrow at the Congressional Club in honor of Miss Muriel Webb and her fiance, John Thompson; Miss Carleen Loeffler and her fiance, Clarence McClaine, and Miss Mary Margaret Hughes, who is engaged to Arthur Carroll, jr. Miss Webb's wedding will take place June 29.

Visitation Fete Attended by 70

More than 70 alumnae of Georgetown Visitation Convent gathered at the Sulgrave Club last night for their annual banquet, with Mrs. Joseph Leiter, the president, presiding. Guests are here from many parts of the country for the alumnae festivities and the commencement ceremonies at the school.

They were seated last night at a horseshoe table decorated with spring flowers in which gold and white, the school colors, predominated. Mrs. Leiter, who has been president of the alumnae association for the past three years, made a short talk and several of the other alumnae were called on for impromptu greetings but there was no formal program. This morning the association will conduct its business meeting at the convent and the members will be guests of the Sisters at luncheon. Mrs. Frederick Sterling, Mrs. Leiter's sister, whose husband is American Minister to Latvia, will preside at the luncheon.

Among the guests at the banquet last night were Mrs. Alden R. Ludlow, of New York, and Mrs. John Bower, of Hagerstown, Md., who are guests of Mrs. Leiter's home during their stay in Washington; Mrs. John R. Williams, Mrs. Lawrence Cavanaugh, of New York, niece of William B. McCauley, Minister to the Irish Free State; Mrs. Hamilton Carhart, jr., of Kentucky; Mrs. Christopher Webber and Mrs. Henry Lockwood, of New York; the Misses Ruth and Helen Sheerin, of Indianapolis, who are sisters of the headmistress of the convent Sister Margaret Mary Sheerin; Mrs. Owen Perry, of Helena, Mont., the guest of Mrs. John Edgar Murdock, her classmate of 25 years ago, and Miss Adele Henritze, of New York, also of their class; Mrs. Martin Delaney and her daughter, Miss Catherine Delaney, of Alexandria, both graduates of the school.

A group which had its fifth class reunion included Miss Delaney, Miss Mary V. Fisher, of Detroit; Miss Florita Burke, of Ventnor, N. J.; Miss Miriam Carroll, Miss Florence O'Donoghue, of Washington; Miss Jeanne Murphy, Mrs. Josef Madille, of Washington; Mrs. McCutheson and Mrs. Eric Tattersall.

Among others from Washington were: Mrs. Louis C. Arthur, Miss Mary Ahern and Miss Eleanor Connolly and her guests, Mrs. James Osborne Craig, of Santa Barbara, Calif., and Mrs. Clarence Sweeney, of Indianapolis, a classmate; Miss Agnes Sealy, Mrs. William P. Herbst, Mrs. Frank W. Hill, Miss Christabel Hill, Mrs. Raymond C. Kirchner, Mrs. Joseph McHale, Miss Margaret McMahon, Mrs. Fearson Galer, Miss Mary O'Farrell, Mrs. Godwin Ordway, Mrs. Frederick Stohlman, Mrs. Alexander Chambers, Miss Edelin Wilson, Miss Mary T. Donohoe, Mrs. Wesley Bovee, Mrs. Arthur Hacker, Miss Borredell Gower, Mrs. Eugene Jarboe, Mrs. Edward M. Tierney.

St. Joseph's College Alumnae Plan Fete

Miss Mary Columbus, Regent, to Preside.

The Washington Chapter of the Alumnae of Saint John's College, Emmitsburg, Md., will hold its annual closing luncheon and bridge tomorrow at the Columbia Country Club. Miss Mary Columbus, regent of the Washington Chapter, will preside and Mrs. John A. Reilly is in charge of arrangements.

Miss Louise Sebold, of Emmitsburg, national president of the alumnae association, will be a guest.

Others attending will include: Mrs. Daniel O'Donoghue, Mrs. Walter Distler, Miss Pauline Flannery, Mrs. Frances Golibart, Mrs. Dwight Bracken, Mrs. Francis Emmet, Mrs. Robert Conlon, Mrs. Peter Faerber, Mrs. Frank Roach, Mrs. Armistead Burroughs, Mrs. Jere Walsh, Mrs. Ferdinand Hermens, Mrs. Mary DeBurr, Mrs. Robert Studds, Mrs. John McDonald, Mrs. Edward Talbott, Mrs. Thomas Devlin, and the Misses Margaret McKiever, Agnes Stock, Margaret Dunn, Mary Martha Golibart, Madeline King, Honor Keane, Marie Robertson, Rose McDonald, Margaret Thompson and Frances Edelen.

Delta Delta Delta Unit Plans Supper Tuesday

The Washington Alliance of Delta Delta Delta will meet at a preconvention supper Tuesday at 5 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Edward Horton, 4707 Reservoir road. Mrs. Ronald A. Cox, president, and members of the executive committee will be hostesses.

THE DOLL TEAS of the Woman's Council of the Washington Federation of Churches have been a drain on the toy departments of local stores. Around Christmas time they stock up with dolls in anticipation of the heavy demand, but the midseason run came without warning.

The announcement of the teas, admission to which is a doll, stipulated that they be small, inexpensive ones, from 10 to 12 inches high. The other day Miss Etta Mai Russell, the "Toy Truck Lady" responsible for the doll-adoption plan, inquired at one store for a doll of the specified size. The clerk shook her head and wrinkled her brow.

"There's some Miss Russell in town who's been buying up all the dolls like that," she replied, "and we're all out of them. They're having those doll teas, you know, and we can't keep enough in stock. Everybody's been buying them."

Miss Russell admitted she'd heard about the teas and wanted a doll or two to take along herself.

W. C. T. U. Plans Church Meeting

Dr. Daniel H. Kress will give an address on "Cigarettes" at the quarterly convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which will be held next Wednesday at the Takoma Park Baptist Church on Piney Branch road and Aspen street.

Dr. Kress has lectured in the public schools of Washington for the last 20 years and has had considerable experience in helping smokers to break the habit.

The first meeting will be at 10 o'clock. Reports will be given by Mrs. Manuel Kline, Mrs. Darrel C. Crain, Mrs. Florence Warner, Mrs. Elizabeth Newburgh and by Mrs. Frances Winters, who will give the report from the board of trustees.

The Rev. William E. LaRue, pastor of the church, also will address the convention.

In the afternoon session, which begins at 1:30 with a song service in charge of Mrs. Rovilla F. Atkinson, Mrs. F. W. Warner will announce results of the membership campaign.

The principal speaker of the afternoon will be Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Washington.

Life certificates will be presented by the president, Mrs. Ida W. Ramsey, and a little skit written by the children of a Takoma Park Loyal Temperance Legion will be given by them, under the leadership of Mrs. Guy Goodman.

Legion Creates Third Auxiliary

Cooley-McCullough Unit, No. 22, American Legion Auxiliary, organized Wednesday evening, is the third to be started this year under the direction of the department president, Mrs. Dorothy B. Harper. The department membership, now nearing 1,500, is the largest in its history.

The unit was organized at auxiliary headquarters, 414 Denrike Building, with 16 charter members and 17 transfers. The ceremonies were under the direction of Charles H. Kohen acting for Commander Sugrue of the post, and Post Adjutant George R. Toth in co-operation with the department president, Mrs. Harper; department secretary, Mrs. E. Louise Warren, and department membership chairman, Edith W. Quinn.

The first activity will be to assist the post in its rehabilitation program at Walter Reed Hospital, to be given for the patients there June 17.

The following officers were elected to serve for the 1938-1939 administration: President, Mrs. Edith Landvoigt; vice president, Mrs. Annie A. Sugrue; second vice president, Mrs. Ethel Fowler; chaplain, Mrs. Ethel P. Toth; sergeant at arms, Mrs. Ann Crump; historian, Mrs. Naoima Painter; color bearers, Mrs. Emma K. Warren and Mrs. Ruth Wolheim; secretary, Mrs. Edith W. Quinn; assistant secretary, Mrs. Laura G. Folliard, and treasurer, Mrs. Margaret Gauges.

The next unit meeting will be Tuesday at 414 Denrike Building.

Hadassah Sets Luncheon Party

Mrs. David B. Greenberg, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., chairman of the Youth Aliyah Committee of Hadassah, will be the guest speaker at the annual spring luncheon sponsored by the Washington Chapter of Hadassah to take place Wednesday at the Mayflower Hotel.

Mrs. Greenberg will speak on behalf of Youth Aliyoh, a project which undertakes the transfer of Jewish youth from Germany, Poland and Austria to Palestine. The luncheon is one of the means to raise the funds now necessary to remove the Jewish children from Austria. An emergency has arisen in that the British government by special arrangement has issued 1,100 youth immigration certificates which must be used by September 30.

In Palestine these children are given a two-year course of training in general academic subjects and in practical occupations, chiefly agriculture. This training is given at a cost of $360 a child.

The program is in charge of Mrs. I. E. Levinson, Mrs. Lawrence Koenigsberger and Mrs. Zal Diamond. A monologue will be presented by Yvonne Kushner. Reservations have been received in great numbers and there is an expected attendance of about 100. Mrs. Paul Pearlman is in charge of tickets. Mrs. Edward C. Ostrow is chairman, being assisted by her co-chairman, Mrs. Herbert Glassman.

Aero Club Here Fetes Olds and His Officers

Lieut. Col. Robert Olds and ten of the officers who served under his command on the good-will flight to Buenos Aires last February were the guests at luncheon of the Aero Club of Washington yesterday at the Mayflower.

Among the guests were Brig. Gen. H. H. Arnold, assistant chief of the Army Air Corps, and Maj. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, commander of the General Headquarters Air Force, of which the six "flying fortresses," which made the round-trip flight to South America are a part.

President John A. Victory, of the Aero Club, presided at the luncheon, which was followed by motion pictures made on the trip.

150 Attend Antiquities Benefit At Ellis Home Near Mt. Vernon

Mrs. Guy Withers Sings, Accompanied on Guitar by Sophocles Papas; Other Parties Are Planned at Rippon Lodge.

Nearly 150 guests were present yesterday at the garden party given for the benefit of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities at Rippon Lodge, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Ellis, beyond Mount Vernon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, with Mrs. Everard Robinson Todd, president of the society, welcomed the association members and their friends. Many motored out in their own cars and others went in a chartered bus which left the Willard Hotel at 3:30 and returned at 6:30.

The shower of rain which fell just as the party began, failed to deter the guests. Some were interested in walking through the garden and following the path through the fragrant pine woods, to the old family graveyard where Richard Blackburn was buried. Others followed the stone steps down to the ravine, leading toward the river or explored the grounds for the bushes which were planted to be used as a substitute for tea at the time the Colonists were protesting the taxes imposed by the British crown. All went through the old house and saw the secret tunnel used for escape from the Indians.

At every turn the estate afforded both beauty and historic interest. It had the added charm of being still the home of a descendant of the man who built it more than 200 years ago.

Mr. Ellis, whose mother was descended from the original owner, stood on a side porch and addressed the guests, telling the romantic history of the house. It is the oldest in this part of Virginia and was many times visited by Washington. The guests were seated on chairs, arranged on the lawn under tall old shade trees and, at the close of the program, were served refreshments there.

In addition to Mr. Ellis' talk, there was music by Mrs. Guy Withers, who sang, accompanied on the guitar by Sophocles Papas. Mrs. Withers' songs included "The Last Rose of Summer," "Long, Long Ago," "All Through the Night," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," and others of a similarly appropriate character.

Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Joseph Wall were cochairmen of the committee in charge of arrangements for the party, assisted by Miss Laura Dorsey, Miss E. Bertha Chinn, Mrs. Jessie Lee Webb, Mrs. Mason Smith, Mrs. William F. Noack and Mrs. William Clerk. Mrs. Ellis' sister, Miss Luella P. Chase, also assisted.

Among the many guests were Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Harvey Taliaferro, Mrs. John Ryan Devereaux, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. G. Freeland Peter, Miss Elizabeth Nolting, the Rev. and Mrs. Hatch Dent Sterrett, Mrs. William Channing Johnson, Mrs. John Ingalls Palmer, Miss Helen Norris Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Rule and P. H. Anderson, of San Francisco, Calif., who were here on their way to New York, thence to sail for Sweden for the summer; Damon Eckley, of Shenandoah Park; Mrs. Warren J. Haines, Mrs. Howard Sypher, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wadsworth Moore, Miss Minerva Culton and Mrs. Tilman B. Parks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis will again offer Rippon Lodge for a garden party on Sunday for the Daughters of the American Revolution. The proceeds will be given for D. A. R. educational work in the mountain schools, through the Susan Riviere Hetzel Chapter, of which Mrs. Ellis' sister, Miss Chase, is the regent. The hours are from 3 to 7.

Several years ago this chapter placed a large bronze marker on the King's Highway, or Old Potomac Path, which extends for 3 miles on this property.

Nats Beat Chicago, 7-1, Behind Bonura's Hitting

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

(News item: Schoolboy Rowe released to Beaumont of Texas League by Detroit Tigers.)

It's back to the minors for Lynwood Thomas Rowe who, at 26, is forced out of the big leagues by that perennial and haunting fear of all pitchers—the sore arm. The twisted muscle or the bone growth is no respecter of stardom. It is as apt to strike at the high-salaried sensation as it is to cut down the journeyman pitcher.

POVICH.

Amid the night ball and second-rate hotels of the Texas circuit, Rowe can now contemplate the vagaries of baseball and try to beat back the spectre of a parallel case—Daffy Dean's.

Like Schoolboy Rowe, the younger of the Dean brothers, was tops among big league pitchers. His fast ball helped the Cardinals to the pennant in the same season that Rowe was pitching the Tigers to the top. They had been opponents in the world series of 1934. They were taking down big salaries, getting rich shares of the world series spoils and their futures lay bright before them.

And then, like you'd pull a rug out from under an unsuspecting standee, his rich income was pulled out from under Daffy Dean by the mysterious sore arm attack. The Cardinals, in deference to his former rating as a great pitcher, tinkered with Daffy's arm for two years, continued to pay him a big salary. Last March they gave up on him, sent him back to the Texas League. At 26, he is through.

Rowe's in that league now, at the same age at which Daffy Dean found his big league career closed out. Bursitis they call his arm ailment, and that is not encouraging, because that is what they called Daffy's. They said the steadier work in the Texas League—the Tigers couldn't afford to use him regularly—might restore Dean's effectiveness, but they have said that before in similar cases and they say it usually simply to let a fellow down easy.

They Must Cash In.

So it's no wonder that ball players, especially the big shot stars, hold out for the last nickel in contract-talking time. Theirs is a short career and can be cut shorter by illness or injury. They must cash in on their talents while they retain their health. Back to the minors, the salaries represent a terrific come-down. As a minor league pitcher, the Schoolboy can hardly hope to draw more than $5,000 a year. With the Tigers, his salary at one point was $20,000.

Unless the Tigers release him outright to Beaumont, retaining no strings, as they do now, the Schoolboy will not suffer financially this season. A recent rule laid down by Judge Landis makes it compulsory for major league clubs sending players to the minors on option to make up the difference in thet salary terms of the original contract and the terms of the contract signed by the player with the minor league club.

There never was a young pitcher who, in his first full season in the big leagues, compiled as sensational a record as the 6-foot 4½ inch hill billy from Arkansas. He came to the Tigers in 1933 tabbed as the Texas League's best pitcher and Manager Bucky Harris detected more than a spark of talent in the 21-year-old right-hander.

He could throw fast and his great height was a terrific asset. Pitching overhand, he literally blew the ball past the batter, but he was not utterly reliant on his fast one. He had a change of pace and poise. He saw little action in 1933, but the following season he blossomed as the finest young pitcher to come into the league in a decade.

Grove Recovered.

That was in 1934 when he won 24 games and lost only eight, helping to bring the Tigers that first pennant in 25 years. That was the year, too, when he matched one of the proudest feats of Walter Johnson— 16 straight victories—to tie the record first written into American League history by Johnson in 1912, equaled by Joe Wood of the Red Sox in the same season, and tied again in 1931 by Lefty Grove.

And speaking of Grove, that personality represents more than a modicum of hope for the Schoolboy. For Grove, four seasons ago, was afflicted, like Rowe, with a sore arm. And the Boston shouthpaw recovered to regain his high place among the league's pitchers.

But Grove was troubled only for one season. Rowe's ailment has now endured for two. He has visited every known specialist in the Nation, has been treated by everybody except voodo doctors, and each new "cure" has been a failure. Down South in Lakeland last spring the word was out that Rowe had recovered, that his arm was all right, and there was optimism in the Tigers' camp.

But Bucky Harris, who saw him working out before an exhibition game, could not agree. "Look at him; he's pushing the ball," said Harris. "It hurts him to throw hard, I can tell that. There's no snap in his wrist. He isn't the same pitcher who came to me in 1933. I hate to say it, but the Schoolboy is through—done, washed up. Honest."

Mrs. Moody Is Defeated

Ruth Hardwick Is Victor Over U. S. Ace.

By the Associated Press.

Weybridge, England, June 2.—Helen Wills Moody was shunted suddenly to the side lines in the St. George's Hill tennis tournament today by 24-year-old Ruth Mary Hardwick, the apple-cheeked English girl who came so close to beating her in the same tournament three years ago.

Now England's second ranking player, Miss Hardwick spotted the 32-year-old Californian the first set and then rallied briskly to win, 1—6, 6—3, 6—3, and move into the semifinals.

In the 1935 tournament, Miss Hardwick, then an unknown, came within 2 points of defeating Mrs. Moody in straight sets, only to see the American win out, 4—6, 7—5, 6—3.

The defeat was the first for Mrs. Moody since she bowed, 6—0, 6—4, to Kay Stammers in the Kent championships of 1935. That year Mrs. Moody emerged from retirement and waged a successful comeback campaign climaxed by her sensational victory over Helen Jacobs in the Wimbledon championships. Troubled recurrently by the back injury she first suffered in 1933, Mrs. Moody played no major tennis in 1936 and 1937.

It was a sad day for America's Wightman Cup players who meet the British next week. Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan and Dorothy Bundy also were eliminated. Mrs. Fabyan was beaten by the hard-hitting Polish girl, Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, 2—6, 6—4, 6—2. Miss Bundy lost to Mrs. Heine Miller, of South Africa, 6—3, 7—9, 6—4.

Action Deferred On D.C. Amateur Boxing Proposal

The Senate District Committee yesterday became embroiled over whether intercollegiate boxing should be exempt from supervision of the District Boxing Commission and deferred action until the committee could be polled.

Senator McCarran (Democrat), of Nevada, was authorized to poll the committee on the boxing bill after he encountered opposition in his move to report the bill, already passed by the House. The measure, sponsored by Catholic University, would permit colleges and universities to exempt their boxing shows from commission supervision.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police and a member of the commission, opposed the bill and urged that supervision be retained.

He insisted that the fees are nominal and that the control is in the interest of the amateur boxers. Deaths have resulted in other jurisdictions, he said, because of the lack of supervision.

McCarran implied that certain "unpleasantness" had occurred at Catholic University because of the commission's supervision but declined to amplify. He also asserted that the commission had been responsible for distribution of numerous free tickets, but Maj. Brown denied this and explained that each member received only two passes.

Jim Londos Wins Again

Mat Crowd Boos Champ in Stadium Bout.

By Lewis F. Atchison.

Jimmy Londos, the world international mat champion, took his famed airplane spin into Griffith Stadium last night and almost cracked up on the cast-iron physique of Bobby Bruns, the Chicago challenger, who worked 47 minutes with the Greek before losing a disputed decision.

Witnessed by a slim throng of 1,000 fans, a turnout held down by threatening weather, the bout featured a well-rounded card which saw Fred Grubmier make a triumphant return by forcing Boris Demitroff to quit after 8 minutes in the semifinal. Grubmier caught his man with the old No. 4 scissors, and showed no inclination to let go.

Orville Brown tossed Frenchy LaRue in 10½ minutes after a rough and tumble session. Chief Thunderbird went 30 minutes to a draw with Rudy Kay, and Jack Peterson pinned Ivan Vacturoff in 15 minutes with the old reliable body press.

Londos found a worthy opponent in the handsome Bruns, who gave the maestro many anxious moments in the early minutes of the struggle, particularly with a punishingg toehold. It appeared that he might rip off the Greek's foot at any minute and toss it to the howling fans in the grandstand.

They went from hold to hold, with few intervals of idleness. Now and then the boys would take a couple of turns around the ring to restore the circulation in a badly mashed arm or leg, or to shake the cobwebs out of their befuddled brain after a session of hand to hand slugging. In this Bruns had a distinct edge, for he worked sans shoes and, consequently, was speedier afoot.

Several times it looked as though Jeem had his younger and handsome opponent ready for Bortnick's mathamatical test, but each time the perspiring Scot wriggled free. 5 Are Tied In Women's Golf Event

Mrs. Bishop Hill Wins Gross Award, Leaves 4 in Playoff.

By Merrell W. Whittlesey.

The District Women's Golf Association's Herald Cup event at Washington yesterday was temporarily a no-decision affair as five tied with net 78's for the trophy and eight more finished in a deadlock at 80 for the runner-up position.

The net 78's, that will play off for the cup Saturday morning, included Mrs. T. J. Johnson, Army and Navy, and Mrs. F. X. Gygax of the Service Club, Mrs. H. W. Sharpe, Indian Spring, and Mrs. Chester Morrill, Kenwood. Mrs. Bishop Hill, Chevy Chase, who scored 82-4, 78, elected to take the gross trophy and thus leaves a four-way tie the net prize.

Mrs. Johnson, recent winner of the Keefer Cup, played the back nine in 39 including five pars after outgoing 47, for a net 86 and deducting a 8 handicap left 78. Mrs. Gygax was also handicapped by a poor first nine, a 49, but improved on the return trip with a 44 for 93-15, 78. Mrs. Morrill was more consistent as she matched Mrs. Gygax's score with 46-47, 93-15, 78.

Mrs. Sharpe Has 42.

Mrs. Sharpe, playing well below her 18 handicap for the first 14 holes, had even fives in for a net 72 and a six stroke margin on the field but finished in disastrous fashion, 7-5-8-6, to only tie. She missed a putt of less than 2 feet on the final hole to win, after putting her first and second shots on the seventeenth hole in trouble and finishing with an eight.

Mrs. Hill, whose 82 was the best score of the day by a 2-stroke margin, with Marion Brown's 84 next, played steady golf over the route. Only fours and fives dotted her first nine card of 42. A par 3 on the eleventh hole broke the string and not until the sixteenth hole did she take a 6. The Chevy Chase champion finished 4-5.

The net 80s that tied for the remainder of the prizes were drawn out of the hat in the following order, with the first named receiving the choice awards:

Mrs. Brown Low Scorer.

Mrs. J. H. Bullock, Indian Spring, 97-17, 80; Mrs. R. N. Sutton, of the host club, 95-15, 80; Mrs. Merrill Lord, Columbia, 93-13, 80; Mrs. Harvey Cooper, Manor, 87-17, 80; Mrs. J. T. Powell, Manor, 97-13, 80; Mrs. Walter Stokes, Indian Spring, 85-5, 80; Marion Brown, Manor, 84-4, 80.

Cards Down Phils, 12 to 5

By the Associated Press

St. Louis, June 2.—The St. Louis Cardinals made free with the offerings of three Philadelphia hurlers today to win their second straight game from the Phillies, 12 to 5.

Rookie Enos Slaughter and Veteran Joe Medwick teamed to lead the 17-hit attack. Slaughter collected his fourth homer of the season and a double, while Medwick blasted three successive doubles and a single out of five times at bat.

Southpaw Roy Henshaw, optioned to Rochester by the Cardinals but ordered retained by Commissioner K. M. Landis, allowed the Phillies 13 hits.

Red Sox Win Over Browns

Young Bagby Scores a 6-1 Victory, His Third.

Boston, June 2 (AP).—Jim Bagby, jr., pitching in masterly fashion, chalked up his third win of the season for the Red Sox today when his teammates pounded three St. Louis pitchers for 15 hits and a 6-1 verdict.

Bagby faltered just once during the game, feeding Beau Bell a home-run ball when that right fielder opened St. Louis' side of the fourth inning and accounted for its only run. The Boston rookie, however, made up for that slip in Boston's side of that frame, when he clinched the game by scoring the Sockers' first two runs with a mighty single.

Bubbling Over, '26 Derby Winner, Expires on Farm

Since 1927 the star had been at stud on Col. E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour farm.

Olin Gentry, farm manager, said the chestnut son of North Star—Beaming Beauty, apparently was in good health last night. He was found dead in his stall this morning.

In 13 starts, Bubbling Over never was out of the money and won $78,552.

Giants Seek Buc Deal for Young

Pittsburgh, June 2 (AP).—The New York Giants, sorely pressed for a second baseman, offered to trade Wally Berger, slugging outfielder, and Lou Chiozza, second baseman, to the Pittsburgh Pirates today for "Pep" Young.

Managers Pie Traynor, of the Pirates, and Bill Terry, of the Giants, discussed the proposal after rain washed out today's game. Traynor indicated the trade, if made, would be completed before the Giants left town tomorrow night.

William Benswanger, president of the Pirates, asked about the deal, said:

"Traynor is the boss and the decision rests entirely with him. If he is for it, I am for it."

Yankees Sweep Double-Header With Tigers; Three Hit Homers

Spud Chandler Hurls Champs to 5-4 Victory in Opener; Pearson Wins Second, 5-2.

New York, June 2 (AP).—Behind a home run barrage and two splendid pitching performances by Spud Chandler and Monte Pearson, the New York Yankees squelched the drive of the Detroit Tigers today by sweeping a doubleheader, 5 to 4 and 5 to 2, before a noisy crowd of 34,826 cash customers.

Six of the 10 runs scored by the world champions were driven in by homers by Tom Henrich, Bill Knickerbocker and Red Rolfe. Rolfe's drive scored three runs in the first game that was a thriller from start to finish. Henrich's blow was good for two and Knickerbocker's worth one in the nightcap which was a Yankee runaway behind Pearson's 5-hit pitching.

Chandler allowed 6 hits in the opener. He was in constant danger but he tightneed in the clutches. In the ninth, he walked Rudy York, pinch hitter for Pitcher "Boots" Poffenberger, but forced Rogell, Walker and Gehringer to hit ground balls for easy outs. The Yanks clinched the game in the eighth when Henrich doubled and scored on Myril Hoag's single.

Pearson displayed his best stuff of the season in the windup. He struck out nine batters, three of them in the ninth, and Hank Greenberg twice with Gehringer on base. But for a fumble by Joe DiMaggio in the second inning, Monte would have been touchtd for only one run. DiMaggio juggled the ball after Pete Fox's single and the Tiger made

Indian Rally Beats A's, 10-5

By the Associated Press.

Philadelphia, June 2.—The Cleveland Indians rallied in the last three innings today to beat the Athletics, 10 to 5, evening the series at a game apiece.

Successive home runs by Hal Trosky and Ken Keltner, first up in the seventh, broke a 3-3 tie and started the Indians on their way to triumph.

From there they went on to score three runs in the eighth and two in the ninth. Earl Whitehill opposed by Edgar Smith and Nelson Potter was knocked out of the box in the ninth, in which Lodigiani and Pinch Hitter Frankie Hayes led off the successive homers. Zuber went to the rescue and retired the side without further damage.

Reds Beaten By Dodgers

By the Associated Press

Cincinnati, June 2.—Brooklyn's doddering Dodgers, who have lost three in a row and eight out of their last ten, turned on the power today and buried the Reds under an 18-hit attack for a 11-to-5 victory.

They pounded Crooner Joe Cascarella to the showers under a six-hit four-run barrage in the fourth and went on from there against three others, while big Max Butcher turned in an eight-hit performance for his third win of the year. The first three runs off Butcher were due to an error.

Ernie Koy and Cookie Lavagetto contributed homers, and Babe Phelps had a double and three singles. Ival Goodman whacked his twelfth homer of the year for the Reds.

With the bases full of Nats in the first inning, he doubled. A bit later he swatted a line-drive home run into the bleacher seats. He found time to slash out a single in the seventh. He drove home three runs and scored three personally. Their eighth straight defeat the hapless White Sox can blame largely on their old pal B

Commercial men say there is the greatest concentration of fish around the Virginia Capes they have known in several years and of the greatest variety. The big spot-tail bass are at Fox Hill Levels, but as yet are exceedingly chary in taking the baited hook. Cessation of the almost continuous northeast winds should correct that.

It has in no way affected the sea trout in Sinepuxent Bay, at Wachaprague or Chincoteague.

Activitise of the new boatmen's association at Cape Charles are constantly being noted—particularly the standard rates for the boats, $15 per day for four persons, which is about par with most fishing points. Oregon Inlet is just about shot for the first run of the bass—calls continue to come in for information, which is very meager and notes only occasional small catches. June is a poor month at this place—good fishing getting under way again just after the first of July.

Plenty of hardheads and a few trout in the West River and Bloody Point area—boats have been fishing the "Hilltop," whenever the weather has allowed the boats to get over.

Same is also true for the Gooses, Solomons and St. Jeromes Creek. Over this whole stretch the boats have been having the best luck in the deep water on the edge of the steamboat channel.

Capt. Taft Tippet, out of St. Jeromes, and fishing off Point No Point has had good catches of a hundred and more—same is true of Preston Lore's and Vince Langley's boats at Solomons—fishing far off the mouth of the Patuxent. Capt. Ed Bowen has been busy getting his boat's papers in shape—the Government requires that of all boats running parties—but not so busy he couldn't get up to Washington early Monday morning, where he was presented with a fine baby girl. "Kay's" doing swell.

• • • •

At Broome's, a few miles above Solomon's, on the Patuxent, the hardheads are going strong—early this week George Llewellyn drifted the shoal water in front of the island with his kicker on a small skiff, and in no time had 27 big ones—several bettering the 4-pound mark—he says he weighed them, and there's no discount on that statement. Fishing with light bait-casting tackle, it was more than a little sport. For those who have never fished this section—it its easy from the small skiffs, and at the standard dollar a day. If you would rather take it from a power boat, there is a fleet of some twenty-odd.

• • • •

In spite of the stiff wind blowing last Sunday, Dewitt Harry and his party, who had fished with Capt. Lev Raymond out of Ocean City on his Lev-Lou on Saturday with a catch of some 13 blues and one bonita, went back for more, and for their trouble, and a day's run of more than 75 miles—got seasick. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Smith and W. D. Luplow with Capt. Tal Bunting had 20 blues and 10 bonita averaging 4 pounds each. Wm. E. Cunningham, Charles Becker, J. Pfluger and Lester Major with Capt. Whaley had 23 blues and 250 pounds of porgies and seabass. Al Gordon, Ernest Hecht and Harry Grossman with Capt. Elmer Wilkins, 7 blues and one bonita. Capt. Crawford Savage's catches have been tops consistently, averaging close to the half-hundred mark each day, and some of the individual fish close up to the 7-pound mark. On Sunday P. W. Bowen and S. Malphy fishing with him had 43 blues. Washington anglers are fishing this point consistently—within the next four weeks the white marlin should be there.

• • • •

Many local fresh water anglers have been disappointed in the trouting offered by West Virginia streams. Willard Ayers confirms previous reports that Dillon Run should be stricken from your list. Some 30 miles below Romney on Route 50. He says there aren't any trout in the water, and if there were, the available food wouldn't support them. The water is warm and the small bass (that you can't keep) will run you ragged. In Trout Run, above Wardenville, the small rainbows are like the bass in Dillon—can't keep them off, but they too, aren't keepers. Has the first one to get. But at Big Hunting Creek at Thurmont, fishing last week with "Barney" Barnhardt, of Warrenton, Willard took 10, the smallest of which was 13 inches and the largest, a brown, was 16¾ inches. Two were rainbows. Barney's creel of 9 averaged just about the same.

• • • •

For fishing on salt water this week-end, if reports are any criterion upon which to base a prospective trip, we would say that your favorite place is as good as any, for with the settled weather they should be biting everywhere.

Hoyas Take Terps in Finale, 5 to 3; Petroskey Gives 4 Hits

Georgetown Breaks Tie In Seventh

By Jack Munhall.

Closing out a brilliant pitching career, unparalleled in Georgetown's history, Mike Petroskey gave Maryland only 4 hits yesterday as the Hoyas evened their current series with the Terps by winning, 5-3, on the Medical School field.

It was Georgetown's tenth victory of the season against 4 setbacks, while Maryland was losing its ninth game in 20 starts.

About 2,000 fans watched Petroskey, a 6-foot 4-inch senior, completely silence the usually noisy Maryland bats in all but three innings to record his twenty-third triumph against 2 defeats since he broke in as a gangling sophomore. Winner of 18 consecutive games before his streak was smashed this season, Petroskey was never in better form. He gave up a single in the first inning, a pair of one-baggers in the sixth and a fluke double in the eighth.

Terps Stopped.

And between the first and sixth innings 14 Terp batters in a row swung and failed to reach first base before George Knepley walked to open the sixth. And it was in that inning that the Terps scored the first runs on the game and appeared on the way to their second victory over the Hilltoppers.

After Knepley was passed, Mike Surgent singled to right, moving his teammate to third. Then Hugh Keller, younger brother of Charlie who led the International League in batting last year, his first in the circuit, was sent in to bat for Bill Bryant.

Keller wasted little time before setting the spectators to thinking about Charlie who made history at Maryland a few years ago with his prodigious hitting feats.

In the hole with the count at 2 strikes and a ball, Charley poled a dinky outside curve over the centerfield embankment for a home run, clattering across the plate behind Knepley and Surgent. Thus Maryland grabbed a 3-0 lead, a lead which seemed more than adequate the way George (Lefty) Wood was turning back the Hoyas.

Hoyas Off Again.

But in their half of the sixth these same Hoyas who had previously wasted nine safeties, set out to deadlock the count on only two hits and went on to push across the clinching markers in the seventh.

Capt. Johnny Cavadine led off the sixth with a single, went to second on a wild pitch, and after Tony Barabas walked, scored on Joe Keegin's hot poke to center. Barabas, who had stopped at third, continued home when, after Tom Keating had been walked, Joe Moran grounded into a double play. That made it two outs and Georgetown was still short of a tie. But Shorty Chumbris, the same lad who had started the twin killing, booted Petroskey's hot drive to short and Keegin tallied the knotting run.

Then in the seventh Georgetown simply and quickly placed the game beyond Maryland's reach. Smitty Nau got his third successive hit, a single to center, and scored on a single by Bassin and a leftfield fly by Cavadine. Bassin, who had taken third as Barabas grounded out, added the superfluous run by stealing home as Wood held the ball.

Nine Georgetown players and five Terps were in uniform for the last time. Cavadine, Nau, Barabas, Keegin, Nolan, Petroskey, Bassin, Keating and Mario Gregorio wound up their Hoya careers, while Wood, Karl Ruble, Bill Steiner, Surgent and Bryant finished for Maryland.

Leading Skeet Stars Will Compete Here

Wes Ferrell Pitches Today

Bogged down in seventh place as the result of an eight-game losing streak, the White Sox will attempt to bring their descent to a halt today by sending Thornton Lee to the mound against the Nats.

The left-handed Lee was the chief nemesis of the Washington club when he pitched for Cleveland in 1936. In that season he won only four games, all from the Nats.

Manager Bucky Harris will shuffle his line-up in an attempt to offset the White Sox's southpaw pitching. Al Simmons will replace Mel Almada in centerfield and Rookie George Case will supplant Taft Wright in rightfield. Ossie Bluege is slated to play second in place of Buddy Myer.

That arrangement, counting the presence of Wes Ferrell on the mound, will give the Nats a batting order of seven right-handed hitters, with Johnny Stone and Cecil Travis the only southpaw swingers in the group.

The Ladies' Day fans will witness a pregame ceremony at home plate when Outfielder Johnny Stone will be honored. Broadcaster Arch McDonald will present to Stone a gift donated by The Washington Post in recognition of the outfielder's victory in the WJSV-Wheaties Man of the Month Contest for May.

"We aren't hitting a nickel's worth," said Dykes.

The records of recent games show that the Chisox have averaged only a run and a fraction per game and only six hits during their eight-game losing streak. Not until Luke Appling returns to the line-up in July does Dykes expect more hitting power.

Brave souls in the upper deck directed a lemon shower at Dykes in the first inning yesterday after Zeke Bonura doubled with the bases full. Several lemons nearly hit the White Sox manager who ducked into the Chicago dugout.

The Schoolboy Traffic Patrol preserved its record as a lucky omen for the Nats yesterday when 5,000 white-belted lads saw Washington win. It was the ninth straight year that the Traffic Patrol sat in on a Washington victory.

Rick Ferrell's Foul In Tribe's Park Costs Him $300

County Clerk John J. Busher issued body attachments yesterday for Ferrell and E. B. Eynon, jr., the Senators' traveling secretary, because of $300 default judgment awarded Mrs. MarieKaeser.

Mrs. Kaeser claimed a foul from Ferrell's bat injured her at a "ladies' day" game. The Cleveland Baseball Club, named a defendant in her suit, won a dismissal—but Ferrell did not appear in court and was ordered to pay.

Nation's Leading Skeet Aces Will Compete Here Tomorrow

But Local Gun Champions Can Hold Their Heads High Among the Big-Time Shooters Coming.

By Bill Ackerman.

The National Capital Skeet Club's North-South Shoot, which opens tomorrow and continues through Sunday at the Bethesda Field, attained a prominence in the skeet world last year that was eclipsed only by the shoots at Lordship, in Connecitcut, and the Nationals. There is every indication that again this year the fifth annual North-South will be the largest shoot to be independently conducted by any skeet club in the United States.

Last year 148 participants vied against one another in the individual all-bore championships.

There can be little doubt that this year the entry list will mark an even greater number of shooters. Ed Williams, the All-American, from Redwood, Calif., has sent his entry in to the national organization.

Dr. Bob Vance and Dick Shaughnessy, the outstanding shooters of Massachusetts, are also entered. The latter is a youngster of but 17 years, nevertheless, coholder of the world's 410 record and twice champion.

Dr. Nichols, Ohio's champion, W. B. Thomas and R. J. Reynolds, of North Carolina; Dave Sklar, of the famous Valhalla team; Lou Delmonico, of the famous Loantaka "Indians"; Ed Garland and Frank Traeger, of Roseland's "wrecking crew" are others.

Frank R. Kelly, of Orange, N. J., captain of the All-American Skeet team—took the 20 gauge championship at the 1935 North-South, and the individual championship last year, when he just missed a perfect score by one bird.

The North-South is the common battle ground for the Yankees and the Rebels. In past years the northern contingent has taken away the lion's share of championships. The South, however, is now coming into its own, for last year the National Capital Rebels won the team trophy replacing Loantaka and Roseland.

Washington really has some title threats to send out on the four fields comprising National Capital, and over which, it is estimated, are scattered more than 20,000 pounds of lead every year.

Besides Mrs. William C. Coe and Mrs. Albert W. Walker, the two outstanding women shots of the country, there will be George Deyoe, sergeant Metropolitan Police, captain National Capital 1937 Rebel team, 1937 second All-American skeet team, 1936 honorable mention, every chance 1938 record will place him first All-American. Shoots 410 and all-bore with equal facility and is always a dangerous competitor. His 1937 average was .962.

Dr. Don Johnson, well-known local physician, with scores usually around 97, is capable of winning any match.

Man of the Month

(Each day, Arch McDonald distributes 10 points among the Nats whose play was most helpful to the Washington Club. At the end of each month The Washington Post will award to the leading player a gift in token of the honor of being The Post-Wheaties' "Man of the Month.")

By Arch McDonald.

(WJSV-Wheaties Baseball Commentator.)

Dutch Leonard and Zeke Bonura, the twin heroes of the Nats' triumph over the White Sox yesterday, win the bulk of the latest award of points in the Man of the Month contest for June.

To Leonard, five points, because his six-hit game was a masterful performance, because he walked only one batter despite the generous use of his knuckle ball, and because he protected the Nats' lead capably.

To Bonura, four points, because his home run, his double with the bases loaded, and his single figured in six of the seven Washington runs.

Tigers Send Schoolboy to Beaumont Club.

By the Associated Press

New York, June 2.—Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe passed out of the major leagues today.

The big right-hander, who skyrocketed out of Beaumont back in 1933 and was the pitching spearhead of the championship Detroit Tiger outfits of '34 and '35, was sent back to Beaumont on option. The Tigers can get him back on 24-hour notice, under the customary agreement.

His hurling collapse from an ailing arm, ever since the early weeks of the 1937 season, constitutes one of the major leagues' recent tragedies. Well-liked throughout the game, the 26-year-old pitcher from down Arkansas way, tried his mightiest this season to come back, but his salary wing just didn't have it any more.

His definite failure to regain the form that enabled him to win 16 straight in 1934, and show records of 24 games won in '34, and 19 each in '35 and '36, makes it all the more doubtful that Mickey Cochrane's Tigers will prove any too powerful a threat in this year's American League wars.

Since early last season the Schoolboy has been seeing specialists and physicians in an effort to get his arm back in shape. At times this season he looked as if he might click again, but six innings in any one ball game appeared his limit. He started three times, but was belted out on each occasion, the last time by the Yankees on May 26.

As a result he hasn't won a game yet, and has been defeated twice. Last year he won one and lost four. That's a far cry from his five-year "career" percentage of .642 on 70 victories and 39 losses.

Rowe started his career in organized baseball with a year of minor league seasoning at Beaumont and was promptly elevated to the Tigers the following season, where he has been ever since.

He appeared in both the '34 and '35 series, winning one and losing one against the Cardinals in the former year, and coming through with one victory against two setbacks in the Tigers' world championship drive against the Cubs in '35.

Paul Dean Goes To Rochester Farm.

St. Louis, June 2. (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals announced today Paul Dean had been sent to its Rochester farm club of the International league on option.

Dean will join the club tomorrow in Buffalo, N. Y.

The younger brother of Dizzy Dean flew here from Dallas yesterday for a conference with Branch Rickey, general manager of the Cardinals, after he had failed to pitch effectively for Houston, the Texas league "farm" of the club.

He was sent to Houston, after several years with the Cardinals, when he failed to show major league form in spring training this season.

After watching Paul pitch to Coach Miguel Gonzales, Rickey commented that Dean appeared to work more freely than he did at the training camp.

Three Inter-High Baseball Games On Card Today

With three inter-high baseball series games on tap for today, scholastic sports followers will be offered a very attractive card as Tech meets Woodrow Wilson at Roosevelt Stadium, Western engages Central at Western Stadium, and Anacostia tangles with Roosevelt at Eastern Stadium. All games are scheduled to start at 3:30 p. m.

Roosevelt is the only team having a chance to tie Eastern for the title, as all the other clubs have lost two games. The Riders, who have won three and lost one, will have to win two in a row while Eastern loses to Tech in order to send the series into a play-off.

If Anacosia upsets the favored Roosevelt team today, Eastern, the defending champions, will again be crowned the public school titleholders. And the race would then develop into a fight for second place by the Red Riders of Western and the Rough Riders of Roosevelt.

Land Office Wins.

Behind the clever pitching of Koenig, Land Office overwhelmed Miscellaneous Service Division in the I. D. R. A. Softball League, 12 to 5. Thomas led the winners at bat.

Mel Shorey to Play in National Open as John Bass Forfeits Place

State 4-Ball Final Match Is Shifted

Page Hufty, Chevy Chase Amateur, to Play in British Open.

By Merrell W. Whittlesey.

The District's representatives in the National Open at Denver, June 10 to 13, were boosted from two to three yesterday when Mel Shorey, East Potomac mentor, became eligible as an alternate when Johnny Bass, Clifton Park, Baltimore pro decided not to make the cross-country trip.

Bass won the third place from the Middle Atlantic sector last Tuesday at Indian Spring, after a playoff with George Diffenbaugh, Kenwood. The latter stated at the time he would not go and thus Shorey, who scored 76-75 in the sectional qualifying rounds, will make the trip.

It will be Shorey's fifth Open championship. He intends to leave Sunday for the scene of the championship.

Bass could not spare the time from his Clifton Park professional post for the trip, that would force him to be away from his job nearly two weeks.

Robert T. Barnett and Lewis Worsham, Jr., Chevy Chase, the other qualifyers, are virtually sure of making the trip. They will probably leave over the weekend.

4-Ball Contest Scene Is Shifted.

The scene of the all-Indian Spring final for the Maryland State Golf Association four-ball championship with Buddy Sharkey and Arthur Urban opposing Elliott Spicer and LeRoy Sasscer has been shifted to the Four Corners course from the original site, Baltimore Country Club.

In a tune-up round yetserday, Spicer played his home course in 69, two under par, despite an out of bounds on the fourth hole and three-putt green on the seventeenth. Starting with the thirteenth hole, he shot four consecutive birdies, 3—2—4—4. He was out in 36 and back in 33, playing with Lou Harrison and Charles Garland.

The match will start at 1 p. m. on Sunday.

The odds will probably be even money for the title match, with each duo having plenty of backers. Sharkey, playing sensational golf of late, has been aided by Urban's consistent play, as they won four consecutive matches in impressive fashion, including the major upset when they downed Spencer Overton and E. G. Barnes.

Spicer, termed the most improved golfer in the District, and Sasscer, one of the leading amateurs in the State for a number of years, have been teaming perfectly and have numbered Harry Pitt and Tommy Bones, of Manor, and Ernie Caldwell and Gene Bruning, of Hillendale, among their victims.

Page Hufty Enters British Open Golf.

Page Hufty, Chevy Chase amateur ace, has entered the British Open championship and will play in the qualifying rounds at either Deal or Sandwich on July 4. The Open proper is scheduled July 6 to 8 at Deal.

Mr. and Mrs. Hufty will leave on the Queen Mary June 20 for an extended trip through England that will include the world's second foremost links event. Hufty will be the first District entry in the event for several years. He has a successful record as an outstanding amateur golfer, and was semi-finalist in the Chevy Chase Invitation last month.

With Frank Reeside scoring an individual 69, even par, he and J. K. McCammon easily advanced to the final round of the Treasurer's Cup at Chevy Chase yesterday, winning 4 and 3 over Dr. T. M. Foley and Walter White.

Reeside was out in one over par 36 after taking a 5 on the first hole, but playing the next eight in regulation figures. Again on the back nine he started with a bogey, was over par again on the eleventh, but scored birdies on 12, 15 and 17 to come back in 33 for the 69.

Londos

they took deadly swipes at Londos, as they had done to several preliminary boys. It was exciting, if a bit uncomfortable for the principals.

Londos finally clamped a crab-hold on his man soon after the official timer announced the 45-minute mark. He dragged him over near the ropes, and gained added leverage by placing a foot on the lower strand. He had him there, both shoulders touching, for fully 15 seconds, but Bortnick refused to count until the very end, when he removed the offending hoof.

The crowd booed, Bruns objected, and Londos bowed. Why shouldn't he? He won, didn't he?

Advice From an Old-Timer

By Lewis F. Atchison.

The George Abrams-Syd Fishel boxing expedition to the wilds of Philadelphia returned to its native haunts late yesterday afternoon, tired but enriched by two days of intensive training under the alert optic of Lew Tendler, the popular pub-keeper who wielded a wicked pair of gloves in his fighting days, and who has taken a fancy to the District middleweight.

Teddy Yarosz's scheduled public workout at Turner's Arena, meanwhile, failed to materialize as the former titleholder was detained in New York on business. A sizable audience, which turned out in the hope of casting a critical eye on him, and maybe lay a few bob on him in the fight, was disappointed by his failure to appear. Yarosz is trying to coach Champion Freddy Steele into a bout on the home lot at Pittsburgh, early next month, and may succeed if the terms are right. He's trying to iron them out satisfactorily.

Promoter Joe Turner announced that Yarosz will be on exhibition this afternoon without fail, however, and will drill at 2 o'clock.

Immediate results of Abrams hop-skip-and-jump training flight to Philly were three-fold, to hear Fishel tell it. He showed Tendler his newly-found knockout punch; and (B) Lew showed him how to duck in the event said punch is missing Monday night; and (C) he met Mike Jacobs, Tony Galento, Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoter, and had his picture taken with Tendler.

Abrams is reported to have used aforementioned knockout punch on two sparring partners yesterday, knocking the first, a welterweight, clear through the ropes into the Land of Nod. The second, a legitimate middleweight, insisted on butting in clinches and finally aroused Georgie's dander to such a degree the District lad tapped him on the chin.

Fishel insists that Yarosz will fare little better, as Abrams will be instructed to go out and punch him right into the canvas.

Abrams' plan of battle, as formulated at this early date, will be to stay on top of his opponent, crowd him and keep punching. Yarosz, Fishel believes, with Tendler's assent, can't beat a man who comes to him, but has to get his opponent on the run to do his best work.

The District duo also is counting on Abrams' youth to carry him to victory over the 28-year-old veteran. Fishel feels that Yarosz's age is beginning to tell, that he is ready to be "taken" by a younger man, and that Abrams is the lad to take him. Furthermore, he doesn't think Yarosz punches hard enough to hurt his boy, or knows too much about ring generalship for him.

We'll see, Monday night.

Bees Defeat Cubs, 6 to 2

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, June 2.—Those surprising Boston Bees moved within a game and a half of second place and within four games of the league-leading New York Giants today by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 2. The victory was the Bees' twelfth in their last 15 games.

Boston won behind the able relief pitching of Johnny Lanning after the Cubs had driven Milt Shoffner from the box in the second inning. Lanning yielded only five hits in the remaining innings after Shoffner had been touched for that many in the first two. It was Lanning's first victory of the season.

The Bees collected 13 hits off three Chicago hurlers. Clay Bryant, who started, succumbed to the Boston assault in the fifth after giving up six hits and walking that many more. Jack Russell and Charlie Root completed the pitching chores.

Americans Favorites In Walker Cup Play

By the United Press.

St. Andrews, Scotland, June 2. America's Walker Cup golfers tonight were favorites to retain the international trophy for the tenth consecutive time in the two-day biennial series with Britain's team starting tomorrow over the historic wind-swept St. Andrews links.

The Americans will be paced by British Amateur Champion Charley Yates and United States Amateur Titleholder Johnny Goodman, and to many experts the actual playing of four foursome matches and eight singles shaped up as just a necessary formality before shipping the cup back to the United States for another two-year stay.

Forecasts on the margin of the American victory ranged from 9-3 to 7-5, but local golfers hoped the United States would not register the near-clean sweep the team did in 1936 at Pine Valley, N. J., when it won nine matches and halved three others.

The series starts tomorrow with four 36-hole Scotch foursomes, in which each team uses one ball and the players alternate from the tees and all other shots thereafter. The United States was expected to win at least two of these matches—and possibly three—for a good edge when eight singles matches of 36 holes are played Saturday. Pairings for those battles will be made tomorrow night.

1. Johnny Fischer, Cincinnati, U. S. amateur champion in 1936, and Charles Kocsis, Detroit, who were the favorites vs. Harry G. Bentley, British match player, and James Bruen, jr., sensational 18-year-old Irish schoolboy.

2. Johnny Goodman, Omaha, present U. S. amateur champion and 1933 U. S. open winner, and Marvin (Bud) Ward, Olympia, Wash., vs. Gordon Peters, Glasgow insurance salesman and longest driver on the British team, and Hector Thomson of Scotland, 1936 British amateur champion.

3. Charley Yates of Atlanta, new British amateur champion, and Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., finalist in the U. S. amateur last year against Goodman, vs. Alex Kyle, Scottish cloth designer who recently equaled Bobby Jones' 68 record for this course, and Charles Stowell English coal miner. The Americans were favored to take this one.

4. Reynolds Smith, Dallas, Tex., and Freddie Haas, jr., New Orleans, vs. Leonard Crawley, crack redhaired, all-around English athlete, and Frank Pennink, accurate-putting Englishman. The Americans were favored.

Huskies Get Second Lane

Drawings Are Made for Poughkeepsie Race.

New York, June 2 (AP).—The draw for lanes in the annual Poughkeepsie regatta June 27 was made today by stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association.

Junior varsity: No. 1, Navy; No. 2, Cornell; No. 3, Columbia; No. 4, California; No. 5, Washington; No. 6, Syracuse.

Columbia's luck in drawing the No. 3 lane in all three races recalled last year's regatta when Washington rowed to its clean sweep from the same lane.

The regatta will open with the 2-mile freshman race at 2:45 p. m. (Eastern standard). At intervals of one hour will follow 3-mile junior varsity and the 4-mile varsity.

Police Pistol Match.

The two-man pistol team representing No. 8 Precinct yesterday defeated No. 6 Precinct, 545 to 524, in a match on the latter's range. T. R. Stewart, with 282, and J. B. Pruitt, with 263, comprised the winning combination. M. Silverman's 267 and M. Kolby's 257 represented the losers' tally.

Smokers' Test showed Vintage Tobacco was easier on your breath
WHITE OWLS are definitely easier on your breath—scientific tests proved it. And there's a good reason why, too. Every White Owl always has a Vintage-tobacco filler. Nature—not artificial factory processing—made this tobacco exceptionally mild, mellow.
We maintain a vast crop-inspection system—the only known organization of its kind—to locate Vintage tobacco. Even in Vintage years, we classify all filler tobacco into seven grades—and buy only tobacco of the quality of the top three for use in White Owls.
Switch to White Owls today and taste the rich Vintage tobacco . . . then notice how quickly your breath clears.
THE METALLIC NOSE KNOWS
Scientists use a sensitive osmoscope to measure odor . . . to record its intensity and lasting power. Ten popular brands of 5¢ cigars were tested by this machine. White Owl was easier on the breath than all the others. After 20 minutes, all trace of tobacco odor disappeared from the breath of White Owl smokers.

Scout Allow Scores by a Neck in Feature Race at Charles Town

Pays $13.60; Roving Eye Beaten Out

Trainer Brining Saddles Three Winners, Including Daily Double.

By Walter Haight.

A Staff Correspondent.

Charles Town, W. Va., June 2.—This was "Trainer Edward Brining Day" here at the Charles Town Jockey Club's plant, the conditioner accounting for three of the seven races, including both ends of the daily double and the feature event, the Fairfax Purse. In the day's outstanding race, a test of 4½ furlongs, Scoutallow, in the colors of Mrs. H. Horst, came up with a rush to win by a neck from Roving Eye, Six O'Clock was third in the limit field of eight. Scoutallow paid $13.60.

Brining's other winners were Aella, in the second race, and Miss Epe in the third. This combination brought a $15.20 return in the twin wager. Sammy Palumo, who rode Aella, also piloted Scoutallow.

A crowd of 5,000 reported for the sport and saw Roving Eye bound to the front in the opening steps. This gelding opened a good lead and appeared headed for victory, as Pushkin stopped and Six O'Clock failed to look dangerous. However, Palumbo urged Scoutallow into a charge in midstretch and the filly went on to collar Roving Eve just before the pair hit the finish line.

First Fling, even-money favorite in the colors of E. Hackney, had all the best of a very poor start that marked the first race and trotted home ahead of six other maiden juveniles. The Dress Parade colt was out of the gate and on the way when the bell rang. Shooting Scout, half of the J. E. Hughes entry, made futile attempts to catch the choice. Mohongo was third. Eddie Kilgore guided the winner.

Aella found the fast track to her liking and galloped off with the second race to make it two straight for the favorite players. Sammy Palumbo brought her home 8 lengths ahead of Wittekind and Great Loss. The 8-year-old mare paid a $3.40 mutuel and ran in the interests of Mrs. G. Hutchins.

Mrs. G. Hutchins' colors scored again in the third race when Miss Epe turned back her opposition to bring a "double" to Trainer E. Brining. Sea Finland Lady Dunlin were closest at the finish of the 6½-furlong test. Caleb set the early pace but Jockey Buddy Root sent the filly to the front along the backstretch and was ahead the remainder of the way. Backers of Miss Epe collected a $9.60 mutuel.

Royal Veil, breaking from the outside and forced to run wide most of the way, answered Jockey Gene Terhune's drive to win the fourth race in a thrilling blanket finish. The grey gelding downed Adriatic by a head with Blond Reel another head away and Nay Nay forced out of the money by another neck. White Sweets and Castabout, prominent early, stopped. The winner paid $26.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—AELLA, $3.40, $3.00, $2.60; WITTEKIND, $13.40, $7.20; MAXIE BINDER, $4.60.

AELLA, sent to front going to first turn, opened a long lead, saved ground and was not threatened. WITTEKIND went closest to pace and showed good effort. MAXIE BINDER was hard ridden throughout. GREAT LOSS was forced to be pulled up sharply at first turn when crowded and weakened. The others were outrun.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Worthowning from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 3:37. Off 3:38. Winner, Mrs. G. Hutchins' ch. f. (4), by Sea Rock—London Charm. Trained by E. Brining. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:21 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MISS EPE, $9.60, $4.80, $3.20; SEA FINN, $6.20, $3.60; LADY DUNLIN, $3.40.

MISS EPE, close to the pace of CALEB, took command when asked, drew clear and under strong handling, held sway thereafter. SEA FINN, unchecked back going to first turn, saved ground and closed with good courage. WORTHOWNING, off poorly, came around horses to close with good energy. CALEB stopped after setting pace. KALEIDA was hard ridden and weakened.

Daily Double, Aella and Miss Epe, Paid $15.20,

FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 4:05½. Off 4:06½. Winner, H. O. Witt's gr. g. (8), by Herodote—Crepe. Trained by W. T. Allen. Value to winner, $300; second, $66; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:01.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SCOUTALLOW, $13.60, $6.80, $4.60; ROVING EYE, $4.20, $3.20; SIX O'CLOCK, $7.60.

SCOUTALLOW worked her way to contention on outside, came with a rush in stretch and was up in concluding strides while strongly handled. ROVING EYE took command in opening 70 yards, saved ground, but was unable to resist wide rush. SIX O'CLOCK went in thick of contention from start and held on well. STAR MINT was forced wide and closed some ground. PUSHKIN stopped after pressing pace. ANYWOMAN dropped out early.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 5:00. Off 5:02½. Winner, A. S. Garthright's ch. m. (6), by Trojan—Honesty. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $350; second, $75; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:48 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BEST POLICY, $4.80, $3.00, $2.60; AUFOIN, $5.20, $2.80; TULEYRIES STAR, $2.60.

BEST POLICY, first away, opened a long lead, saved ground, but had to be driven at end to withstand closing bid of AUFOIN. Latter went forwardly throughout and closed gamely. TULEYRIES STAR weakened after being closest to pace most of way. COUNTER PASS closed some ground in late stages. JAMES BOY trailed from start and pulled up early.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 5:30. Off 5:32. Winner, L. C. Smithson's blk. f. (4), by Swift and Sure—Shenanigan. Trained by P. L. James. Value to winner, $350; second, $75; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:51 3-5. (New track record.)

Dean at M. I. T. Will Succeed Dr. Merriam

Noted Engineer Chosen President of Carnegie Institution.

He was named at a special meeting of the board of trustees in New York City to succeed Dr. John C. Merriam, president for the past 18 years. Dr. Merriam resigned last December effective the end of the year. He will continue his studies in paleontology and history.

Dr. Bush is known particularly in the scientific world for the invention and development of the differential analyzer, which solves in a few hours equations which would take years of calculation by paper and pencil.

A number of important scientific problems have been aided by assistance of the analyzer, among them computation of paths of cosmic rays, analysis of properties of spectral lines and measurement of the wave length of hydrogen molecules.

Dr. Bush was born in Everett, Mass., in 1890, and took his bachelor's and master's degrees at Tufts College. He is a doctor of engineering of M. I. T. and Harvard University and a doctor of science (Tufts).

He was assistant professor of electrical engineering at M. I. T. researcher on submarine detection for the Navy, consultant with the American Radio and Research Corp.

Dr. Bush will assume the presidency on January 1, 1939.

Baptists Launch $750,000 Campaign

The launching of a campaign for $750,000 for missionary work by the Northern Baptists at their recent convention in Milwaukee was described last night at the First Baptist Church by its pastor, Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, who has just returned after attending that conclave, as well as the Southern convention in Richmond, Va.

Designated as the Judson Fellowship, in honor of the first American missionary to foreign lands—Adoniram Judson—who sailed for Burma in 1810, the drive will seek to enlist the financial aid of 150,000 Northern Baptists.

Capital Night Clubs

By Mary Harris

Not to start anything, but there seems to be some difference of opinion among leading maestros as to what will be summer's hit number. Sidney, of the Mayflower, stands up for that spang-new "I Married An Angel," claiming it will sweep all before it. Steve Le Sieur (Powhatan Roof) says "Love Walked In" will sprint through June. Henry Halstead, justifier of Glen Echo's new "big name band" policy, vows that "Don't Be That Way" top them all.

• • • •

Singer Helen Forrest at the Madrillon begins where a lot of other canaries leave off. She's really a honey. There's no truth to that rumor about Helen being engaged to Drummer Al Spiel, of Johnny Shaw's Madrillon crew. It's just a sweet, sweet friendship. Where did we hear that one before?

• • • •

That surrealistic blaze of color on the bandstand at Wardman's Metronome Room is just Paul Kain's necktie. But comment on it doesn't ruffle Paul's feathers a mite. Y'see it's an original Charvet number and set back the Kain finances seven bucks. That's Paul's story. Proving that Mrs. Kain's little lad is gifted with a superior wackiness in more ways than musically.

• • • •

Nostalgia is more prevalent than insomnia. If you don't believe it, just watch that dreamy look waver up in the eyes of Mayfair customers when Chris Tremayne swings onto those ole heart-breakers, "Bird in a Gilded Cage" and "Rings on My Fingers, Bells on My Toes." Dio Dato and Perry Martin bang the daylights out of the piano in the ultra-classical and neo-classical manner. And don't ask us what we mean.

• • • •

The secret of Al Norton's new Dixieland combo at the Lotus is that it rings in a sax, a trumpet and a trombone instead of the familiar three saxes. And whata lift it gives you and your dogs!

Ben Omar's locomotive number will give you a start. So will those revealing blue net pyjammies worn by dancer Elaine Georgie; also Marian Dawn's song about the lass who loves the butcher boy, the baker boy and the fisher boy. Well, a gal must have groceries.

• • • •

We have it from a confidential source that Lou Berman, who dipsy-doodles the drums in Hamilton's Rainbow Room, wishes that he were a bass player. He's recently taken up riding and says that this stuff about the English post being easy on the anatomy is strictly the phonus bollonus.

• • • •

Among the more endearing of the town's thrills is hearing Eve (King Cole Room) Knight singing "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls." Especially if you're cuddling one of those King Cole planters' punches made with two kindsa rum.

• • • •

Vincente del Garza, King Cole's singing torreador, is a hot number on the radio. He warbles over the Columbia network every Tuesday and is on WJSV on Sundays.

• • • •

Playing rough is according to the rule—if you get as many laughs as Clarke and Curtis reap at Bamboo Gardens. On the other side are Kitty Nolan and Kathryn Woodward, who rhumba gently but luringly.

Astounding but delightful in a night club is pianist Abe Clar's playing of Chopin's "Fantasie Impromptu." Just showing that Lou Franco's band is up to anything.

• • • •

Tonight's the "formal opening" of Show Boat, out on the road to Laurel. But we have a hunch it will be plenty informal and gay. How could anyone be formal with Sally Smith (sweet and sassy) tossing out any tune your little heart desires? Also consider that the Three Dees (ex-Blue Grotto) will be offering danceable and listenable music.

• • • •

Dancing clogs all up when "Tiny" Meeker on the Powhatan Roof starts to exhale "Mamma Don't Want Any Bass Fiddlin' in Here." Everybody stops their own truckin' to watch "Tiny" go to town. Seen stepping to the Steve Le Sieur music moderne was Corinne Griffith, star of the silent screen, now Mrs. George Marshall, wearing a tiny hat with a big posy smack on its top.

• • • •

• • • •

Dude Wrangler Dick Nash (now swinging a low-down lasso on the Shoreham Terrace) has a tempting job offer. Congressman Richard M. Kleberg, whose Texas ranch is the biggest in the world, took an eyeful of Dick the other eve and said: "Boy, I wish you'd come down and go to work at my Corpus Christi place. You're no dude wrangler. You're a cowboy."

• • • •

Margaret Reed, black-eyed swingstress with Henry Halstead's rhythm-ripping band at Glen Echo, has been a "ghost singer" for many of Hollywood's biggest stars. Thus, last time you heard Carole Lombard sing you really heard little Margie.

Next week Glen Echo's Spanish ballroom goes sweetie-swingie with Tom Gentry's Orchestra, also Singer Jeanne Carroll, who has "what it takes" and plus, according to our war correspondent. Never forget that the Spanish ballroom is danceable, hot or cold, wet or dry. Controlled ventilation's the answer. 'S marvelous.

For pleasing profanity may we commend "That Word, Hell" as done by "We Two" at Annapolis' Anchor Room. It's a lesson in melodious cussing to be taken to heart. Properly absorbed, it will enable you to use the darnedest language and hear nothing but applause. (Dale Carnegie, please note.)

• • • •

We hear that a medal (Carnegie?) is to be struck off for Oscar of the Hi-Hat in recognition of his invention of that boon to humanity, the two-bit price between breakfast and dinner time for any drink on the list, a fountain in the desert just before pay day, a help any time.

• • • •

Who ever heard of eating crawfish Norfolk style (it's really Southern lobster and we'll back it against any Maine crustacean) out in the countryside. Thanks to Tom O'Donnell and his new Griffith Farms it can be done. Add on Happy Walker's Saturday night harmonies and one and all will be done up Norfolk style, the best, we assure you.

3 Auto Makers Offer Proposal To End 'Abuses'

Shelving of Anti-Trust Indictments Sought by Manufacturers.

By the United Press.

Counsel for three major motor companies have approached the Department of Justice with a plan which eventually may lead to the shelving of indictments against them on Federal antitrust charges, officials disclosed last night.

Attorneys for the Ford Motor Co., General Motors Co. and Chrysler Corporation have conferred with Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold on a plan to eliminate "abuses" of which they are accused, a department spokesman said.

The indictments, returned last Friday by a Federal grand jury in South Bend, Ind., named the corporations, their affiliated finance companies and 59 executives. They were charged with conspiring to promote monopoly by forcing dealers to finance automobile sales through the affiliated finance groups.

Details of the conferences with Arnold were not revealed, but it was learned they were in keeping with the policy of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings that the department would not "close the door" to a satisfactory settlement of antitrust charges out of court.

Officials explained that no decision had been reached and emphasized Cummings' recent statement that consent settlements would not be solicited by the department.

Bishop Confirms Widow and 8 of Her 10 Children

Mrs. Lillian Morris, Glen Echo Heights widow, and eight of her ten children, including two sets of twins, were among the class of 33 persons confirmed last night at the Chapel of the Holy Redeemer by Bishop Freeman. More than 300 persons attended, and many were unable to gain admittance.

Bishop Freeman, in his address to the class and congregation, asserted that "he shared with them the realization that a new church was urgently needed, and hoped that new and larger quarters would soon be obtained."

In addition to the Holy Redeemer class presented by the Rev. M. M. Perkins, rector, a group from St. John's Church in Georgetown was presented by the Rev. F. Bland Tucker, its rector. The bishop was assisted by the Rev. Raymond L. Wolven, his chaplain. After the service a reception was held in the parish hall.

Postlude

By Ray C. B. Brown.

Robert Frederick Freund directs the spring concert of the Farm Credit Chorus Thursday night in Conference Room B, Department of Labor Building. Accompanist, Grace Keller Gaumnitz. Chorus soloist, Bessie Jordan; guest soloists, George K. Perkins, violin; Charles A. Conrard, guitar.

Unpretentious both in size and in musical ambition, the Farm Credit Chorus of mixed voices gave a pleasant concert last evening for a small and friendly audience. It was evident that this group enjoys singing for its own sake, for there was no striving for effect. One felt that the program was not so much a public display as a proffered sharing of the delights of making music.

The best singing, in tonal blending as well as in balance of parts, was done a cappella in the first two numbers, the Russian folksong, "Fireflies," and the mountain song, "He's Gone Away." These were intoned with a simplicity and a naturalness that had a peculiar charm. The accompanied compositions included Charles' "Sweet Song of Long Ago," Sokolov's "Spring," Edwards' "By the Bend of the River," Flotow's "May Gentle Sleep Fall O'er Thee," and choruses from operettas by Victor Herbert and Sigmund Romberg.

Bessie Jordan, the soprano soloist, contributed Rubinstein's "Since I First Met Thee," Coates' "I Heard You Singing" and Whelpley's "The Nightingale Has a Lyre of Gold." Her voice has a firm timbre, resonant without a trace of vibrato, and a good quality of rounded tone. One noticed, however, a remediable tendency to attack the high notes from below.

The guest soloists, George K. Perkins and Charles A. Conrard, presented in transcriptions of Oley Speaks' "Sylvia" and Ethelbert Nevin's "Mighty Lak a Rose," the relatively rare instrumental combination of violin and guitar.

Diggs to Speak At Convention Of D.C. Bankers

Acting Comptroller of the Currency Will Talk on Bank Management.

By Thomas M. Cahill.

In the interesting program which has been arranged Marshall R. Diggs, acting comptroller of the currency, will make the principal address at the second session of the District of Columbia Bankers Association's twentieth annual convention at Hot Springs, Va., on Friday, June 10. Secretary Frederick P. H. Siddons, American Security & Trust Co., who is chairman of the program committee for the meeting, announces Mr. Diggs will speak on the general subject of bank management.

At the same session of the convention there will be an address by Arthur J. Linn, president of the Association of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers, and comptroller of Hamilton National Bank, whose subject, "Twenty Years of Banking in the District of Columbia" was recently announced.

The report of the Bankers Association taxation committee by its chairman, Lanier P. McLachlen, president of the McLachlen Banking Corporation, and that of Clara McGrath, manager of the credit bureau of the association, will also be made. This session will close with presentations of resolutions without debate and announcements by first vice president, Hilleary G. Hoskinson, of the association. It is the custom of the organization to have various officers preside at the different sessions, and at this one Mr. Hoskinson, who is a vice president of Riggs National Bank, will be in charge.

Acting Comptroller of the Currency Diggs was born in Paris, Tenn., and his youth was spent in Texas and Oklahoma. He was graduated from Epworth University, now Oklahoma City University, and afterwards attended Yale Law School. He practiced law for a number of years in Chicago prior to the World War.

Captain in War.

When this country became involved in the war Mr. Diggs entered the officers' training camp at Leon Springs, Tex.; was commissioned a first lieutenant of infantry, and served as instructor in subsequent camps. He was promoted to captaincy before the end of the conflict. After his discharge from the Army and until 1921, he was engaged in the oil and automobile business in Dallas, Tex.

He then accepted a position as vice president and general manager of the Walraven Book Cover Co., and in 1923 moved to Chicago, where he developed a national sales and advertising business, dealing largely with financial institutions. He returned to Dallas in 1928, and with others organized the Southwestern Sewer Co., of which concern he became vice president and general manager.

He was holding both positions when, in January, 1934, he accepted an appointment as executive assistant to J. F. T. O'Connor, then Comptroller of the Currency, in his capacity as ex-officio member of the board of directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

He served in this office until January 15, 1938, when he was appointed deputy comptroller of the currency. Since Mr. O'Connor's

Omissions of Dividends Rise

New York, June 2 (AP).—Dividend omissions multiplied today as corporate directors acted to conserve cash.

Granite City Steel Co., Granite City, Ill., announced no action had been taken on the common stock. Previously a quarterly payment of 12½ cents was made.

Directors of Mangel Stores Corporation, operating a chain of women's apparel stores in the East, Middle West and South, took no action on the quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the preferred stock due now.

No action was taken on the common stock dividend by directors of the Flintkote Co., operating roofing plants in many cities. The previous payment was 25 cents in December.

Dividends also were passed on common stock of the General Time Instruments Corporation, which paid 15 cents a share in April on the common stock of DeJay Stores, Inc., and on the capital stock of Sylvania Industrial Corporation, maker of wrapping materials.

Directors of the Hercules Motor Corporation, with plants at Canton, Ohio, and Muskegon, Mich., passed the common dividend due at this time.

Directors of Locke Steel Chain Co. today declared an extra dividend of 10 cents, together with the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents, on common stock, both payable June 25 to holders of record June 13. Plant is at Bridgeport, Conn.

Brokers' Loans Rise $25,000,000 in Week

By the Associated Press.

The Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday that last week's loans to brokers and dealers on securities held by reporting member banks in New York City totaled $472,000,000. The week ended Wednesday and the total represented an increase of $25,000,000 when compared with the previous week.

Loans for the corresponding week a year ago totaled $1,140,000,000.

Wheat Rises Despite Large Crop Estimate

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, June 2.—Six authoritative trade estimates indicated that the 1938 domestic harvest would be the largest ever known, Chicago wheat prices today scored fractional net gains.

The average of the six estimates was 1,077,000,000 bushels, including an average estimate of 810,000,000 bushels of winter wheat. In contrast was the previous record crop in 1915 that both for winter and spring totaled 1,009,000,000 bushels.

Helping the price advances here, which at one stage amounted to 1¼ cents, were North American export purchases of more than 500,000 bushels, largely United States hard winter and Pacific Coast soft wheat, to go to Great Britain, Belgium and Holland. New 5-cent jumps of Winnipeg quotations served also as a stimulus.

At the close Chicago wheat futures were ⅜@¾ above yesterday's finish, July 69¼@69⅝, September 70⅜@70½; corn showing 1½@1⅞ bulge, July 57⅛@57¼, September 57⅞@58; oats 1 cent to 1¼ up; rye unchanged to ½ cent advance, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents higher.

World Gold Output Doubles Since 1929

New York, June 2 (AP).—Gold production in the United States and its territories totaled 1,400,000 fine ounces for the first four months of this year, an increase of 105,000 fine ounces over the total for the corresponding period of 1937, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics announced today. The steady increase in aggregate gold output, which has about doubled since 1929, was shown also in world production figures, excluding Russia, which totaled 9,900,000 ounces for the first four months. This was 438,000 ounces greater than for the like period of 1937.

The Market

Stocks Close Irregularly Higher; U. S. Government Bonds Gain; Wheat Advances.

New York, June 2.

Stocks closed irregularly higher in another half-million-share day, with a large portion of the business done in the last hour. Government bonds moved up sharply and commodities were steady. Dollars were shaded a little. July wheat recovered ¾ of a cent to 69⅝ cents a bushel.

Interest in financial markets was greater in the bond department than in stocks. Stocks had nothing in particular to excite them, but the Secretary of the Treasury's promise to confine operations on the June 15 tax date to refunding maturing obligations seemed to catch the market by surprise. At any rate the Secretary's assurance that no new cash would be raised and his suggestion that the money market would continue to be pegged gave the Government bond division a decided fillip. Prices rose strongly, and the repercussion on other high-grade bonds was favorable.

While bonds with unquestioned security as to interest payments and principle are looking hopefully to a long period of low money rates, business shows no sign of using much new money. Much of the $100,000,000 obtained today by the United States Steel Corporation from the bond market will be used to retire bank loans, which will trickle into Government bonds, and to provide a cash cushion against a long depression.

Utilities.

Steel common had difficulty in keeping above water, but most leading stocks worked a little higher. Public utilities sold around their worst shortly before the message of cheer came from the President, after which they had a bit of a flurry that lifted prices a fraction to a point or so. The market in general did not take the matter too seriously, having heard many a song of the old fashioned and of the modern swing type.

Midweek business statistics showed no change in the situation. The Iron Age spoke of the 25 per cent capacity operations of the steel industry and the dull outlook. In almost no quarter can any business manager be found who can see anything much in the near future, but that needn't slaughter all hope, for a year ago few of the country's leading business executives could see anything that should bring a business slump, and a great many of them said so quite positively.

Presumably Congress shortly will tire of beating around the bush and give the President a few billions to spend before the elections. Even if so-called pump-priming could do any good, the amount that will be spent, vast though it will be, will not be enough unless accompanied by a great increase in private spending. Business isn't likely to increase its outlay much as long as, on one hand, war clouds hover over Europe and, on the other hand, the Administration continues to frown on attempts of self-help.

Co-operation.

There was some indication today that the Government might be getting ready to co-operate with itself—that is, to supplement its pump-priming with a genial smile or two for business, something which costs nothing and may do a powerful lot of good. The President, it seems, is willing to let public utilities live for a while. Through Senator Barkley he was reported to have said that he would refrain from forcing private utilities out of business through municipal loans of Federal funds, but a string or two was attached. Even so, real evidence of a change of heart toward the public utility industry would do much to restore business confidence and make pump-priming unnecessary.

Scramble for Treasurys.

Secretary Morgenthau's announcement of Treasury plans for the June 15 financing started a scramble for Treasury securities which not only carried the whole list to new high prices for 1938, but in some instances close to the 1937 highs. The Secretary made it clear that the June 15 financing would be confined to refunding the $818,000,000 of Treasury notes then falling due. The $250,000,000 of special Treasury bills maturing at the same time will be paid in cash out of tax collections. The market had generally expected that the Treasury would take advantage of low yields on Federal bonds to raise some new money. The Treasury forecast that it would continue to "dope" the money market with excess reserves, for, while the Treasury will continue to issue $100,000,000 of new bills weekly, that amount is $50,000,000 short of maturities each week.

Alleghany.

Today marks the close of the 30-day-grace period following the last quarterly appraisal of Alleghany bond collateral by the Guaranty Trust. Unless the corporation deposits several millions in cash or collateral before the close of business to bring collateral value up to 150 per cent of the face value of the bonds within this grace period, the bonds are technically in default and voting rights of the Chesapeake Corporation stock deposited behind the bonds goes to the Guaranty Trust until the default is cured. Since no court decision has been made in the suit over voting rights for the previous quarter, the question becomes moot after today. Alleghany Corporation got nothing much but a bill for attorneys' services out of the suit.

Copper.

The leading copper producers apparently have decided to dig in at the present price line, or rather to stop digging and try to hold copper at 9 cents a pound by shutting off further production. Kennecott has announced a complete shutdown of its mines in this country and Anaconda a short time ago began to close up mines. Some smaller mines will continue to operate, no doubt, on at least a reduced scale. Domestic stocks of copper have been piling up for some time as domestic consumption has fallen with the depressed state of industry and particularly with the uncertainty over the future for public utilities. Foreign takings of copper have been excellent, but that metal has been supplied in good part from the South American mines of Anaconda, Kennecott and other American companies and from South African output. The Government, should it not like the attempt of copper producers to copy the program the New Deal uses in managing farm output and agricultural prices, might cut the tariff on copper, but that is highly unlikely.

Steel Debentures Sell at a Premium

New York, June 2 (AP).—The new issue of $100,000,000 3¼ per cent debentures of United States Steel Corporation, offered at par, quickly commanded a premium today and closed at 102¼ bid 102½ asked. It was the largest industrial flotation since the 1929-30 period. At the offices of Morgan Stanley & Co., chief underwriter of the issue, it was said that the debentures largely attracted the attention of banks—bulging with idle money — or endowment funds, and large private investors.

Holiday Cuts Bank Clearings For This Week

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 2.—Turnover at banks this week was curtailed by Memorial Day, which was observed as a holiday in most parts of the country.

Total transactions again receded in the week-to-week comparison, thus causing the twenty-ninth consecutive dip from the level of the corresponding week of the year preceding.

Bank clearings for the 22 leading cities of the United States for the five-day week ended Wednesday, June 1, amounted to $4,056,105,000, a loss of 23.1 per cent compared with the $5,284,141,000 for the like 1937 period. This contrasted with a decrease of 17.6 per cent in the similar comparison for the May 25 week.

New York clearings dropped 25.5 per cent from $3,304,945,000 last year to $2,460,727,000 for the current period. Total for the 21 cities outside of New York fell to $1,595,378,000, or 19.1 per cent less than the $1,971,351,000 a year ago. Clearings for the June 1 period shrank $379,752,000 from the aggregate recorded for the May 25 week.

Cotton Drops After Advance

New York, June 2 (AP).—Early advances in cotton today were lost when scattered liquidation appeared and demand proved slow. October reacted from 8.00 to 7.85 and closed at 7.89, with last prices 4 to 5 points net lower.

The market opened 4 to 7 points higher in sympathy with steadier Liverpool cables. Trade price fixing and foreign buying orders on balance helped the tone but the initial advance attracted selling by locals, News Orleans and Liverpool. Prices drifted irregularly lower in the absence of aggressive demand.

Steel Output Lowest Since October, 1934

Pittsburgh Is Hardest Hit, With Operations Down to 18 Per Cent.

New York, June 2.—"Steel ingot production, estimated this week at 25 per cent of the industry's capacity, down three points from last week, is the lowest since October, 1934," says Iron Age today in its weekly summary, which adds: "Although steel output was on a lower basis during the greater part of the depression year, 1932, it was at a lesser rate than this week in only four months of 1933 and two months of 1934.

"Pittsburgh has been hardest hit this week in operations, having dropped four points to 18 per cent. While the Chicago area fell 5½ points to 23 per cent, it still is well above Pittsburgh. The Youngstown district is five points lower at 19 per cent, the Wheeling-Weirton is down to 47 per cent from 54 and eastern Pennsylvania is at 21 per cent.

"And," he added, "this is the first perfect night's sleep I have ever had on a train!"

Yes, with Diesel power, you fairly glide over the rails. So quietly and so smoothly—you have a feeling that the train is being pulled without effort. No switching of engines or cars enroute. No intermediate passenger stops. Nothing to disturb your rest.

Boston Wool Market.

Boston, June 2 (AP).—(United States Department of Agriculture)—Spot trade in the Boston market today was very slow. A few lines of wool were receiving occasional calls for limited quantities. Good French combing, fine territory wools in original bag, spot Boston, brought around 60 to 62 cents, scoured basis. Spot 12-month Texas wools also were moved occasionally at 60 to 62 cents, scoured basis. These prices were paid by users, however, only when the wools were urgently needed. Near-future needs were being covered by purchases from the West, where wools were available at prices below the parity of Boston spot prices.

Lehman Saves Slayer From Electric Chair

Albany, N. Y., June 2 (U.P.).—Gov. Lehman tonight commuted to life imprisonment the sentence of Fred J. Hull, 54, a few hours before his scheduled electrocution in Sing Sing Prison for the murder of Samuel Drukman. The Governor explained the court of appeals had split, 5 to 2, in affirming Hull's first-degree murder conviction.

300 Fellow-Workers Hold Carnival for Veteran Labor Foreman, Presenting Him Fishing Rod and Reel.

From high officials down to colored charwomen, his employes gathered 'round not because the principal labor foreman in the Commerce-Labor-ICC building group was in the select half-century employe class but because they love him.

After Mr. Ryan had made his supervisory rounds yesterday for the last time he might have been called into the office of A. W. Clime, superintendent of the building group, and presented with a suitcase or a smoking set in the presence of a few fellow workers. That is often done.

But the charwomen and the lawn tenders and the window washers and the others to whom Mr. King was the boss man would have none of that. For that matter, neither would Mr. Clime nor the redoubtable Capt. E. J. Sullivan, captain of the guard, nor Aquarium Director Fred Orsinger.

So "Pop" Ryan was led to the government auditorium at 4:30 p. m. yesterday. He found most of the 300 men and women who worked under him and scores of other admirers, including Charles A. Peters, jr., assistant director of the National Park Service in charge of Federal buildings.

In the center of the lobby stood a throne. As "Pop" reigned as king, Mr. Clime said a few words and then a colored woman named Sadie handed her retiring boss a fishing reel and made a nice speech. A colored man presented "Pop" with a rod and also made a nice speech.

The 69-year-old man's eyes were getting misty when Fred Orsinger and an accomplice injected comic relief by tendering "Pop" a great rod and reel, which could have done for Paul Bunyan, plus a cast iron catfish. Then someone wheeled in the golden key of friendship which proved to contain hundreds of pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters.

Mr. Ryan and his wife live at 701 Farragut street northwest. They have several children. "Pop's" retirement is for age. He will be 70 on June 27. Accumulated leave permitted him to end his duties yesterday, though the retirement doesn't take effect until the last of July.

CERTIFICATE OF CHANGE OF CORPORATE NAME.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY that, at a meeting of the Board of Trustees (the same constituting also the Board of Directors) of the T. J. Shryock Lumber Co. of Washington, Inc., a corporation organized on June 29, 1927, under the laws of the District of Columbia, the following resolution was adopted: "RESOLVED, that the Board of Trustees hereby declare that change in the name of the corporation from T. J. Shryock Lumber Co. of Washington, Inc., to Martin Wiegand, Inc., is advisable." THIS IS TO FURTHER CERTIFY that at a meeting of the stockholders called to take action thereon, all stockholders having waived notice thereof, all stockholders being present in person and voting thereat, more than two-thirds of all of the stockholders voted in favor of said resolution and in favor of such a change in the name of the corporation, and at said meeting of said stockholders, the following resolution was unanimously adopted: "RESOLVED, that the corporate name of this corporation be changed from T. J. Shryock Lumber Co. of Washington, Inc., to Martin Wiegand, Inc."

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF the said T. J. Shryock Lumber Co. of Washington, Inc., a corporation under the laws of the District of Columbia, aforesaid, hath on this, the 11th day of May, 1938, caused these presents to be signed by its corporate name by Henry M. Wiegand, its President, and A. Barbara Wiegand, its Secretary, and its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed and does hereby appoint Henry M. Wiegand its true and lawful attorney-in-fact to appear before any officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds and to acknowledge these presents as its act and deed.

T. J. SHRYOCK LUMBER CO. OF WASHINGTON, INC.

By (S) Henry M. Wiegand, President.
(S) A. Barbara Wiegand, Secretary.
(Corporate Seal.)

District of Columbia, ss:

I, Thomas P. Brown, a notary public in and for the District of Columbia, aforesaid, do hereby certify that Henry M. Wiegand, who is personally well known to me as the person named as attorney-in-fact in the aforegoing instrument bearing date on the 11th day of May, 1938, and hereto annexed, personally appeared before me in said District and as attorney-in-fact aforesaid and by virtue of the authority vested in him by said instrument, acknowledged the same to be the act and deed of T. J. Shryock Lumber Co. of Washington, Inc.

Given under my hand and seal this 11th day of May, 1938.

(S) THOMAS P. BROWN.
Notary Public, D. C. Notarial Seal.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE undersigned, being all of the members of a Limited Partnership formed pursuant to the laws of the State of New York, and desiring to do business in the District of Columbia as a Limited Partnership, have filed a certificate of Limited Partnership in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia; that the firm name of said partnership is G. M.-P. Murphy & Company; that the business intended to be transacted by said partnership is (a) buying or otherwise acquiring, selling or otherwise disposing of, and in any manner dealing, whether on behalf of the partnership or for the account of others, in stocks, bonds or other securities and property; (b) transacting a general securities and brokerage business such as is ordinarily conducted by New York Stock Exchange firms and conforming to the constitution and rules of the said New York Stock Exchange; (c) underwriting or subscribing for, or assisting to procure underwritings or subscriptions for, stocks, bonds or other securities and/or otherwise financing or assisting to procure the financing of corporate or other enterprises; that Grayson M.-P. Murphy ceased to be a member of said partnership on October 18, 1937, the date of his death, and Gerald C. Maxwell ceased to be a member of said partnership on April 30, 1938; that Otis A. Glazebrook, Jr., Edward J. O. McDonnell, Alfonso P. Villa, John G. Pennypacker, William P. T. Preston, James D. Sawyer, Charles S. Sargent, J. Sawyer Wilson, Jr., Charles H. Baetjer, Don M. Kelley, George A. Garrett and John E. Parker are general partners; that P. Erskine Wood, Frederick Osborn, Grayson M.-P. Murphy, Jr., and Walter Russell Herrick are special partners; that the special partners have contributed as capital to the common stock of the co-partnership the following amounts: P. Erskine Wood, $300,000; Frederick Osborn, $50,000; Grayson M.-P. Murphy, Jr., $50,000, and Walter Russell Herrick, $200,000; and Frederick Osborn has also contributed as capital to said common stock cash, securities and/or other property having actual and agreed values aggregating $62,500; and that the term of the partnership is to end at the close of business on June 30, 1939, subject to earlier termination in certain contingencies. The special partners will be entitled to the return of their contributions upon termination of the partnership. In addition, the partnership agreement provides that part or all of the contribution of each special partner may be withdrawn upon his death or retirement from the partnership or on certain other contingencies, but that such withdrawal shall not be made unless and until this certificate shall have been cancelled or so amended as to set forth such withdrawal.

Bob Burns Says—

I don't believe that anything has aided world progress more than that urge that strong men get to go places and do things.

The other day my Uncle Unie confessed to Aunt Boo that for years he had been savin' his money to take a trip to Mount Vernon and he says, "At last I've got it and I can satisfy my life-long desire." Aunt Boo says, "Well, the weather's pretty bad—why can't we get some post-cards of Mount Vernon and send 'em to our friends?"

Uncle Unie scoffed at the idea. He says, "Men don't travel that distance for such a silly thing as sending post-cards!" and she says, "Well, why do you want to go to Mount Vernon?" Uncle Unie says, "Well, for one thing I want'a scratch my name on George Washington's tomb."

GREAT SCOTT! WINSLOW--WE WERE THINKING THE SPIES HAD POLISHED YOU OFF!
NOT YET, SIR-- BUT I'VE JUST VISITED THEIR HEADQUARTERS
I'LL PUT IT UNDER OBSERVATION AT ONCE--WHERE IS THE PLACE?
SORRY, ADMIRAL--BUT I DON'T KNOW!
WHAT?
IT'S A FACT, SIR-- I'M SURE IT'S INSIDE THE CITY LIMITS BUT I MADE THE ROUND-TRIP BLINDFOLDED

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

EVERYONE OUT, CHIEF?
I HOPE SO—I CAN'T SEND ANY MEN IN THERE NOW!
I CAN SEE ACROSS FROM THE BUILDING NEXT DOOR—IF THERE'S ANYONE THERE—
YOU—YOU CAN GET YOUR STORY FROM HERE—THAT BUILDING MAY CATCH ANY MINUTE
NONSENSE—I'VE GOT TO SEE IF EVERYONE'S OUT—I'M NOT AFRAID!
OH, I'M NOT EITHER AFRAID—EXCEPT FOR YOU, JANE—I'M ONLY AFRAID FOR YOU!
